JOBS INCREASE; WAGES RISE

CODE IMPOSED, JOHNSON SAYS OF STEEL MEN

Taylor and Schwab See President.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today again threw his weight into the national recovery push in order to get steel and the other basic industries off dead center.

At a White House meeting the President conferred at length with Myron Taylor, chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation, and Charles M. Schwab, chairman of Bethlehem Steel. The discussion was heralded as a "big stick" session, with the chief executive using his influence to bring the recalcitrant steel corporations into agreement under a code of fair competition.

Officials of the recovery administration, headed by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, in the meantime used every effort to drive ahead with the other basic codes —oil, coal, and automobiles.

Form Basic Codes First.

They are aware that once they have succeeded in gaining adoption of codes for these four basic industries they will be over one of their worst humps. Until they achieve this success the whole recovery program hangs in the balance.

At an informal press conference late in the day Gen. Johnson served notice that unless the basic industries can agree among themselves upon a code they will have a code forced upon them. The general, having likened the negotiations over the steel code to a poker game, continued:

"And I'm not afraid to 'call.' You want to remember the procedure in this business. The government drafts a code along the lines it thinks right and then asks the industry for agreement. But even if the industry doesn't agree the government's code is the code and will be imposed as such.

Johnson "Still Trying."

"Thus far we've been able to get agreement from the industries. I'm still trying for an agreement with the steel people. I'd like to keep my record clean."

What was said between the President and the two steel corporation chairmen was not made public. The steel men hustled away from the meeting and took train for New York.

A short time later Secretary of Labor Perkins announced that, in an attempt to hasten an agreement on the steel code, experts and statisticians for operators and for the labor advisory board of the recovery administration would hold a special meeting to try to iron out differences.

There was still some rumbling today over yesterday's refusal of the steel operators to meet with William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor and labor adviser in the steel code negotiations. Recovery administration officials, however, were anxious to gloss the incident over by terming it a "regrettable incident best forgotten."

If asked by Gov. Johnson to attend further steel code conference, the labor federation president said that "of course he would do so."

Nine Codes Approved.

Gas appliance industry—40 hours a week; minimum wages for factory or mechanical workers, 35 cents an hour.

Folding box manufacturing industry —40 hours a week; minimum wages for factory or mechanical workers, 40 cents an hour in the north and 30 cents in the south.

Book Manufacturers' Institute, Inc. —40 hours a week; minimum wages of President's agreement.

Farm equipment—40 hours a week; hours for store operation not to be reduced below 52; minimum wages of 40 cents an hour in cities of more than 1,000,000 population; 30 cents in southern states, and in all other territories, 35 cents.

Bleached shellac—40 hours a week; 40 cents an hour minimum wages.

Shovel, dragline, and crane industry —40 hours a week; minimum wages of 35 cents an hour for factory or mechanical workers.

Lead industry—40 hours a week, with hoist men, power house men, and pump men in the mining division exempted; 35 cents an hour minimum wages.

Chain industry—40 hours a week; minimum wages of 40 cents an hour for male workers and 30 cents for female.

U. S. EMPOWERS POLICE TO PUSH KIDNAPER HUNT

Squads Carry Search Into Wisconsin.

The hunt for the remnants of the Touhy gang went forward unabated yesterday, with the search spreading to three counties of southeastern Wisconsin.

Stung by the result of Tuesday's fiasco, in which two of the gang escaped from Cook county with a package of bogus money after being trapped by 250 policemen and two airplanes, Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker got federal commissions for his men to make the search an interstate affair.

Sixty policemen, picked from the anti-kidnap force of Lieut. Andrew Barry, were sent on the assignment. They were led by Lieut. Barry and accompanied by agents of the United States bureau of investigation.

Search Lasts All Day.

All day long the squads searched Racine, Kenosha, and Walworth counties, covering such resorts as Wheatland, Spring Lake, Silver Lake, Twin Lakes, Lake Como, Lake Geneva, and Elkhorn. It was in Elkhorn that the leader of the gang, Roger Touhy, and three of his men fell into the hands of a constable a few weeks ago to be subsequently indicted by a federal grand jury for the kidnaping of the millionaire St. Paul brewer, William Hamm Jr.

In Chicago, meanwhile, a heavy guard was posted at the hotel of the gang's involuntary "angel," Jake Factor. Having collected $50,000 ransom for Factor's son, Jerome, and another $70,000 for Factor's own ransom, the gang apparently supposed that the millionaire speculator was good for a touch periodically.

Report Factor Threatened.

It was this conjecture by the gang that led to the laying of the police trap and, after the trap was sprung too late, to the placing of a guard around his hotel. Following the escape of the extortion pair, to whom two disguised policemen passed a bogus ransom package, Factor was reported to have received a death threat at his home. Thereafter the guard was posted.

While admitting his chagrin over the whole affair, Chief Schoemaker maintained that some good had resulted. In the passing of the package, he said, the policemen, disguised respectively as a Checker cab driver and a Western Union messenger, had recognized the faces of the two gangsters.

The chief refused to disclose the identities of the fugitives, but indicated that if the new search failed their identification by the policemen would serve to keep them banished permanently from Chicago.

Less Than $100 in Package.

Disputing reports that Factor had supplied a considerable sum of real cash for inclusion in the ransom package, Sergt. Michael Naughton of the Scotland Yard detail said there was less than $100 of genuine money in the bundle, all of it in marked currency to facilitate prosecution if the trap had worked successfully.

Except for eleventh hour change of the gang's plan for the ransom collection, the pair sent to collect it would have been killed or captured on the spot, according to Sergt. Naughton. He and Lieut. Barry witnessed the entire action, having been assigned to man machine guns in the planes.

"If the gang had pursued the plan we overheard on tapped wires, the two assigned to collect the money would now be in jail or in the morgue," said Sergt. Naughton. "Their instructions were to have the telegraph messenger in a Checker cab pay the money over at an indefinite place on Mannheim road between Roosevelt road and 22d street.

Ready with Parachutes.

"We thought we were ready for any eventuality. The stretch of Mannheim road they designated was thoroughly covered by machine gunners. We had heard they would transfer from an auto to a plane if pursued, so Barry and I were assigned to planes. We had parachutes and were ready to bail out to open fire from mid-air if necessary."

There was much debate whether to arm the two disguised policemen, Frank McKenna and John Meyers, with pistols. Had they carried such weapons, it was pointed out, they might have shot and disabled or killed the gang agents at the moment the money was passed.

"In both instances the gang was too smart," said Sergt. Naughton. "Just one hour before the disguised

STRANGE AUTO GIVES HEIRESS A KIDNAP SCARE

Mrs. Lester J. Norris of St. Charles, heiress to the $30,000,000 estate of the late John W. Gates, was recovering yesterday from a kidnaping scare she received while driving home from Chicago Tuesday night.

She and a number of St. Charles women and several of their children had been visiting Chicago and were returning to St. Charles when they became suspicious of an automobile bearing California license plates which appeared to be following them. Constantly on guard against attempts to kidnap her children, Mrs. Norris feared a gang was following her.

In Elmhurst she stopped her car and telephoned to St. Charles police to stop the California car, which had passed her while she phoned. Night Policeman Lemon at St. Charles was waiting for the car and waved it down as it came into town. The only occupant, a salesman from Mount Morris, said he was as suspicious of the actions of Mrs. Norris and her friends as they had been of him. After a satisfactory explanation he was allowed to go on his way.

3 LIEUTENANTS OF POLICE MADE TO WALK BEATS

Three lieutenants of police, long accustomed to desk work, are now walking post as patrolmen on the near south side under orders of their superiors. It is said to be the first time in thirty years that officers of this rank have been made to do the work of patrolmen.

The officers are Arthur Danehy, William Bush, and Matthew Hanley, the latter an acting lieutenant. From 7 a. m. to 3 p. m. Danehy covers a beat bounded by 18th street, Cottage Grove avenue, Cermak road, and Calumet avenue. He is relieved by Bush, who remains on the post until 11 p. m., and is in turn relieved by Hanley. Each of the lieutenants must pull a box once an hour.

Reports indicating open vice and soliciting in the territory, furnished by an investigating organization, caused the issuance of the disciplinary orders against the lieutenants, all of whom are assigned to the South State street station. The orders were signed by Capt. George O'Connor, commanding the district, under the direction of Police Commissioner Allman.

Lincoln Letter Stolen from Exhibit at Fair

The theft of a letter written by Abraham Lincoln to the secretary of the navy on Feb. 25, 1865, from a show case in the Wigwam, one of the buildings in the Lincoln group at A Century of Progress, was reported to Fair police last night. Mrs. Bess Bahlquist, and her son, Albert, 4024 Lake Park avenue, who are in charge of the exhibit, told police that some one apparently had broken into the show case during the early morning hours of yesterday.

HAVANA, Aug. 16.—Forty-two soldiers and two policemen were gravely wounded tonight when soldiers laid siege to a building where a large group of members of La Porra, Gen. Machado's secret police, believed to have been headed by former Chief of Police Antonio Ainciart, had been cornered.

A gun battle at the fortified house had continued for more than an hour.

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 16.—The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Capt. Mariano Barberan and Lieut. Joaquin Collar, Spanish trans-Atlantic flyers, who vanished after taking off from Havana on June 20 for Mexico City en route to A Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago, may be cleared up.

A spokesman for the ABC secret society, which led the revolt against former President Machado, tonight announced over the radio the arrest of Ernesto Santana, a Negro chauffeur and "porrista" [member of la porra, secret police under Machado], who served as a bodyguard for Alberto Herrera, former secretary of war and navy and chief of staff of the army.

Says Flyers Were Shot Down.

It was announced by the ABC spokesman that Santana has promised, if his life is spared, to take officials to the graves of Barberan and Collar somewhere in Pinar del Rio province. He had confessed, it was announced, that the flyers were shot down 50 miles west of Havana by Cuban army planes which were escorting them. The army planes, it was declared, were acting on secret orders from Machado.

It was recalled in ABC circles tonight that the Spanish flyers, after their arrival here on June 11 following a 4,533 mile hop from Spain, were royally welcomed by the Cubans and fêted for a week, but that Machado did not grant an audience which was asked for by the Spanish ambassador in order that the flyers might deliver a message of felicitation from President Alcala Zamora of Spain to Machado.

Given Decoration by Machado.

It was also recalled in ABC circles that shortly after word was received in Havana that the flyers were en route here Machado left unexpectedly on an extended fishing trip off the north coast. He returned three days after the flyers landed and retired to his country home, it is said, saying he was ill. Some ABC leaders theorized that Machado held a grievance against President Zamora for criticisms said to have been directed against Machado's attitude toward Spaniards in Havana.

Machado, however, awarded the decoration of the third military order of Cuba to the flyers, a decoration given to sharpshooters and veterans of the army and navy.

Havana Stirred by Story.

News of Santana's alleged declarations traveled like wildfire through the island today. The population, especially the 200,000 Spaniards living in Havana, were deeply stirred by the story.

It was remembered that the airmen had taken off for Mexico City joyfully, looking forward to visiting the World's Fair. Upon landing in Cuba they had been extended a joint invitation by Mayor Kelly of Chicago, Rufus C. Dawes, president of A Century of Progress Exposition, and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to fly to Chicago. They had planned to participate in the American Air Races, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, with the permission of the Spanish government.

After they hopped off from the Havana airport, however, they became lost to the world. There was a report that the plane was seen over Mexico, but it was never verified.

Then followed reports that the flyers had been found dead and their machine wrecked. These reports were all proved false. An intensive search of Mexican waters and Mexican jungles was made, but no trace of the two aviators was found.

Mayor Kelly Hits Mystery of Income Tax

Mayor Edward J. Kelly last night took cognizance of published stories that he had made a settlement with the government for a large amount of unreported income—stories which he considered were designed to throw a mystery and an insinuation upon his affairs. Discussing these allegations and reports, Mayor Kelly said:

"There has been a great hullabaloo in the last two weeks, linked with the fight upon the board of education's economy program, over a purported settlement by me of income taxes due the government. The stories have made a great mystery out of what I had considered a simple business transaction, honestly handled, and now a closed book.

"And until the direct charge was made that I was the mysterious person who had made the settlement and the impression sought to be created that I had received such unreported income from improper sources I had refused to discuss the matter.

Large Income Over Years.

"For several recent years I was fortunate in my business dealings. It was no secret to any of my friends that I had large legitimate transactions. A large number of those ventures were highly profitable and my income tax for several years was in the higher brackets. During those same years I served as campaign manager of the Democratic party on several occasions. In one year in particular [1926] I was manager of the campaign of George E. Brennan for senator, while he was ill in bed during practically all the campaign.

"At times it became necessary for me to make advances for expenses, for which I was subsequently reimbursed. I did not consider, when I filed my income tax returns in those years, that the repayment to me of these advances could be considered as income. Accordingly, I did not include them in my returns. That decision was arrived at after full consideration and on competent legal advice.

Income Tax Examined.

"My income tax returns for the years in question, which did not include the money so refunded to me, were examined in due course from time to time by representatives of the revenue department and no question was ever raised with respect to such items.

"Subsequently the income tax division checked over my returns and claimed that such sums should be treated as income.

"During the period covering the investigation of the affairs of the sanitary district all the law enforcing bodies, federal and state, were attempting to secure evidence of unreported income, and every demand made upon me during that investigation by either the state's attorney or the federal government was freely complied with. They had full access to all of my books and records with respect to any transaction.

Says Nothing Illegal Found.

"There was no attempt at any time from the beginning to shroud any transaction I ever had with secrecy. In spite of these coördinated investigations with all the agencies operating in conjunction with one another there was no evidence of any illegal transaction.

"Because of the fact that my returns for those years already placed my tax in the higher brackets, the government's decision to include the refunded amounts in those years made the added tax some $60,000. With the added penalties and interest for failure to schedule—a failure which as I have explained was brought about by my belief that these amounts were not income and hence not taxable—the amount of my settlement with the government was approximately $100,000.

"When the government agents held that such repayments should be treat-

JULY'S FIGURES 21% OVER 1932, PRESIDENT SAYS

He Calls Leaders to Speed Codes.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—The battle against unemployment is being won, declared President Roosevelt today. With high optimism he revealed new employment figures showing that men by the thousands have been ushered back to jobs in the factories, mills, shops, and offices of the nation.

The figures, submitted to the President by the department of labor, revealed that during the month of July, employment in manufacturing industries increased 7.2 per cent over June, and that it registered the very substantial increase of 21.9 per cent over July, 1932.

Wages Advancing, Too.

Total pay rolls also increased by, even higher bounds than employment, the President disclosed, and he registered relief and gratification that at last wages, always lagging behind, are catching up with employment.

Wages paid in industry increased by 7.9 per cent in July over the preceding month and the total increase over July, 1932, is 28.5 per cent.

Employment now has risen to 67.3 per cent of the rate in the year 1926, the basic year taken by the department of labor statisticians, and pay rolls are at 46.5 per cent of the 1926 figure.

July Usually Slack Month.

The President pointed out that the rise in employment and wages in July is of the greatest significance, since in every year for the 10 years such records have been kept there has been a recession in both indexes, the average July drop for the 10 years being 2.2 in employment and 5.4 per cent in pay rolls.

July is also the fifth consecutive month this year in which employment has improved, the President observed, and he seemed to impart the feeling of his confidence that he expects it to improve steadily as the new months come along.

Although he had counted on beating the bogy of the dullness of summer slackening the regular pace of commerce, the President declared that the July record is much better than he had expected.

Other Encouraging Factors.

While the report on factory employment was encouraging, a supplementary one on nonmanufacturing industries showed that great strides were made also in bringing workers back to the mines, to the oil fields, and to various commercial branches.

The President declared, with a note of disappointment, that the government has only begun to compile labor statistics on most of the white collar classes, but reports to him have indicated that general employment, in stores, offices, banks, and elsewhere in the realms of the white collar workers, is also rising rapidly.

The July employment figures, it was noted by the labor department, reflect but a little of the reëmployment resulting from the NRA drive, and particularly from the President's reëmployment agreement, which became effective on Aug. 1.

Calls Industrial Leaders.

With all the good news of the day, however, the President was not resting on his oars, nor is he permitting any of his crew to rest. Today he was pushing ahead on the NRA program, calling in big industrialists and urging them to show greater speed in agreeing upon employment codes.

The President, during his meeting today with newspaper men, produced other gratifying evidence to show that the new deal is really working. He found industrial production marching along, undiminished by the dog days of summer. Industrial plants which have long been gathering dust and cobwebs are reported alive again.

Pay rolls are rising, Mr. Roosevelt found, keeping pace for the first time, he said, with the rise in employment.

Auto Production Higher.

The President read from another report that automobile production is forging ahead so steadily that it has already outstripped, so far this year, the entire output of 1932. The retail demand for automobiles, the President said, is remaining strong, showing that the American people are forsaking their worn cars of '28 and '29 and venturing the more proudly forth in shiny new models.

While the President rejoiced as he marked these milestones along the road he has charted out of the deprestion and was calling them "highly significant," from elsewhere in his administration came other encouraging signs of recovery.

They all tend to give strength to the American hopes that the upturn which commenced when the Roosevelt family moved into the White House is a lasting movement toward happy days.

Farm Prices Falling.

One fly in the ointment is the state of the agricultural markets, which are falling despite the strenuous efforts of Secretary Wallace to bolster them. There are new reports that a fresh dose of "psychological inflation," meaning the spreading of rumors that the President is about to resort to inflation, may be administered soon in the hope that it will serve to boost commodity prices.

The President said today that he did not know what action he will take on inflation, or when, and he added that when he is ready he will act, not talk about it in advance.

Basis of Work Reports.

The employment report discussed by the President is based on reports received by the labor department from 18,090 establishments in 89 of the principal manufacturing industries of the United States. These concerns reported 3,023,831 employés on their pay rolls, with combined weekly earnings of $54,553,744.

Of the 89 industries, 77 reported increases in the number of workers employed. Of the 12 reporting decreases, most were those with seasonal decreases and five of the 12 suffered losses of less than 1 per cent.

Important Increases.

The July increases rated by the labor department as of major significance were in the following industries: Brick, 19.1 per cent; silk, 14; iron and steel, 13.9; automobiles, 13.2; woolen goods, 13.1; saw mills, 13; automobile tires, 12.5; mill work, 11.1; cotton goods, 10.5.

Other important industries reporting substantial gains were chemicals, men's clothing, ship building, rayon, foundries, structural iron work, cement, steam fittings, boots and shoes, electrical machinery, and machine tools.

In the nonmanufacturing industries the increases in mining employment were outstanding, the anthracite mines increasing employment by 11 per cent over June, the bituminous mines, 3.1 per cent; metalliferous mines, 4.7 per cent, and quarrying and nonmetallic mines, 4.8 per cent. Crude petroleum production plants producing increased employment by 2.7 per cent.

Commercial Loans Increase.

On the other phases of the recovery program the treasury department disclosed figures on the credit condition of the country, which indicated that the long jam which held back the capital so badly needed for commercial development may be breaking.

The treasury report showed that in July the loans extended by federal reserve member banks in 90 leading cities increased by 94 million dollars. Of this increase, only 24 millions of the increase was on security loans, while 74 millions was added to the outstanding loans of all other classes, which are chiefly commercial loans.

In the preceding month of June the amount of "all other loans" had decreased by 68 millions, while the security loans had increased by 35 millions.

Store Sales Increase.

A still more encouraging sign, reported by the federal reserve board, showed a big improvement in department store sales. The board for years has kept an index on these sales, a figure weighted to compensate for seasonal fluctuations, and in July the index was 69, compared with the basic 100 for the 1923-'25 average, and compared with an index of 66 for June and 67 for May of this year. Last year the index fell sharply in June and July, being 72 in May, 1932, 69 in June, and 65 in July.

It was pointed out that the 4 point rise of the index in July this year did not represent an actual increase in total sales. The index went up because sales fell off far less than the usual July decline.

The department of commerce reports that retail sales are improving steadily and quoted grocery store sales to show that losses under 1932 are rapidly being diminished.

The administration statisticians and economists declare that the signs showing on the retail sales charts are encouraging indications of recovery.

RUSH CAMPAIGN OF EMPLOYMENT ON TWO FRONTS

Chicago Committee Opens NRA Offensive.

Leaders of Chicago yesterday prepared to join in an enforcement of the national reëmployment program. At a meeting of the executive committee of the Chicago Recovery council in the Hotel La Salle, a decision was made to push the campaign against unemployment on two fronts.

The local council will endeavor, first, to get every representative trade and consumer organization in the city working together as one unit behind President Roosevelt in his desire to reduce the number of unemployed, it was announced. Second, the council, through its code committee, will open every agency possible to facilitate the prompt preparation of codes for businesses not yet aligned in the new economic movement.

Twenty-two of the twenty-seven civic and business leaders selected to head the NRA campaign here were present at the meeting, which was presided over by George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and general chairman of the recovery council.

88 Enlist in Drive.

The chairman announced that 88 representative organizations of Chicago have enlisted in the local drive. It was also reported that inquiries by business concerns regarding their code responsibilities have been increasing daily, more than 500 having been referred to the Association of Commerce code advisers yesterday.

To facilitate the work of new industries preparing codes, the recovery council has available as samples the codes of 41 different branches of business, it was announced.

F. L. Roberts, district manager of the department of commerce, stated that 3,790 business firms in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Iowa sent in acceptances of the reëmployment program yesterday, making a total of 47,476 firms, employing 1,135,437 persons, which have signed the NRA pledge in the three states.

Of this total, 20,227 companies were located in Chicago. These firms employ 648,224 workers.

Draft Working Codes.

Representatives of industries continued to gather in Chicago to draft working codes under the new standard. Forty manufacturers of domestic and farm pumping equipment met at the Hotel Sherman to adopt a code, which was expected to follow the President's blanket code closely.

Manufacturers of rock crushing machinery and of filter and water softening equipment were among the industries which assembled to work out a new working hour and wage agreement to conform with the government's demands.

A code for the National Typewriter and Office Machine Dealers met opposition from a group of dealers, who declared that the code did not provide for regulation of prices for used and rebuilt equipment. However, a forty hour week and a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour was approved by the entire group of five hundred, representing 10,000 dealers throughout the country. The code, with some amendments, will probably be adopted today.

Johnson Compliments Wrigley.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, in a telegram to Philip K. Wrigley, chewing gum manufacturer, expressed his appreciation to the Wrigley company for its coöperation under the national recovery act. The acceptance of code regulations and the use of advertising facilities by the gum company was commended by the administrator. The company put the general code into effect a week before an official notice was received.

Morse Dellplain, president of the Northern Indiana Public Service company, announced that the company would sign the NRA codes for the gas and electric industries and would apply the terms of the codes to its utility properties in 210 communities served. The company will begin operating under the code on Sept. 1, Dellplain said.

Mayor Kelly yesterday directed John A. Cerevenka, city purchasing agent, to purchase city supplies only from companies which have signed the blanket code or a trade code under the national recovery act. At the first council meeting, the mayor said, he will ask the passage of a resolution making the policy permanent.

SHOTGUN GANG ROBS TAVERN.

Three robbers armed with sawed off shotguns and revolvers entered the Dew Drop Inn, a beer tavern at 1250 Sedgewick street, yesterday, threatened Angelo Barnachia, the owner, and six customers, and escaped with $308.

CHICAGO PRESS AWAITS ACTION ON NEWSPAPER CODE

Chicago newspapers were advised yesterday afternoon from Washington that the administration has approved the hours and wages and freedom of the press clauses of the blanket code as drawn for daily papers, but that two minor paragraphs were still under consideration.

Most of the Chicago papers did not sign the blanket code yesterday, pending conclusion of the Washington discussions, but are expected to sign today and receive the blue eagle insignia of the NRA.

In THE TRIBUNE office the wage scale and hours of work as provided in the newspaper code have already been put into effect in order to comply with the spirit of the industrial recovery program.

ISSUE REVISED CODE.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—(AP)—A revised modification of the President's reëmployment agreement for daily newspapers was issued today by the National Recovery Administration to correct an omission in the agreement approved last night by Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator.

The section erroneously omitted was the one which would guarantee freedom of the press.

This section says:

"In submitting or subscribing to this code, the publishers do not thereby agree to accept or comply with any other requirements than those herein contained, or waive any right to object to the imposition of any further or different requirements, or waive any constitutional rights or consent to the imposition of any requirements that might restrict or interfere with the constitutional guarantee of the freedom of the press."

The temporary agreement, to remain in force pending hearings and approval of a permanent code, exempts hours and wages under contracts in effect on or before July 1, 1933, and which cannot be revised except by mutual consent.

A 40 hour work week and a $12 to $15 minimum wage scale is provided for office employés. For mechanical employés a 40 hour week, with a 44 hour maximum for any six weeks within any six months' period, is fixed. They will receive a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour.

Reporters and other editorial workers earning less than $35 a week may be employed only 40 hours. Others are exempt from the maximum hour provisions.

ECONOMIST SEES OLD PITFALLS IN THE NEW DEAL

Points to Experiences of Britain and Germany.

The new deal is merely another deal from an old deck, and the United States in entering on the national industrial recovery program is courting the fate which befell Germany and England when artificial price and wage structures were raised by those governments immediately after the war, Dr. Harry D. Gideonse, associate professor of economics at the University of Chicago, declared last night. He spoke before the Chicago College clubs at 196 East Delaware place.

Dr. Gideonse asserted that all the schemes for price and wage fixing have been tried and found unsuccessful, and he cited the wheat debacle of the Hoover farm board. He said that the real stimulant for manufacturing and commerce is a low tariff barrier, adding: "The implications of the recovery act are that tariffs will go higher."

Points to Britain and Germany.

"Most observers agree that one of the chief weaknesses of the German and British economic life after the war was caused by inflexible price and wage structures, produced by a veritable network of agreements of a more or less binding character," said Dr. Gideonse. "The destruction of Germany's republican form of government and of Great Britain's currency can in large measure be ascribed to these rigidities in the price system, which were not subject to correction in any normal way.

"Now the irony of fate is leading us to embrace a similar system of rigidities as a cure for blunders in banking and foreign trade policy. We may soon discover that the rigidities, instead of helping the 'forgotten man,' may actually force him into even more abject misery. Then the new inflexibility may produce an additional problem which we may be tempted to solve by more inflation.

"It is the fad of the day to belittle freedom. Everywhere freedom is described as 'anarchy' and 'chaotic competition.' The remedy is prescribed in terms of 'coördination,' 'planning,' 'orderly marketing.' The words have a wise sound about them. Everything depends, however, on the wisdom of the coördinator or planner.

Hoover Farm Board Recalled.

"If it should turn out to be of the quality that usually accompanies government 'coördination' and 'planning'—witness Mr. Hoover's farm board or any of our recent tariff legislation—it might well be that freedom would have been more constructive than the efforts of the 'coördinators.'

"Inflation is a perfectly justifiable policy when part of the problem is caused by excessive deflation. It is always a dangerous method, however, and much of our current optimism with regard to its control is unwarranted by present knowledge or experience. It is probable that a bulldoglike determination to adhere to definite objectives might guide us through safely.

"But have we definite objectives? When we talk of raising prices 60 per cent in one breath and of fixing prices and wages in another, can we be certain that these notions are not in conflict with one another? After all the deflation of wages and other items in the last four years, can a return to 1926 prices produce anything but another hectic speculative boom?"

60,000 DRESSMAKERS IN 4 STATES STRIKE; SWEATSHOP TARGET

New York, Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Almost 60,000 workers in the dress manufacturing industry walked out of 2,100 shops in the metropolitan area today in the first major strike New York has experienced since the national recovery administration was created.

The strike, directed against sweatshop conditions, was only a few hours old when Grover A. Whalen, chairman of the city committee of the NRA, was authorized by the national labor board to act as mediator. Mr. Whalen called a meeting of union and employers' representatives for noon tomorrow.

He announced that he had perfected plans for the elimination of sweatshop evils and added that he expected the strike would be over by Monday.

Officials of the garment workers' union declared the entire dress industry in the metropolitan area was paralyzed at the height of the season by "one of the greatest walkouts in the history of the industry."

Despite the scope of the strike and a simultaneous strike of left-wing workers sponsored by the Needle Trades Workers' Industrial union, communist, few disorders were reported.

Dressmakers in both union and nonunion shops in New York City and within a seventy-five mile radius joined in the walkout in four states—New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Connecticut.

70 DIE AS FLOOD AND STORM HIT JAMAICAN CITY

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Seventy persons were drowned early today in floods which struck this city and the parishes of St. Thomas, St. Catherine, and St. Mary following upon a storm accompanied by lightning and high wind.

The damage was estimated at $2,000,000. Bridges and buildings were swept away and banana plantations levelled. The government established relief stations to care for the homeless.

The storm, which lasted six hours, was described as the worst in eighty years. The water rose as high as six feet in the streets, rushing through dwellings and washing away many occupants. Cries of victims were heard from 2 o'clock in the morning until dawn. Two children were swept away from their mothers' arms by the floods and drowned.

THEATER CODE SENT PRESIDENT; EFFECTIVE SOON

Approved by All Elements of the Industry.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—A revised code for the legitimate dramatic and musical theater industry, together with the reports of the national recovery administration and National Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson's recommendation, was ready for the President tonight and an executive order approving the code was expected soon. The code is effective ten days after presidential approval.

The theater code hearings were marked by harmony and the revised code has the full approval of all elements. Stock companies, which asked to be allowed to present a separate code, are included in the revision, but under exceptions lowering the minimum wages and maximum hours provided for the rest of the industry. Other wage and hour scales remain unchanged.

Small Houses Protected.

The code provisions apply to cooperative ventures, but an exception is made for the "summer and winter seasonal" theater." This exception takes care of the small playhouses at resorts.

No provisions for limitation of rehearsal hours is made, but it was learned that Actors' Equity is now clocking rehearsal periods for the purpose of gathering figures on this matter for the code committee.

The "throw-away" ticket system, in which passes are given for redemption for tickets at cut rates, is abolished by the revised code in any town where three attractions are playing in competition.

Another clause binds theater managers to sell tickets only to "reliable, bona fide" brokers, who shall resell them at the box office price plus a "fair and reasonable" commission. The code committee is given power to decide on this commission.

Confer on Movies.

With the completion of the theater code Deputy Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt turned to the motion picture code, now being prepared in New York. It was learned that the 47 original codes submitted had been coördinated into one or two and that producers, distributors, and exhibitors were awainting conferences with labor representatives before submitting the codes. These conferences are now in process in New York.

ROOSEVELT INTENDS TO REDUCE NUMBER OF U. S. ARMY POSTS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—The elimination of a large percentage of the scattered army posts, relics of the days of Indian wars, was promised today by President Roosevelt.

The President announced allotments for construction of army buildings cannot be made until it has been decided what posts are to be retained. Army construction, the President said, will be limited to the replacement of insanitary and unlivable quarters and where the money now given officers and men for rental of outside quarters will make the erection of government quarters an economy.

In several administrations a political storm has defeated every effort to reorganize the army posts.

Illinois Recovery Board to Hold Meeting Today

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—A meeting of the Illinois recovery board will be held tomorrow with Gov. Henry Horner. Col. A. A. Sprague will be the only Chicago member present. Other Chicago members were reported out of town or unable to attend. Downstate members will be present to start the activities. Division of the state into sections, each to be under the supervision of one member of the board will be discussed.

WANTED

. . for taking money out of taxpayers' pockets

You have never seen this man, but if you drive a car you have been his victim.

His name is "Hi" Driving Cost. He is laying for you on the street that is Less-Than-CONCRETE. For every mile you drive on such a street, he exacts his sly tribute. He makes you buy more tires, more gasoline. He runs up your repair bills.

High Driving Cost makes "cheap" streets dear at any price. This has been proved, once and for all, by impartial surveys of driving costs on all types of road surfaces. These surveys show that with even moderate traffic, the cost of transportation—paving cost plus driving cost—is less on CONCRETE than on any other kind, even including an unpaved dirt roadway.

If you're interested in getting the most for your taxes — and in lower taxes, insist upon CONCRETE for the streets you want and need. It saves you money as a motorist. It saves you money as a taxpayer—for CONCRETE costs far less to maintain. And CONCRETE streets are better looking, easier to ride on, safer in any weather.

Insist on CONCRETE for your streets—get the most and best street for the money—and the maximum employment for labor!

RARE BARGAIN IN MUSIC ONLY TWO DAYS AWAY

4th Chicagoland Festival Will Be Saturday.

Chicago and Chicago's visitors are only two days away from the greatest bargain in music ever offered the American public. The fourth annual Chicagoland Music Festival, sponsored by THE TRIBUNE and a host of associated newspapers in other cities, will be held Saturday evening in Soldiers' field.

JAMES C. PETRILLO.
[President Chicago Musicians' Union.]

Those who attended the other three festivals remember the massed effects that made them stand out among all other musical events. They remember the high tiers of the Stadium, crowded with the tens of thousands of spectators absorbing the mighty waves of sound that poured from the throats of gigantic choirs, from the huge Negro chorus, from the thousands of band instruments.

This one, its directors say, will be bigger. But the price is an echo from mid-depression; 50 cents for reserved seats and 25 cents for the nonreserved.

Music for Every One.

The individual who pays for either kind of ticket doesn't have to be a Tschaikowsky fan to get his money's worth. Nor need he understand, or even have an inkling of, the intense longing for saving grace, the deep emotionalism, behind a spiritual like "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot."

There are doubtless folk who get a bigger kick out of bugle and drum corps and brass bands. This is their festival, too. For such there will be 1,300 drum and bugle marchers and 1,650 bandsmen. The first group marches out upon the field at 6:30 p. m. for an hour of drumming and bugling.

After the drum and bugle corps have completed their performance, a fanfare from the platform at 7:35 p. m. heralds the appearance of the bands.

As at the festival last year the feature of the grand march across Soldiers' field will be the appearance of the 200 piece professional band, representing the Chicago Musicians' union. This band will be led by James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago union. The band brought salvos of applause from the crowd by its march across the field last summer.

After Mr. Petrillo's band has completed the long march it will take up a position in front of the platform and await the arrival of the 32 other bands. When the last band has taken its appointed stand, the 200 piece Chicago unit will strike up a Sousa march.

Then comes a great musical high-point. All of the bands massed before the platform will play two numbers led by the grand old band master, Arthur Pryor.

For those who do not appreciate the classics there will be community singing of such pieces as "Suwanee River," "Sweet Adeline," "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," and "America."

A Feast for the Eye.

But look! This is a feast for the eye, this festival, as well as a treat for the ear. Eight hundred and forty singers will be in the choruses contesting for prizes and 1,300 children, clad in silks with the iridescent hues of the rainbow, will perform in the gypsy dances that are to be tambourined to the Hungarian melodies of Liszt and Brahms. They will have the support of a 100 piece band directed by Victor Grabel, while over them will pour floods of colored rays from great anti-aircraft searchlights.

Those who like their music with dramatic settings could want little more than James A. Mundy directing his 1,000 Negro singers in "On the Great Gittin' Up Mornin'," with others just as good to follow. J. Wesley Jones, another old favorite of earlier festivals, is to lead "Old Southland" and a spiritual or two, while Noble Cain will conduct the "Hallelujah Chorus."

Powerful Desire to Shout.

Nothing, it has been said before, stands audiences up with that powerful desire to shout like this chorus from Handel's "Messiah."

Under the direction of George L. Tenney, 200 church choirs with 2,000 singers—all from the Choral Directors' guild—will sing during the evening "Unfold, Ye Portals," "Land of Hope and Glory," and "Hail, Bright Abode."

And again, for those who like their music snappy, there will be a medley of college airs played by the band at the front of the stage.

And as a dramatic climax there will be the famous "1812" overture played by the festival band under the direction of Victor Grabel, with its accompaniment of pyrotechnics.

Altogether, vocalists, instrumentalists, marchers, and dancers, there are 7,900 performers. And there will be in all probability 100,000 in the audience.

This Chicagoland music festival reaches far beyond the limits of Chicagoland. In the vocal contests will appear representatives from nine states and seventy-six cities outside Chicago. From far Vancouver, B. C., will come a boys' band, sent at a cost of $5,000.

FESTIVAL CHORUS CONTEST WON BY ARMENIAN GROUP

Chicago Soloists to Be Chosen Tonight.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

It took some little time before the judges were finally satisfied to assign the final figures in the contest of mixed choruses for the Chicagoland Music Festival, held at the Drake hotel last night. For first place there was little question. That position went unanimously to the Armenian National chorus of Chicago, directed by Harout Mehrab.

For second place, however, there was a doubt. It became necessary to call for a repetition of numbers before the judges could settle upon the fact that the position belonged to the Chicago and North Western Railway Choral club, directed by Harry Slater.

This indicates the interest that is being shown by competing organizations and the artistic merit displayed by the entrants. The fact that the judges were unable to determine on first hearing who should take second position does honor to the contestants. It likewise proves that the spirit of music is a very vital element in present day life.

Seventy Singers in Chorus.

The Armenian National chorus numbered 70 singers, the Chicago and North Western Railway Choral club 54. Among the other entrants were the Liberty Baptist church choir and chorus, a Negro organization numbering 100 directed by James M. Bates, and the Emanuel Reformed church choir of 42, whose director was Henry M. Baar. The judges were Carl Craven, Marx E. Oberndörfer, and Walter Aschenbrenner.

The soloists of the north, west, and south sides, previously selected, will meet in final contest at the Drake hotel tonight, beginning at 7 o'clock. For this competition a word of explanation is perhaps necessary. This will be the final contest of Chicago, but not of Chicagoland. In it the best soprano, contralto, tenor, baritone, and bass will be chosen to meet the best soprano, contralto, tenor, baritone, and bass outside of Chicago. In other words, fifteen soloists will be reduced to five.

Best Singers to Be Chosen.

But in the final adjudication two singers, and not five, will be selected. Out of the best singers in Chicago and the best singers outside of Chicago the best male singer and the best female singer will be chosen. These two, the best in all Chicagoland, will appear on the program of the Chicagoland Music Festival at Soldiers' field on Saturday night.

The public is invited to attend tonight's contest. It will be worth hearing.

Mike, Pat, and Angeline Iannelli, who are the drum majors of the Young People's band of Benton Harbor, Mich., which will compete in the Chicagoland Music festival on Saturday. The director is Frank Wiltse.

STEAL AUTO, CASH AND CLOTHES OF FAIR VISITORS

The visitors, Roy Newell and Bernell Herzog, had been staying at the home of Arnold Zweck, 6935 South Komensky avenue. With Zweck they drove yesterday afternoon to the Diversey avenue beach, undressed in Newell's car, and went for a swim.

When they returned from the beach the car was missing, along with their clothes and all the money Newell and Herzog had with them. Sheffield avenue police, to whom they reported the theft, sent them to Zweck's home in a patrol wagon.

3 Killed, 3 Hurt as Plane Falls Into Canadian Lake

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Three persons were killed and three seriously injured last night when a Wells Transport company seaplane crashed in the deep waters of Anderson lake, near Bridge river, 150 miles north of Vancouver.

Another Plane Is Added to Chicago-Salt Lake Service

Heavy air travel centering at Chicago because of A Century of Progress has caused United Air Lines to add another plane daily in both directions between Chicago and Salt Lake City, where connections are made with planes for San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Seattle. This will provide five planes daily in each direction, according to W. A. Patterson, vice president of the line. The new plane will leave Chicago at 5:30 p. m., arriving in Salt Lake City at 1:53 a. m. The east bound plane will leave Salt Lake City at 4:30 a. m., arriving here at 8:52

NIEMEYER ASKS N. Y. EXTRADITION OF AARON SAPIRO

Acting State's Attorney Grover C. Niemeyer left yesterday for Albany, N. Y., to appear before Gov. Herbert Lehman and ask for the extradition of Attorney Aaron Sapiro, one of the twenty-four defendants recently named in the conspiracy indictment growing out of alleged racketeering.

The prosecution Tuesday started proceedings to bring Al Capone, gang chieftain now in Leavenworth federal penitentiary for income tax dodging, back to Chicago to face trial with Sapiro and the other defendants in the case.

SON OF WHEATON PIONEER TO MARK 83D YEAR TODAY

Hale and hearty, and proud of his ability still to do a man's work, Washington Irving Wheaton yesterday made preparations to celebrate his 83d birthday today in the home his father built 90 years ago at 310 Evergreen avenue, Wheaton.

A year ago Wheaton officials began proceedings to force him to remove several buildings from the property which his father, Jesse Wheaton, one of the town's founders, purchased from the government for $1.25 an acre. The case will come to trial in October.

"People say those buildings are an unsightly scene for children on their way to the Whittier school," Mr. Wheaton said yesterday. "And to think that my father built the first school in this town! I've offered to veneer the buildings with brick in order to preserve them, at least until I die, but the authorities seem to want them out of the way."

10,000 ATTEND RACINE'S SECOND MUSIC FESTIVAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Racine, Wis., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—The second annual Racine music festival sponsored by the Racine Journal-Times was held before 10,000 persons in Horlick's athletic field tonight.

An ovation was given Miss Lillian Wats, who for 37 years was supervisor of music in the schools here. Miss Lillian Anderson of Racine, recently chosen queen of A Century of Progress, also was present.

The spirit of the Chicagoland music festival to be given Saturday night in Soldiers' field predominated at the festival here, and four participants in the entertainment here will take part in THE TRIBUNE'S festival contest Saturday in Chicago—the two drum corps, and two soloists, William Humphreys, baritone, and Jane Nash, 16 year old soprano.

Joseph G. Mayo's Son Is Named William J.

Rochester, Minn., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—William J. is the name chosen by Dr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Mayo for their son born today at St. Mary's hospital here. The son is named after Dr. Mayo's uncle, Dr. William J. Mayo, and is the first of the Mayo grandchildren to be his namesake.

JUDGE REJECTS COMPANY PLEA TO ENJOIN STRIKERS

Hits Wages and Hours at Garment Plant.

Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher ruled yesterday in a labor injunction case that an employer seeking to restrain striking employés from violence is not entitled to an injunction if, in the opinion of the court, the wages or working conditions in the employer's plant are such as to justify a strike. He based his decision upon the rule that the plaintiff in an equity proceeding, such as a plea for injunction, must come into court with clean hands.

The ruling was given in the case of the La Mode Garment company, 701-11 West Lake street, which sought an injunction against the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union and its officers in connection with a strike of some 400 employés in the company's plant.

Case Submitted to Judge.

The company and the union agreed, in the course of the proceedings, to submit the case to Judge Fisher under the so-called Tuley act, which provides that where both parties agree to it the court is empowered to render a binding decision on the entire controversy and neither party shall have recourse to an appeal to higher courts.

In addition to denying the company an injunction, Judge Fisher ruled that it must institute a 40 hour week and a $12 minimum wage and conform to the code for its industry when it is approved under the national recovery act. The company, however, since the starting of the suit has signed the blanket NRA code, providing for virtually the same wages and hours of work in its plant as ordered by the judge.

In its bill for injunction the company made charges of violence and intimidation of employés in the picketing of its plant, including a number of specific acts of violence. Officials of the company testified that wages of female employés ranged from $6 to $8.50 for a week of fifty-two hours. The union charged that the working week was longer and the minimum wages lower.

The Judge's Opinion.

In his opinion on the company's plea Judge Fisher stated:

"The bill of complaint standing by itself presents a prima facie case for the issuance of an injunction. The question to be determined in this case is whether the complainant comes into court with clean hands. But I find that this familiar principle has seldom been invoked in labor strike cases. Yet the conclusion is inescapable that unfair wages, unreasonable hours of labor, unhealthy working conditions, etc., are directly connected with the subject matter of the lawsuit seeking to enjoin acts of employés who struck their work.

"True, the inequitable conduct of an employer which causes a lawful strike does not justify lawlessness on the part of the strikers, but for such lawlessness correctives are to be found in the criminal laws of the state and in civil suits for damages. But in equity the complainant's own hands must be clean if he is to prevail against those who injure him.

Cites Reasons for Opinion.

"Various reasons demand the adoption of the view above suggested, among which are these:

"The prevailing conditions in complainant's industry violate the spirit of the national recovery act.

"They violate the spirit and letter of the minimum fair wage law of the state of Illinois.

"The issuance of the injunction prayed for would directly aid the continuance of an indefensible condition in the industry in question."

Judge Fisher, while ordering the La Mode company to allow its employés to join the union, did not order it to maintain a closed shop.

Sound Equipment Installed For Soldiers' Field Festival

The clear notes of every solo and the rich volume and chanting melody of every chorus in the Chicagoland Music Festival at Soldiers' field next Saturday evening will be heard equally well in the seats nearest the singers' stage and in those most distant from it.

THE TRIBUNE amplification experts made this promise yesterday as they completed the installation of the latest type of precision sound equipment in the stadium. They said that an even flow of undistorted and unstrained music will come alike to every one of the more than 100,000 men, women and children who are expected to fill the huge bowl to overflowing.

The equipment is the result of years of experimentation with public address systems and research carried out by Western Electric and installed under the direction of the Graybar company. It was specially designed to meet the acoustic conditions of the enormous grand stands under the open sky.

Battery of 9 Microphones.

A battery of nine dynamic microphones will pick up the music at its source. Some of the microphones are located on the stage, arranged to transmit an equal volume of sound whether from a chorus of several hundred singers or from one soloist. Several others are located in a soundproof broadcasting studio which has been built under the stage.

The singers on the stage will be visible to the audience, but many small choruses and soloists who are to sing from the studio will not be visible.

From the microphones the sound will pass to fifteen amplifiers where the volume is stepped up to the point where it will be sufficient to fill the whole field. The sound then is transferred to between forty and fifty dynamic horn units which will transmit it to the audience.

New Type of Horn.

The horn units are of a new type never before used in Chicago, although most of the other equipment was successfully tried out in the "Romance of a People" pageant.

Unlike the usual arrangements the horns will be grouped about the stage instead of being distributed around the stadium. Engineers expect that with the new equipment the audience will receive a more natural wave of sound from the new groupings and "time lag," perceptible in widely distributed projection units, will be eliminated.

The highlight of Farm week at the Fair will be reached tomorrow morning when Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace arrives. As the feature of the entire week's program the secretary will detail the part the farmer is to play in the national recovery program. Farm leaders believe that the farm relief program will be discussed in full by the secretary.

Advance indications are that a crowd of more than 150,000 will throng the court of the Hall of States to hear Secretary Wallace. A radio hookup will carry his voice to millions of farm homes in America.

Luncheon at Federal Building.

The secretary will arrive at 11:30 a. m. to be greeted by officials of the Fair and will proceed to the Federal building for luncheon and from there will go directly to the Hall of States for the formal program.

Sharing honors at the Fair today will be the farm credits program and the official ceremonies of Ukrainian day. The farm program opens at the Hall of States at 12:15 p. m., when Joseph R. Cosgrove of St. Louis, manager of the intermediate federal farm credit bureau, will make an address on farm credits.

Ukrainia will present her formal program in the court of the Hall of Science at 4 p. m., followed by a musical program in the Ukrainian pavilion. Dr. Miroslav Siemens, president of the Ukrainian World's Fair exhibit, will make the principal address. Felix J. Streyckmans, chief of the foreign participation staff of the Fair, will also talk.

Miss Marie Lubas, 18 years old, 2215 Rice street, who was chosen as "Queen Ukraine" last night at ceremonies at the Ukrainian pavilion, will be presented to the audience. This will be followed by a program to be given by the Ukrainian chorus of Chicago, Vasile Avramenko's dance troop, and Maxim Olevsky's Ukrainian String orchestra.

Parade to Ukraine Building.

At the conclusion of the program in the science court a picturesque parade will be staged to the Ukrainian pavilion at the Rainbow gate area in the south end of the grounds. A reception will be held at the pavilion, with public officials, Fair representatives and leading Chicagoans of Ukrainian descent in the receiving line.

The Knights of Columbus, concluding a three day convention in Chicago, will visit the Fair en masse today to present a program at the Columbus memorial lighthouse model on Northerly island in the evening. A wreath laying ceremony will be staged at the model.

Veterans of the Spanish-American war were honor guests at the Fair yesterday. Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Donovan welcomed the veterans, two hundred strong, and an equal representation of the ladies' auxiliary, in the Court of Honor. Lieut. Gov. Donovan also spoke later at a gathering in the Illinois Host building. Others on the program included Arthur Hufton, Illinois department commander of the veterans; Michael F. Kelly, past commander, and Theodore L. Newell, chairman of the day.

A battalion of the 6th infantry from Camp Whistler escorted the veterans on a parade of the grounds. Included in the procession was the band of the Soldiers and Sailors' Children school at Normal, Ill. The parade ended in the court of the Hall of States for a program of speeches and drills.

The veterans' and Farm day programs pushed attendance toward the high marks of last week. At 11:30 p. m. yesterday the official attendance was 190,442.

Vaughan's Seed Store Gets Gladiolus Award at Fair

Forty years of progress in gladiolus breeding has been recognized at the World's Fair in the awarding of the gold medal of the Illinois Gladiolus society to Vaughan's Seed store for the best display of gladioli in the final competition of the society's show in the Horticultural building at the Fair. In the World's Fair of 1893 this seed concern was awarded the official bronze medal of the Exposition for gladiolus plantings made in the rose garden of the Wooded island and in the Horticultural building. At that time the flower was little known, and J. C. Vaughan, founder of the concern, has been credited with being largely instrumental in the increase in its popularity.

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Senator Gosuke Imai, Japanese statesman and silk leader, will arrive in Chicago at 7:20 o'clock this morning over the Santa Fé lines. He will be met by Japanese consular officials and representatives of the Japanese exhibit at the Fair. A press breakfast and conference will be held at the Lake Shore Athletic club, following which the party will be guest of the Exposition.

The two "highest" concessions on the Fair grounds, the Kaufmann and Fabry Camera filling stations on top of the Sky Ride towers, are among the busiest, according to officials. A majority of the visitors bring cameras to the towers and invariably use all their films in taking snapshots of the view of the city and the Fair grounds.

The oldest Czechoslovakian Bible in the United States is now on exhibit in the official building of that country at the Fair. The Bible is 384 years old, is 14 inches high and 9 inches wide, and was printed in Prague in 1549 by Melantrick Rozdalovsky and Bartolomej Netolicky.

One of the smallest buildings at the Fair, that of the South Manchurian railway exhibit, displays one of the stories of greatest advance. The building, 120 by 50 feet, is of Japanese architecture, and, according to Toshi Go, manager, shows 25 years of progress in Manchuria, largely the results of the efforts of the railroad company.

Dr. Frantisek Soukup, president of the senate of Czechoslovakia, will represent his country at the national day celebration at the Fair on Aug. 20, it was announced yesterday. Sokols from all parts of the United States are coming to Chicago for the ceremonies.

Radio greetings from President Roosevelt to the residents of Georgia will be a feature of Georgia day at the Fair, Aug. 22, according to the advance program. The President will speak to the Georgia visitors as they assemble in the Hall of States for the official ceremonies marking the occasion. Lindley W. Camp, adjutant general of Georgia, will act as master of ceremonies. Addresses will be made by Gov. Eugene Talmadge and Rufus C. Dawes of the Fair.

INSULL IS INVITED TO OPEN SPARTAN DAY AT THE WORLD'S FAIR

Samuel Insull has been sent a cablegram inviting him to open Spartan day at the World's Fair on Sunday, Aug. 27. Marion Schroeder Booras, who sent the cablegram to Insull at his home in Athens, Greece, said yesterday that the invitation was sent "because there are 120,000,000 people in the United States who would like to see Mr. Insull once more."

Samuel Insull's Wife Quits Athens for Venice

FAIR'S RECEIPTS $13,211,214 AT THE HALF WAY MARK

With the time of the World's Fair half gone the auditor's report shows receipts of $13,211,214 as of midnight, Aug. 13. Admission tickets account for $3,111,782, not counting the advance sale of 2,193,253 tickets before the opening of the Exposition. An additional $10,099,432.48 has been spent by visitors within the grounds, an average expenditure of $1.25 a visitor.

The Exposition's share of the concessions receipts has now grown to $15,000 a day, with each day showing an increase in the percentage, according to Martin M. Tveter, controller. So far the Exposition has derived $375,000 from this source of revenue. Twenty-six concessions have now passed the $100,000 mark.

In general the concessions are permitted to retire their fixed investments before the Fair takes a percentage and from then on the percentage increases in proportion to the total revenue.

Why—

THE ANSWER IS VERY SIMPLE:

TOBACCOS to taste right in a cigarette need to be flavored or seasoned just the same as you might season a steak or a pudding.

No tobaccos have ever been found that equal the spicy aromatic tobaccos of Turkey and Greece for this purpose. That's why we send 4000 miles for aromatic tobaccos from Samsoun and Smyrna, Xanthi and Cavalla.

CHICAGO TO PAY TRIBUTE TO LAKE IN FETE TONIGHT

Gay Boat Pageant to Be Staged at Fair.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

In a water pageant radiant with decorated yachts, barges, and other craft, under a sky streaked with bursting fireworks and with music echoing everywhere, Chicago will make grateful acknowledgment tonight of its hundred year debt to Lake Michigan.

The fourth day of the Centennial week celebration centers this evening on the historic rôle of the city's greatest natural asset, its refuge and protector against the onslaughts of summer temperatures, which has made this community the ideal hot weather resort.

Flock to State Street.

State street was a kaleidoscope of motion and color yesterday as the Festival week concentrated attention on the limitless variety of stocks available there to the most casual shopper. Executives of the largest stores declared the crowd had been exceeded only by a few dollar day events or Christmas shopping throngs, and that State Street Hospitality day, honoring out of town visitors to A Century of Progress, had been profitable both financially and in good will. Capt. David Flynn, traffic expert, corroborated estimates of the size of the crowd.

As an official gesture opening the day's program of sales, special exhibits, vaudeville entertainment and fashion shows, Rufus Dawes, president of the World's Fair, greeted representatives of the State Street council at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in front of the Palmer house on State street. In the group were Walter Gregory, president of the council; Ray Schaeffer of Marshall Field's, chairman of the event; Leon Mandel of Mandel Brothers, chairman of the civic coöperation committee; Clifford Gregory, chairman of the farm celebration, and Misses Sylvia Paulay and Ida Belle Sellars, hostesses for the day.

Carnival on Lake Front.

The events in the lake program today will start with a performance on the floating theater in the lagoon at A Century of Progress, when a kiltie band will go into action at 6:45 o'clock. From then until midnight the carnival will be in full swing.

Gilbert and Sullivan's enduring airs will wake the echoes as selections from "La Gondolier" and "Pinafore" resound from the floating theater until 10 o'clock. At that time a signal will be given from the Wewintoo, flagship of A Century of Progress fleet anchored in the lagoon, under command of Commodore C. J. Peterson. This blast will herald the start of the water pageant, as the power boats and gondolas begin the long circle of the north and south lagoons.

Gay with banners and streamers, and aglow with artificial illumination, the file will hug the shore as the Wewintoo leads the parade. Foreign exhibitors at the Exposition have taken advantage of the opportunity to deck various vessels in imitation of their native craft. Thus the Chinese junk, the old Viking ships and similar effects have been obtained.

Give Awards for Boats.

Foreign concessionaires also have demonstrated their keen interest in the event by contributing awards for the best decorated boats. Among the articles are a rare old sword from China, brought here for exhibit, and a set of large gold medals struck for the visit of the Balbo armada.

Following the close of the parade in the lagoon larger yachts and steamers will stage a procession of their own in Lake Michigan off the 23d street A. & P. dock.

The pyrotechnic display, scheduled to begun at the same time as the aquatic procession, will be held from the center of the lagoon and from the west shore of Northerly island.

Concessions along the waterfront on both sides of the lagoon have been especially decorated for the evening, and special attractions have been added in honor of Lake Michigan day.

Friday will be automobile day on the week's program, and on Saturday evening in Soldiers' field the observance of the centennial will close with the majestic musical event, the fourth annual Chicagoland Music Festival under the auspices of THE TRIBUNE.

Court Refuses Attachment for Salary of Sally Rand

Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli refused yesterday to issue an attachment on the salary of Sally Rand, fan dancer, sought by the Hepner Hair Goods company of Los Angeles to collect $521 which Sally is alleged to owe for purchases made from the company in 1927. The attachment was sought on the grounds that she is a transient in Chicago. Judge Borrelli ruled that the plantiff had not proved this.

AUSTRIA STRIKES AT CITIZENS WHO WORK FOR NAZIS

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, Aug. 16.—The Austrian cabinet, called to consider charges by the newspaper Reichspost of plans of the Austrian and German Nazis for the conquest of this country, decided tonight on punitive measures against Austrian citizens who work from abroad against the interests of their own nation.

Regulations will be issued making it possible to deprive of his citizenship and property any Austrian who supports any action abroad against his country or who travels in any foreign country for which a visa is necessary without obtaining it. This means Germany.

Another decree will authorize the confiscation of the property of political parties whose activities have been forbidden in Austria. This applies to the Nazis and Communists.

THOUSANDS VISIT AUTO SHOW HELD IN GRANT PARK

First Outdoor Display to Continue 3 More Days.

BY HAL FOUST.

An outdoor automobile show, said to be the first in America, was opened last night in the Congress street plaza in Grant park. Ten thousand persons inspected motordom's displays in the first few hours of the exhibition, which will continue through Saturday night.

On the city's busiest boulevard, Michigan avenue, crowds, assembled at dusk as the latest models of the leading motor car manufacturers were wheeled into the plaza. With night fall, flood lights fell on polished vehicles surrounded by men and women inspecting upholstery, instrument panels, driving controls and other features.

Assembly of New Cars.

The crowds drifted through the show in thousands. Parties en route to the nearby gates of A Century of Progress stopped to gaze at the assembly of new cars and cutaway chassis that reveal the innards of automobiles. They stopped before or after attending the downtown theaters. From the loop hotels came hundreds of out of town visitors.

The automobile, an object of curiosity within the lives of young men has retained its public interest as it has become a common carrier. America has a fondness for this vehicle of rapid and independent transportation, an affection bestowed upon the buggy horse by former generations.

Bright lights and banners of gold and blue, official colors of the Fair, gave a festive touch to the architectural dignity of this plaza in Chicago's front yard, but even without this ornamentation motor car fans [and that means virtually every one] would probably have swarmed the exhibits.

Crowd Asks Questions.

The crowds that enjoyed this display of the new models found them assembled in positions for ready and convenient comparisons. And it was an intelligent inspection, women as well as men, asking attendants about engine displacements, wheel bases centers of gravity and aerodynamics. And, important to the exhibitors, the visitors talked as if in the market for a new car, later if not now.

Lafayette Markle, president of the Chicago Automobile Trade association which sponsored the show at the suggestion of THE TRIBUNE, said that the opening night promised a success for the three days and four nights of the exhibition.

The show is the automobile industry's contribution to Chicagoland week which will end Saturday night with THE TRIBUNE Music Festival in Soldiers' field.

Prizes Given by Auto Body Maker.

W. A. Fisher, president of the Fisher Body corporation, last night bestowed awards valued at $87,000 upon boy winners of the automobile body manufacturer's annual competition in miniature coach building. The awards were made at a banquet in the 131st infantry armory, 16th street and Michigan avenue.

Attending the banquet in a hall decorated to resemble Guild square in Brussels during the middle ages were 112 boys from all parts of the United States and Canada, district champions in a handicraft competition that enrolled 750,000 youngsters last year.

Seven $5,000 Scholarships.

Seven scholarship funds of $5,000 each were the main prizes. The winners were: Myron Webb, Arkansas City, Kas.; E. Stanley Knochel Jr., Baltimore; Jack W. Wicks, St. Paul; Charles Gadd, Spokane; David Tennent and Richard H. Guthrie, London, Ont., and Joseph Olafson, Leslie, Sask.

The speakers, including Mr. Fisher and R. S. McLaughlin, president of General Motors of Canada, praised the interest in craftsmanship displayed by the boys of America during an age when machine production has a tendency to discount appreciation of fine handicrafts.

Reproduce Napoleonic Coach.

In the competition the boys, the juniors ranging in age from 12 to 15 and the seniors from 16 to 19, reproduced in minute detail models of a Napoleonic coach adapted from the carriages that the emperor used when he was married to Marie Louise of Austria and the one he used at his coronation. It is the trade mark of the motor car body manufacturer. Plans and specifications were furnished by the company and the boys' work was judged by a group of manual training teachers, with well known college professors acting as honorary judges.

FRENCH DISTANCE FLYERS HOME; THRONG CHEERS

PARIS, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Several thousand persons today cheered Maurice Rossi and Paul Codos at the city hall, where they were greeted on behalf of the city of Paris in recognition of their recent flight from New York to Rayak, Syria, which set a new distance record. The flyers had landed at Le Bourget airport earlier in the day with an escort of six planes. They were greeted there by about 500 persons, most of them officials. Among those at the airport were Premier Daladier, United States Ambassador Jesse I. Straus, and Air Minister Pierre Cot.

CALL FOR POLICE ACTION TO CURB 'MISSION RACKET'

Reputable Agencies Give Warning to Public.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

In order to stamp out a growing rescue mission racket throughout the city, reputable mission leaders are asking a police investigation of all religious agencies designed to bring religion and aid to down and outers. In addition, the reputable rescue missions urge that neither funds nor clothing be given to any mission not recognized by responsible indorsing agencies, such as the association of commerce or the Chicago Council of Social Agencies.

Following a recent meeting of the Metropolitan division of rescue missions, J. McNiel, vice president of the division and head of the Bible Faith mission, 953 West Adams street, explained the action of the group.

Trying to Protect Public.

"We have done the best we can to protect the generous public against unscrupulous mission racketeers," said Mr. McNiel. "But the increase in the number of the missions—some good and some fraudulent—has been so great we cannot keep track of them all. They are springing up everywhere, more than 200 of them. Some of the missions occupy old stores while others have no headquarters."

Mr. McNiel said that clothing, ostensibly gathered by some missions for distribution among poor families, is sold to second hand shops. He cited a recent case in which a "rescue mission" was fined $200 by Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green. That "rescue mission" had a bank account of $3,000 and the "evangelist" in charge had a large diamond ring.

"For our own protection as well as for the value of our work, all rescue missions of the city should be thoroughly investigated by the police," said Mr. McNiel.

Reveals New Racket.

The president of the Metropolitan division of rescue missions is the Rev. William Seath, head of the Christian Industrial league, 847 West Monroe street. He made public the resolution of the division, pointing out the development of the new racket and urging that gifts be withheld unless the mission in question is indorsed by some well known civic agency.

"The division," says the resolution, "realizes with regret that there are some missions whose methods of organization and operation are questionable, and whose systems of collections and accounting would not meet with the approval of the community."

Alsace and Lorraine Protest Influx of Jews From Germany

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 16.—The arrival of thousands of refugees from the Hitlerite régime in Germany, Jews and others, in the last few months has become an acute problem for Alsace and Lorraine. The commercial capitals of eastern France are making vigorous protests to Paris.

According to protests from the chambers of commerce at Metz, Strasbourg, and Colmar, published here today, a curious combination of difficulties for the economic structure of Alsace and Lorraine is presented by the advent of the thousands from across the Rhine.

A demand is made that the government take immediate steps not only to end the influx but to do something about the refugees already installed.

Create Shortage of Labor.

On the one hand the refugees have suddenly added to the keen competition of commerce and industry in that part of France, thus aggravating the difficult economic condition. On the other hand, rather than adding to unemployment, Alsatians complain that the refugees are setting up businesses and factories and creating a labor shortage.

The textile and clothing industries, particularly in Strasbourg, have had great difficulty in recent years in finding labor, especially women, and now Jews and others with enough money to start enterprises are hiring them away from the French factories.

The Metz Chamber of Commerce urges the government to put the problem before the league of nations, which, it says, should find some means of distributing the refugees, those with money as well as those without, so that such a great burden will not fall upon Lorraine. The chamber of commerce points out that eastern France is favored by the refugees, first, because of its proximity to Germany, and second, because they feel at home there due to the prevalence of bi-lingualism in the restored provinces.

Called Danger to Natives.

The Colmar Chamber of Commerce says:

"We certainly dislike to refuse asylum to those who, tracked down by persecutors deprived of all humanitarian sense, seek to save their lives and savings. But on the other hand we are forced to recognize the danger constituted by the presence of elements who, by their activity, threaten to be prejudicial to our compatriots."

The Strasbourg Chamber of Commerce demands that France denounce the treaty of 1927, under which Germans were accorded favorable treatment for sojourning and establishing themselves in France.

Orders Junkers to Divide Lands.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 16.—The big Junker land owners, including the former royal families, who had come to believe that even the Nazis would not interfere with their vast estates, were rudely awakened by warnings issued by Nazi leaders today.

State Councillor Kahrenstein, Nazi chief in Pomerania, issued a proclamation calling on land owners "in their own interest" to donate land upon which the unemployed are to be settled. Kahrenstein complained that the settlement plan is being held up because of lack of land. He said 100,000 acres will be wanted in Pomerania alone.

Other Warnings Served.

Dr. Kummer, plenipotentiary of the federal ministry of agriculture, who is concerned with questions relating to the development of German peasantry, also warned the large estate owners that they must immediately provide land.

"The fixed goal of the national Socialists is to provide a homestead for every worker," State Councillor Koch, governor of Upper Silesia, said in a proclamation to the workers.

MRS. ROOSEVELT GIVES ADVICE ON 'CODE' SHOPPING

Tells Women to Keep Tab on Price Boosting.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—If you want to give a text to Mrs. Roosevelt's press conference today you may use, "Ladies, beware the pyramids."

In other words, she counseled the consumer [the feminine consumer, in this case] to defend herself against any illegitimate price rise which an unscrupulous merchant might pyramid on the basis of the general price rise indicated in the new code.

It would be both unwise and in most instances impossible, she feels, for the government to take the responsibility of fixing prices in these codes. So it's up to the woman, as the buying agent, to be on the alert for any wide differentiations between prices for the same commodity in the same locality. Once the woman finds such an abnormal price boost, out of proportion to the legitimate price boost, she should report that inequality to Gen. Hugh Johnson, national recovery administrator, or to the labor department, the wife of the President urged.

Government to Aid.

The government, on its side, should help the woman who is defending herself against exorbitant price rises, by furnishing to her any information it has on the original costs of the various commodities. Mrs. Roosevelt went a step further, and said she saw no reason why the data scientifically collected by the federal bureau of standards, data now closely guarded from the public, should not be made readily available to the consumer.

Mrs. Roosevelt also held the mirror up to herself and other women in this modern era when she said that "frequently the raise in price is due to our own demand for service; for service which is not always necessary."

She listed, for instance, the 60 day charge account system at department stores; the delivery system, and the easy return of garments.

"Some women," she declared, "actually purchase for the pleasure of returning the goods later. That is idiotic."

Cash and Carry Customers.

The buyers who pay cash and carry are frequently taxed per purchase for the services given those who charge and have packages delivered.

This prompted one of the reporters to ask its mistress if the White House were on a cash and carry basis.

Mrs. Roosevelt said it was not, entirely; too many things had to be bought. But she said that Mrs. Nesbitt, the housekeeper, did carry many things home. And she thought that perhaps a special charge to those who benefited by the service might be the compromise by which those who didn't demand the service would be relieved of a share of its cost.

After she had declared against the practice of buying six spools of thread and having them delivered, one of the women suggested that the delivery of those six spools of thread made work for somebody.

"Yes," agreed Mrs. Roosevelt, "but I am coming to the conclusion that unnecessary work ought to be eliminated; there is a lot of necessary work in this world still to be done."

English Guest Asks Questions.

Sitting in at this conference was Dame Rachel Crowdy, one of England's distinguished social workers, who interrupted to ask the girls with pencils what they thought of the new deal. The reporters, pleased at the importance which changed them from interviewers to the interviewed, put forth many ideas: The 40 hour week, the socialization of industry, the growing consciousness that it's not only good ethics but good economics to see that "the other fellow" has a job; the hopefulness based on the realization that "the government really cares."

Then Mrs. Roosevelt said she'd like to make a remark. We said that was all right.

She said that to her the most significant thing about today's pattern, which she emphasized is still very much in the weaving stage, is "the wider national knowledge of a larger group."

In "Top Dog" Class.

East is getting to know the west, and north the south; all are seeing that they are economically interrelated. Ont of this, she hopes, will develop a "wider international knowledge."

When the hour was over Dame Rachel said: "What a splendid idea for you newspaper women to meet and discuss these questions with the wife of the President. It makes you top dog now, doesn't it?"

TATTOO MARKING ON ILL WOMAN HELPS TO LOCATE HER HUSBAND

Baltimore, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Tattoo marks covering a husband and a wife from head to foot served today to unite the couple at a hospital here, where the woman lies critically ill with pneumonia.

The woman was admitted to the hospital last Monday, after a policeman had discovered her in a semi-conscious condition in a café, shaking with chills.

There was no way to identify her, but among the intricate designs on her body was the name "Kate Sommers."

Today a policeman noticed a man standing in a doorway. The man's chest and arms were a mass of tattooing. The policeman remembered the story of the tattooed woman and accosted the man, learning later that the sick woman was the man's wife.

TAX ON BEER $6,290,530 FROM APR. 7 TO JUNE 30

U. S. Reports Revenue from All States.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Only a few less than 280,000 persons paid the federal government $6,290,530 during the waning months of the last fiscal year [it ended June 30] for the privilege of making or selling beer.

The internal revenue bureau today made public statistics showing that from April 7, through May and up to last June 30, a total of 277,105 persons had paid license taxes to the government, entirely aside from the levies on the beer itself.

Brewers Pay $331,000.

A total of 331 brewers paid $1,000 each, 14,135 wholesale dealers $50 and 262,639 retail dealers $20 each.

Other figures covering the entire 1933 fiscal year showed 714 liquor dealers paid $100 each and 34,588 persons $25 each for the privelege of selling distilled spirits at retail. This included mostly druggists.

The "special tax" figures showed also that 14,335 persons paid taxes on yachts of from $10 to $40; that 150,188 physicians advanced $1 each for the privilege of prescribing narcotics; 55,855 retail narcotic dealers paid $3 each, and 2,639 wholesale dealers $12 each.

Uncolored oleomargarine was sold by 103,501 retailers at a cost of $6 each; 965 wholesale dealers who paid $200 each, while 102 dealers in the colored product paid $48 and four whole sale dealers $480.

State Begins Enforcement of New Law on Ice Cream

Notices to nearly a thousand ice cream manufacturers in Illinois will be put into the mails today informing the industry that the state intends to enforce the revised dairy and food law section which raises the butter fat requirements in ice cream to 12 per cent instead of the former legal minimum of 8 per cent.

This announcement yesterday from the Chicago office of H. I. Lepman, superintendent of the Illinois division of foods and dairies, will be followed by prosecutions, as soon as present holdings of ice cream are consumed, unless the new requirements are followed, Lepman announced. Nearly twenty million gallons of ice cream are manufactured in Illinois annually.

Regulates Air Content.

The amount of air which may be whipped into the cream is also regulated by the new food law amendment. The amount of ice cream after it has melted cannot be less than half the volume of the ice cream as it is sold in the frozen state.

Another phase of the Chicago dairy and food bureau activity was contained in the announcement yesterday that eighteen suits under the state sanitary law will be called for hearing Friday against milk dispensers operating stands in and near the city of Chicago.

Dr. Clyde L. King, federal milk administrator in Washington, D. C., has been notified that 110 inspections by Chicago inspectors have disclosed sanitary violations in selling milk and other dairy products. A number of the violations were charged to milk stand operators now contemplating action in Washington to have have the Chicago milk code set aside or amended to permit lower cash and carry prices.

Leave for Washington.

Thirty representatives of dairy farmers of the United States left yesterday for Washington to appear before Agricultural Administrator George N. Peek in protest against alleged delays and red tape in putting the farm relief program in shape to aid the dairy industry.

The delegation included 16 members of the National Coöperative Milk Producers' federation which concluded yesterday a two day executive meeting on the plight of the dairy farmer. In addition committees appointed by Gov. Floyd Olson of Minnesota and Gov. Schmedeman of Wisconsin accompanied the group.

CUBA TO ASK U. S. LOANS TO PAY UP MACHADO DEBTS

Public Pay Rolls Found Far in Arrears.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 16.—Cuba, at the outset of the new deal to be instituted by the government of President Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, is faced with an accumulation of unpaid pay rolls like Chicago. One of the early items of the economic reconstruction program is expected to be negotiations for American loans.

Departments are in such a state of confusion that figures on island finances are difficult to get. Some groups of employés are unpaid for more than a year. The army is paid almost to date. It was the instrument upon which the regime of former President Machado relied to keep in the saddle until it suddenly revolted last Friday and sent Machado and leading officials of his government fleeing to refuge.

Budget Cut More than Half.

An accumulation of back wages has piled up despite efforts to balance the budget by Machado, who began drastic economies two and one half years ago. Salaries of 25,000 government employés were cut four times. Reductions were made in the budget. The best available figures from bankers although unofficial, are that the budget was cut from around $80,000,000 in 1925 to $37,000,000 in 1933. Last year it was around $50,000,000.

Meanwhile, however, business remained in a slump and debts piled up in Machado's new deal public program, which made him popular a few years ago, kept clamoring for payment. He started in 1925 with a great program of new highways, schools, aqueducts, and a new capitol and at the start the trumpets were sounded that he was clearing away graft.

The public works program called for an expenditure of more than $200,000,000, half to come from taxation and half from short term loans by American bankers.

Builds 700 Mile Highway.

In 1926 the building of a central highway about 700 miles long was started in all six provinces. Several aqueducts were begun and also the beautification of cities. The program made Machado immensely popular. He was feted and banqueted, and he walked up and down the streets unprotected, with no secret service at his heels.

Then came the sugar stabilization adventure, similar to the United States' experiment in wheat under the federal farm board. About $42,000,000 was spent on sequestering 1,700,000 tons of raw sugar from the market, but prices went down instead of up, as was the case with American wheat.

Seek to Refinance Debts.

Interest never quits working. About $1,500,000 a month is being paid on interest and amortization. To raise this special taxes have been levied and business men affirm their belief that one of the items in President de Cespedes' new deal will be to seek the refinancing of borrowings under the Machado régime so that the payments will be spread over a long period, thus giving the next generation a chance to pay part of the debt.

Much graft was charged in the Machado building and public works program. In addition there came reforms in the constitution under which the terms of the presidency and many other offices, including congress, were extended to six years, and political parties other than the old Conservative, Liberal, and Popular organizations were prohibited. A coalition of these three parties placed all the legalized political organizations and all job holders behind the Machado régime and made him an unopposed candidate on his reëlection in 1928.

Friction Already Appearing.

The effort to choke the opposition groups led to a period of bloodshed and killings. Out of all these things came the national boycott and general strike which ousted the Machado régime.

Although Havana and the rest of the island are rapidly approaching normal, friction is appearing in spots. The brain trust, which is the ABC revolutionary movement, seems inclined to disagree with Ambassador Welles on matters concerning constitutional procedure. Welles is silent as six sphinxes, keeping up the old fashioned diplomatic tradition. He wants the present congress retained.

Group A of the brain trust is composed largely of college professors, engineers, and lawyers. The professors and student of the University of Havana at meetings yesterday avowed their intention to force the ouster of congress and thus eliminate all traces of the late Machado régime.

Congress, as a matter of fact, has been dead since Saturday, when its members went into hiding. It simply ducked for cover and is afraid to come back. Some members of the brain trust insist that the body is of no use to Cuba if it cannot meet and they want a special election within 60 days.

Countering Welles' plea to keep the present congress and thus keep the nation on a constitutional basis, some members of the brain trust say that even the good old U. S. A., according to some legal talent, may have stepped out of the constitution in establishing its recovery machinery.

Water Front Strike Persists.

The latest report is that enough members of congress to constitute a quorum may be prevailed upon to venture back and support the new administration's measures.

Along the water front the strike of longshoremen, stevedores, and dock wallopers still persists. They seek changes in wages and working conditions. The harbor is still a trouble spot.

The S. S. Franconia arrived today and soon 700 tourists were swarming over Havana. Many of them were school teachers.

22 Exiles Reach Jamaica.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Aug. 16.—(AP)—A party of 22 Cuban political refugees, headed by Gen. Alberto Herrera, former war secretary in the Machado administration and provisional president for a few hours last week-end, arrived today on the United Fruit company steamship Quirigua. Gen. Herrera declined to comment on the Cuban situation. The party included Alberto Barreras, former president of the Cuban senate.

IDLE CLERK ENDS LIFE.

Walter H. Tietz, 27 years old, 3828 Osgood street, an unemployed clerk, committed suicide last night by shooting himself while at the rear of the Greeley branch of the Lakeview High school, Grace street and Sheffield avenue.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—The menacing hand of Cuba's revolutionary forces reached out to Philadelphia today and sent Mrs. Gerardo Machado, wife of the deposed president of Cuba, scurrying into a heavily guarded refuge here.

Fleeing Havana's wrath, she and her party of sixteen refugees unexpectedly stepped from a Pennsylvania railroad train and took cover in the Pennsylvania hotel when word reached her that vengeful enemies of the Machado régime awaited her arrival in New York.

The refugee party remained in strict seclusion and Acting Superintendent of Police Le Strange took personal charge of arrangements to maintain a close guard. Jose Emilio Obregon, Mrs. Machado's son-in-law, said the party planned to remain in Philadelphia several days, after which they probably will seek more permanent refuge at a seashore resort as yet unselected.

HORNER APPEALS TO NRA AGAINST CEMENT COMBINE

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—The national industrial recovery administration today was requested by Gov. Horner to act to break up a cement combine operating in Illinois, retarding work on construction of Illinois highways. The governor's telegram to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson follows:

"I urge that before approving code for Portland cement industry you insist on safeguards to public interest and for protection of consumers. Recovery act provides codes shall not permit monopolies. Cement companies now consitute virtual monopoly and code should curb rather than extend powers. Uniformity of bids submited to Illinois and unanimous refusal of producers to sell F. O. B. mills and to arbitrate price are flagrant evidence of collusion.

"Prices submitted February this year raised sixty-eight cents per barrel or seventy-five per cent over last year and in further defiance further advance of twenty-five cents recently announced. Competent and impartial investigation shows mill net price of approximately one dollar barrel fair for Illinois, but present quotation averages one dollar fifty cents at mill. Inability of Illinois to purchase cement requirements at fair price seriously curtailing highway construction and keeping thousands of men from employment. Exorbitant profits to cement companies will reduce construction and employment resulting from public works program.

"Unless code action taken promptly the season and opportunity for employment in road building will have passed. I urge that code give consumer maximum protection against price fixing now prevalent in cement industry in Illinois. Detailed information regarding Illinois situation furnished federal trade commission in May. Additional data will be furnished you on request."

MISSOURI URGED BY GOVERNOR TO VOTE ON REPEAL

Jefferson City, Mo., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Gov. Guy B. Park today urged Missouri citizens to vote Saturday in the state election on the proposed repeal of the 18th amendment.

"I was elected on and I will stand on the Democratic platform," he said, forecasting returns favoring repeal 3 to 1.

Lack of interest of the average Missourian has caused anti-prohibition chieftains their only expressed concern. Dry leaders have made no forecast of the result.

Joseph T. Davis, St. Louis attorney and head of the United Repeal Council of Missouri, said 100 of the state's 114 counties favored elimination of the 18th amendment.

Missouri is the 22d state to vote on the question. The 21 which have balloted all favored repeal.

New York Plans Tax of $15,000 Year on Distillers

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 16.—(AP)—A liquor control bill with license fees ranging from $15,000 a year for distillers to $500 for retail dealers in small cities was agreed upon by Democratic and Republican leaders in the New York legislature today. The bill will give the state alcoholic beverage control board, now governing the distribution of beer and 3.2 wine, the control over liquor as well.

STOLEN PAPERS LEAD LAWYER TO POISON FOUR

Boy, 3, Causes Capture, Confession.

Hot Springs, Ark., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Mark H. Shank, lawyer from Akron, O., confessed today that a woman's demand for $400 on threats to involve him in the theft of evidence sent him on a murder trip to Arkansas. Shank, cut and bruised by underbrush after fleeing from a bloodhound, admitted poisoning grape juice given to Alvin Colley, his wife and three small children at a picnic lunch near Malvern, in an adjoining county.

Prosecuting Attorney Millar Halbert said he would ask for the death penalty in reply to Shank's plea for leniency.

Charged with Theft.

Colley was charged with the theft of papers from the prosecuting attorney's office at Wooster, O. Those papers were to have been used as evidence against a client, Kenneth Braucher, in a forgery case. Shank said in the confession. Shank said that illness kept him from the trial and another took his place. Then he learned of the stolen papers.

A letter from Shank, written to Mrs. Colley Aug. 7, said, "Don't worry and don't lose your heads and we will beat them, and I believe this is the chance of your lifetime because I am sure Alvin can make a fortune. He is smarter than they are."

Questioned about this Shank said it referred to Colley's suit for injury as an Akron employé.

Shank said Colley had been running around with the woman, who demanded $400.

Gets Poison "for Rats."

Shank said he bought the poison in a drug store in Kenmore, an Akron, suburb, telling the clerk he wanted it to kill rats. He said he had observed the poison's reaction on rats. He said at that time he thought only of Colley. Shank asserted he arrived in Hot Springs Sunday afternoon, spent the night in the same apartment house with the Colleys, and on Monday they took a motor trip to Malvern, then to Little Rock, starting back Tuesday morning by way of Malvern.

Shank said that while Colley was gone with a farm youth to get water for a picnic luncheon he put poison in five paper cups containing grape juice. If a surviving child saw him, as the child has related, Shank said he did not know that.

New York, Aug. 16.—[Special.]—The giant Italian liner Rex moved triumphantly up from quarantine to her berth at the foot of West 46th street today, magnificent in her new glory as the fastest commercial ship afloat. She docked at 8:55 o'clock, completing the 3,188 mile voyage from Gibraltar at an average speed of 28.96 knots.

With all her signal flags from bow to mainmast and from stern to aftermast in gay display and with her band playing the "March Royale," she moved up the North river in stately splendor, acknowledging the salutes of harbor craft. It was an hour of triumph which none begrudged her.

In crossing the Atlantic in four days thirteen hours and fifty-eight minutes, she wrested from the North German Lloyd liner Bremen the record for the westward journey and bettered the best average time of the Europa, sister ship of the Bremen, for the eastward voyage. Thus the mythical blue ribbon for trans-Atlantic speed supremacy has passed to her without dispute.

In making this record crossing she also set a world's record for a daily run, covering 736 sea miles yesterday at an average speed of 29.61 knots.

The Bremen's record for the westward course, established in September, 1932, was 4 days 15 hours and 56 minutes.

U. S. MAY CUT APPROPRIATION FOR AIR MAIL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—(AP)—The post office department announced late tonight that it had summoned airmail carriers into a conference on Aug. 24 to discuss the need for reducing airmail expenditures so as to keep them within the amount allowed by congress.

Last session, congress, after much wrangling, cut the total airmail appropriation from the $19,460,000 allowed last year to $15,000,000 for the current twelve months. Officials pointed out that there might be even a further reduction.

W. W. Howes, second assistant postmaster general, said that contracts for 26 routes were outstanding and that all would be considered at the meeting next week.

CHEER FOR HITLER STARTS TORONTO RIOT; MANY HURT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 16.—An unidentified youth waving a swastika flag and shouting, "Hail, Hitler!" today precipitated a riot here. Jewish and Gentile onlookers at an amateur ball game in Willowvale park engaged each other in a pitched battle with fists, feet, and baseball bats. Four persons were taken to a hospital and scores limped home injured. When news of the battle reached the Jewish section of Toronto, truck loads of Jews came pouring up to the scene of conflict and a Gentile youth was kicked into unconsciousness. Police reserves dispersed the battlers after an hour of hostilities. The Jews are threatening reprisals.

MORE FORGERIES ARE REVEALED IN KANSAS SCANDAL

Bogus County Warrants Total $150,000.

Topeka, Kas., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Digging deeper into the forgeries of Ronald Finney, speculator, investigators today discovered forged county warrants aggregating $150,000. All were on rural high school district No. 5, Pratt county, and were scattered in several states, according to Fred M. Harris, Don C. Little, and Hugo T. Wedell, in charge of the state's investigation into the bond scandal. All of the outstanding warrants of the school district were funded in June, 1931.

There is evidence that these forged warrants were widely scattered, and the discovery brings known forgeries by Finney and his aids to $1,150,000.

Some in Closed Banks.

A few of the forged warrants were placed in escrow with Finney banks, now closed for examination, and the remainder either sold to banks, brokers or investors elsewhere, or placed as security with brokers in Kansas and Chicago.

County warrants, if legal and regular, are negotiable the same as municipal bonds. Federal authorities are tracing Finney's activities to determine the extent he used the mails in distributing his bogus bonds and warrants, with the view of federal prosecution.

This angle will be discussed by S. M. Brewster, federal district attorney, in his conferences in Washington with Attorney General Cummings and with other federal authorities.

Treasurer Refuses to Resign.

Refusal of Tom Boyd, state treasurer, to resign after his arrest Tuesday on charges of mishandling state funds in connection with the Finney activities did not worry Gov. Landon, who today said he would ask the legislature to impeach the treasurer. It also was indicated that impeachment proceedings will be asked against Roland Boynton, attorney general; Will J. French, state auditor, and W. T. Markham, state superintendent of public instruction.

These three officials have charge of the state school fund, involved in the bond activities of Finney. Charges of negligence of duty will be placed against them, it is understood. If either official had been alert, the Finney forgeries could not have occurred, according to Gov. Landon.

Boyd's defense, as outlined in his letter of refusal to resign, will be that "he did nothing wrong" in allowing Finney free access to the bond vaults, and that "the governor has no authority to place the treasurer's office under military guard."

BAIL OF $300,000 SET BY U. S. FOR BAILEY AND GANG

Bond Only Covers Charge of Kidnaping.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 17.—[Special.]—First steps in the prosecution of Harvey Bailey, desperado leader of an infamous gang of criminals, and four others charged with the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil millionaire, were taken yesterday by the federal government when the prisoners were ordered held in bonds totaling $300,000.

Pleas of not guilty were entered by each when they were arraigned before United States Commissioner Lee R. Smith in an improvised courtroom on the fifth floor of the county jail here where they have been held since their arrest early Saturday at a farm house near Paradise, Tex.

$100,000 Bond for Leader.

Bailey's bond was fixed at $100,000 while bonds of $50,000 each were set for R. G. Shannon, Wise county farmer on whose land Bailey was captured; Mrs. Shannon, their son, Armon, and Armon's wife, Oleta.

Even though Bailey is able to post bond, federal agents declared they still would not release him since he is an escaped convict from the Kansas penitentiary at Lansing and is also charged with murder in connection with the massacre of five persons in Kansas City.

May Go to Oklahoma City.

The five prisoners will be held here pending possible removal to Oklahoma City on federal warrants which arrived Tuesday. Before the transfer can be made, however, approval of a federal judge in this district will have to be obtained. Bailey is expected to be taken to Kansas City to stand trial for murder.

Police at Denver, Col., yesterday increased their guard over Albert Bates, held there as a suspect in the kidnaping of Urschel. A close watch is also being kept by Colorado officers for a 16 cylinder car which it is believed is being used by George [Machine Gun] Kelly, who, authorities say, was also connected with the abduction of the oil man.

Tammany Placed in Peril by One of Its Own Choice

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Unless great care is exercised, Senator Royal S. Copeland is likely to find out something about a connection between rackets and Tammany politics in New York City and that, I imagine, would be a great disillusionment to the senator.

The senator, or Doc, as we used to call him when he was the health commissioner of New York City under Mayor Hylan, and the reporters had a habit of dropping round to his office of a Sunday afternoon for the Monday morning epidemic, is a Tammany politician himself.

But he is one of the elective politicians, like the incumbent mayor, Mr. O'Brien, as distinguished from the kind of politician who elects their kind. His kind merely carry the target, make the speeches about the sacred heritage and the inspiring sacrifice of Valley Forge on the Fourth of July and attend to the baby kissing and all such harmless trifles of statesmanship.

Sent to Washington.

There has been a disposition among the citizens to suspect that when Tammany sends a man to either house of the U. S. congress, Tammany thereafter tells that one what to do on all matters which come up in Washington. But that would be an injustice to both Senator Copeland and Leader John Curry.

The senator is not so dumb that he would have to ask what he was supposed to do about a given proposition and Mr. Curry is not so dumb as to send such a dumb senator to Washington. When you send a man down to be senator you expect him to know what to do, and it is a pleasure to point out that Senator Copeland has given Tammany general satisfaction in his work for a long time.

Not a Dumb Move.

I thought the senator kicked one when he brought on this senatorial investigation of the rackets and their connection with politics, but perhaps that was not as dumb as it looked. Perhaps he figured that if he didn't do this then some one of a fault finding disposition and with a reputation for suspicion and destructive criticism would conduct the investigation and go around uttering a lot of sinister innuendoes about a relationship between the hoodlums who throw acid on the citizens' clothes in the dry cleaning plants and the Tammany leader sitting in his clubhouse around the corner.

I think you will find, when all has been said and done, that Senator Copeland, for his part, tried his best to keep the investigation on a high, constructive, optimistic plane, and to avoid testimony of a kind which would tend to smirch the reputations of good and charitable men who sit almost as fathers to their constituents in the many districts of a great city.

Successful in Former Days.

I remember the senator from his Doc days. His office was a regular call on the beat then, and I will say that no other health commissioner since his time has scored as often or as heavily in the papers as he did when he was endearing himself to the voters and developing the qualities of statesmanship which presently singled him out for membership in the world's greatest deliberative body.

I think it must have been the Doc whose example pointed out to the Anti-Saloon league that the best time to release a story was on Sunday afternoon, when the city desks were blowing up cheap murders into society mysteries and a neighborhood feud between a couple of crowds of barefoot farmers in Central America had to do duty as a revolution.

In the Good Old Days.

The Doc used to time his epidemics for Sunday afternoons and we used to fall in together in our converging ways to his office down in an old loft building where you rode up a freight elevator and then sat on a swaybacked leatheroid couch and asked one another facetiously, "Well, what is it going to be? Flu, infantile, or Asiatic cholera?"

We had a typhus story out of there once. I disrecall the details, but I think some seaman on a ship came down with cramps and then somebody killed a rat and—no, I guess that must have been a cholera story.

Well, any way, we used to enjoy visiting the old Doc and kidding about his Monday morning epidemics, the cumulative publicity power of which, among other publicity, presently made him a big newspaper man in New York. Then, there being no objections, Tammany sent him down to the United States senate, and there he has been ever since. Moreover, he has been by no means the worst United States senator of his time, which you may interpret as a churlish crack at the United States senate if you are the sort who would hurt a good man's feelings just to make a clever joke.

Danger in Witnesses.

What alarms me on the senator's account at present is the utterly destructive, partisan attitude of some of the witnesses who were called before his racket investigation to offer helpful suggestions and who abused the courtesy and the opportunity to let fly sinister innuendoes of a kind which must have occasioned sharp distress to so genial and placative a man as our own dear Doc. Certainly he used to denounce the flu and uncleanliness and the common cold, and in no uncertain terms, either, as he would be likely to say.

But he never was one to stir up suspicion and trouble among men or to deal in unkind personalities in a campaign. He scorned the theory that a politician who avoids personalities in a campaign does so out of a fear of counter personalities. He is a right living, usual, ordinary citizen, educated for medicine who chucked his profession to accept a $10,000 job and the spiritual perquisites of minor fame and a split second of immortality, as time goes, from Tammany Hall.

Grieved by Ordeal.

I didn't see him wince, but I am sure his idealistic soul puckered a bit at the words of George Medalie, pronounced Medal-yah, the Republican United States prosecutor and anti-Tammany fusionist, who remarked before Senator Copeland's committee that he could name four politicians, "who stand right out in front of our faces," who were patrons of racketeers in New York.

Old Senator Walsh, who died last winter, was one of the destructive critic type. He would have hopped up from his chair to demand in that resined voice of his just who these four were. He would have demanded also the names of those others, less prominent than those four "who stand right out in front of our faces," whom Mr. Medalie mentioned and he would have sent the army out, if necessary, to grab them and bring them in.

Spared for Time Being.

But Senator Copeland did not press Mr. Medalie for any names and he is, for the time being at least, spared the disillusionment which would make him so unhappy were he to be shown that all that Mr. Medalie said is so.

Senator Walsh would have occasioned great personal distress to many individuals, but the old doc has deferred things until October, at which time, instead of calling politicians and racketeers, as Walsh or Seabury would have done, he will invite in doctors to guess what proportion of crime may be attributable to the fact that the criminals do not feel well.

Squads Search Wisconsin for Touhy Gang.

men were supposed to start out in the cab, the gang telephoned Factor's agents, telling them the money should be passed, not on Mannheim road, but at Smith's barbecue stand, Wolf road near Ogden avenue. Their change of directions crippled our whole plan of operation.

"As for arming McKenna and Meyers with pistols, it was vetoed for a good reason. Our information was that there would be not two but nine in the collection party. Our information was that four would be in one car and five in another. With such a force as that, we figured there was a good chance that they might search Meyers and McKenna and a certainty that they would kill them if they found them armed. Both are married men."

Machine Gun Dismantled.

In the cab the disguised policemen had a machine gun. It was dismantled, however, and stowed under the rear seat cushion, so that a minimum of five minutes was required to unlimber and get it into action.

"We talked over the possibility of concealing the machine gun fully assembled under a coat on the rear seat," said Sergt. Naughton. "We voted it down because the drum of the gun left a bulge that could not be concealed. Besides, we were afraid that one of the nine gangsters we had expected might get into the cab and ride with McKenna. If the hoodlum sat down on the gun we figured both McKenna and Meyers would be killed.

"At least, nothing like that happened. If any of our men had been killed, and the gang still have got away, the record would look worse."

WEALTHY ST. LOUIS MEN CALLED TARGETS OF KIDNAP PLOTTERS

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Reported plots to kidnap Henry Chouteau, capitalist and large real estate owner, and to extort between $5,000 and $10,000 from August A. Busch Jr., wealthy brewer, were revealed by police here tonight.

Joseph Gerk, chief of police, said he had discussed with Chouteau information which had come into the hands of the police department.

Gerk also said a letter demanding the money from Busch, who is vice president of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., had been turned over to the postal authorities.

The information concerning Chouteau was rather vague, the chief said. He said Chouteau told him he had never heard of a plot to kidnap him and had received no threatening letters or telephone calls.

CONTRACTS LET FOR NEW TEXAS OBSERVATORY

Contracts for the construction of the new McDonald observatory of the University of Texas on Mount Locke in southwestern Texas, were signed yesterday. A telegram announcing the action was received by Dr. Otto Struve, director of the University of Chicago's Yerkes observatory, who will also be director of McDonald observatory under a cooperative agreement between the two universities.

The new observatory's 80 inch reflecting telescope, which will be the second largest in the world, will be made by the Corning Glass Works, of Corning, N. Y. The big mirror will be made of pyrex glass so that its low coefficient of expansion will prevent changes in the shape of the mirror when temperatures vary.

The contract for the observatory structure was awarded to Warner & Swasey company of Cleveland. This concern built the mounting for the Yerkes observatory's 40 inch refractor, largest of its type in existence. The McDonald observatory is to be completed within two and a half years.

BODY FOUND IN RIVER.

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 16.—(AP)—The body of William Johnson, 20, was taken from the Rock river today, ending a search which began when he disappeared while fishing last Sunday night.

WIFE OF TORCH VICTIM ADMITS HIS FEAR OF HER

Denies Knowledge of His Flame Slaying.

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Earl Hanson, 42 year old industrial executive who met a flaming death in his automobile at his divorced wife's home on Rock river north of Rockford Sunday night, lived in mortal fear of his wife. For several years before he and his wife separated he slept behind locked doors. This was admitted tonight by Mrs. May Hanson, 38, the victim's former wife, during another questioning by authorities.

Mrs. Hanson was subjected to two hours of questioning by State's Attorney Robert E. Nash following the funeral of her former husband. The woman, still firm in her denials of complicity in the death of Hanson, expressed no desire to attend the funeral this afternoon. She was kept in her county jail cell while the rites were in progress.

Admits No Attempt at Rescue.

Although denying that she killed her former husband by throwing gasoline over him as he backed his machine from the driveway of her home and then igniting his clothing with a match, Mrs. Hanson admitted that she made no attempt to help Hanson as he lay enveloped in flames beside his car.

"When you saw him lying beside the car, why didn't you go to his assistance?" Nash asked Mrs. Hanson.

"What could I do? What was there to do? No, I did nothing," was the reply.

When asked if she hadn't thrown the pan of gasoline over Hanson and ignited it with a match she shouted her denials back at her questioners.

"I didn't do it! I wish to God you would believe me!" she cried.

When asked whether there was any one else who would have had reason to kill her ex-husband the woman replied, "No one—unless it was I, and I didn't do it."

Denies Attack with Pliers.

Authorities questioned Mrs. Hanson tonight concerning a report that she had attempted to kill her husband in a Rockford store several years ago with a pair of pliers. She denied this.

The widow told authorities that if she had desired to hurt her husband she could have revealed things in his life that would have caused a public scandal and resulted in his losing his friends.

Four close friends of Hanson, questioned also tonight by authorities, revealed details of the married life of the couple, which, they said, had been marked by continuous quarrels and bickerings.

Persons who arrived at the death scene at Mrs. Hanson's house Sunday night declared it to be their opinion that Hanson lay on the ground with his body enveloped in flames for nearly half an hour before a neighbor beat out the flames. Mrs. Hanson, they said, stood by and made no attempt to aid him.

Several hundred friends and curious spectators gathered at the Fred C. Olson undertaking parlors this afternoon while the funeral of Hanson was in progress.

AUSTRALIA MAY PAY IMMIGRANTS $900 "INDEMNITY"

MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 16.—(AP)—The government today put into effect a plan whereby sums ranging from $900 to $2,250 will be paid British immigrants who claim the state has not fulfilled its obligations, assumed in encouraging them to come here.

A royal commission found that the opportunity given settlers who migrated under a scheme launched in 1922 fell short of the state's obligations in making possible the acquisition of farms and earning a livelihood.

A sum in excess of $1,800,000 has been mentioned as the total probably needed for the payments. For years settlers have complained of conditions under which they said they were induced to move.

WOMAN HELD FOR SLAYING OF THREE MEN

Grundy, Va., Aug. 16.—(AP)—A charge of slaying three men whose bodies were found in an automobile on Knox creek, in Buchanan county, tonight was lodged against Matilda Roberts, 39, of Lindsey, W. Va.

The warrant was issued by Trial Justice W. Clyde Dennis of Buchanan county after long questioning of the woman, who was found walking along a highway near Panther, W. Va., just across the state line.

Constables Powell Stapleton and Ray Johnson, who arrested her, said the woman admitted she was in the automobile at the time it stopped in an isolated section, but had left the car before the three men were shot to death.

The victims were H. D. Akers of Princeton, W. Va., a deputy sheriff; J. Walter Collins, 45, of Tioga, W. Va., and his uncle, Hiley Collins, 78, of Webster county, W. Va.

The bodies were found by B. L. Dotson. He told the officers he heard a woman scream as an automobile passed his home and then heard shots.

They said he added that the car stopped and two more shots were heard as he and his son hurried up the highway. He said he saw the car roll down a small embankment, apparently after Akers, who was driving, had been shot.

Matilda Roberts, questioned about statements by Mercer county, W. Va., officers that Akers had joined the party at the request of Collins, who said a woman had suddenly become insane, declared that she had been drinking and was dizzy when Collins asked for aid.

She said women's wearing apparel found in the car belonged to her.

The motive for the slayings was a mystery to officers both here and in Mercer county. They said discovery of money on each of the bodies discounted original theories that the men were shot in an attempted robbery. About $400 was found sewed in the shirt of one victim.

4-11 FIRE CAUSES $100,000 DAMAGE IN VARNISH PLANT

A 4-11 alarm and several specials early today summoned hundreds of fireman to battle a spectacular blaze in the plant of the Tousey Varnish company at 529 West 25th street.

The flames, spreading rapidly as they attacked the inflammable materials used in the making of paints and varnishes, involved the entire two story structure, about 300 feet square, dan destroyed the interior in a short time. Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan said that the loss probably would exceed $100,000.

A number of explosions, attributed to benzine tanks, took place while the fire was in progress.

TWO DIE IN RANCH FIRE.

Sturgis, S. D., Aug. 16.—(AP)—A 24 year old mother and her 2 year old son were burned to death, and the father and two men were severely injured, in a ranch fire near Bonetta Springs last night. The dead are Mrs. Adelain Corwin and her son.

CHICAGO SPECIALIST* FINDS AMAZING NEW DIRECT RELIEF FOR HAY FEVER!

Results of Short-Cut Method Surpass All Previous Efforts in Test Cases . . . Believed to Be Final Answer to the Riddle of Pollen Poisoning!

THIS announces the most remarkable relief in the history of hay fever . . . A Chicago specialist has simplified the complicated "pollen theory" to one single fact. And reduced its treatment to one simple remedy. With results that are the wonder of hay fever students.

Not a narcotic deadening of the nerves. Not an astringent drying up mucous membrane. Not a local treatment in any sense—but direct action in neutralizing the poison found in all hay fever victims observed. Relief is not only prompt, but thorough. It is believed to be the final answer to the baffling problems of hay fever and related allergic suffering.

Amazing New Facts

This specialist thoroughly believes in the theory newly advanced by medical science that all allergic diseases (hay fever, hives, etc.), result directly from a poisonous histamine-like substance found in the blood in excess amounts. Histamine is a poisonous end-product of protein—and all pollens are protein. Regardless of what pollens the patient was sensitive to, science has found that the histamine-like substance was always present. "It is the histamine poisoning caused by pollens—not the pollens themselves—which is the underlying cause of hay fever suffering," reasoned the doctor. A complete right about face.

The "Short-Cut" Treatment Found

Now, after 2½ years of research, this specialist has perfected Histeen—a safe preparation which promptly counteracts the effects of histamine poisoning. Often within a few minutes after the first dose relief from hay fever symptoms has followed. And the remarkable thing is that this relief is not just temporary but lasting. So rapid that relief in some cases appeared almost immediately; and so thorough that all apparent symptoms had disappeared.

NOTE: Hives, rose fever and urticaria are all "allergic" diseases, like hay fever, and also are accompanied by excess histamine. Consequently, Histeen, which combats histamine, is as effective in these diseases as in hay fever.

HISTEEN
NO NARCOTICS . . . SAFE TO TAKE

These tablets promise relief to hay fever sufferers of a kind never before possible with salves, sprays, inhalers, or any other form of local application.

Laboratory Tested

These findings were verified by independent scientific tests in the laboratories of a famous medical university before offering this discovery to the public.

Now Histeen is available in drug stores. It is taken internally, in convenient tablet form, and is absolutely safe. It is complete in itself without sprays, salves or any other addition. And being utterly different, will not interfere with any other treatment. It simply acts to neutralize the effect of the histamine poisoning. But that is enough to bring thorough relief—often in the first few minutes!

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE

CALL FOR MORE JUDGES TO WAR AGAINST CRIME

Scanlan First to Respond; 7 to Prison in Day.

The judges of the Criminal court yesterday sentenced seven more criminals to the penitentiary. This raised the total of such sentences to 134 since the campaign against crime was started two weeks ago by Chief Justice John Prystalski of the court. It was the fewest sentences in a day since the Criminal court campaign was started after the murder of Policeman John Sevick in the courtroom of Judge Charles P. Molthrop.

Judge Prystalski said, however, that the letup was only temporary and that he hopes to have the campaign in full swing again by Monday when additional volunteer judges are expected to fill the four vacancies caused by the departure of volunteer judges from the Criminal court to fulfill their duties in the Civil courts.

Judge Scanlan Volunteers.

Judge Kickham Scanlan of the Appellate court, who a dozen years ago presided over the Criminal court when a campaign against quick triggered gunmen sent a dozen or more of them to the gallows, was the first to answer the new appeal of the chief justice for recruits. He will start to work in the Criminal court on Monday. Other volunteers are expected to be heard from today, the chief justice said.

Chief Justice Prystalski announced that he is planning a campaign against murderers, seven of whom will be arraigned before him this morning. Judges Scanlan and Marcus Kavanagh, both veterans of the bench and with years of Criminal court experience, along with Judge Harry B. Miller, who also has had considerable Criminal court experience of late, will form the trio of judges on whom the chief justice will depend for speedy action in the campaign.

Sent to Prison for Life.

The severest sentence yesterday was that imposed on William Seerey, 36 years old, who was ordered to prison for life under the habitual criminal act by Judge Ross C. Hall, another Appellate court jurist who is sitting in the Criminal court during the crime drive. Seerey was found guilty by a jury after 30 minutes deliberation.

The evidence in the Seerey case was unusual. He had appeared last May as the prosecuting witness against Otto Eckhardt, who is now serving a 1 year to life sentence for the robbery of the Texas company plant at 1764 Kingsbury street. Seerey was night watchman at the plant and was one of a group of employés tied up by robbers who took $1,166. Several months later, as the result of a statement made by Eckhardt to the warden of the penitentiary, Seerey was arrested.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller took the witness stand yesterday during the trial to testify that Seerey, when confronted by Eckhardt, confessed that he had framed the robbery. An investigation then disclosed that Seerey had served a prison term for robbery from 1920 to 1926.

Other Sentences Imposed.

Other sentences imposed yesterday were as follows:

BEN HENRY, 26 years old, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in prison by Judge Miller for assault to rob. On June 18 he attempted to rob Miss Bernice Hannaberg, cashier of the Irving theater, 4003 Irving Park boulevard. He was caught in the act by Policeman Thomas Gubbins.

DANIEL BARDELL, 22 years old, sentenced to 1 to 10 years by Judge Prystalski for stealing $100 worth of property from the automobile of Walter Waltz, a visitor from Milwaukee. He had a minor police record.

STEVE BARBECK, 17 years old, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell for the same crime. He had no previous record.

JAMES LESTER, colored, sentenced to 1 year in the penitentiary by Judge Miller after he was found guilty of raping Mrs. Lillie Robinson, also colored, on May 25.

STEVE ZAJECKA, 32 years old, sentenced to 1 to 14 years for manslaughter by Judge Benjamin Epstein. On June 17 he shot Fred Jirak during a quarrel.

HAROLD LEE, 17 years old, colored, sentenced to 1 year to life by Judge Kavanagh for robbing the home of Mrs. Beatrice Knight, 5841 Indiana avenue, on July 4.

JACOB KENO, 36 years old, sentenced to 1 to 10 years by Judge Prystalski for embezzling $24,500 from Coty, Ltd., of which he was the office manager for six years.

Judge Daniel P. Trude concluded his work in the Criminal court work by imposing an additional sentence of 1 to 10 years on Albert Pontrelli for violation of probation which was granted him on Jan. 17 by Judge Francis Allegretti. He was sentenced last week for another robbery.

Two Guilty Verdicts Returned.

Two guilty verdicts were returned by juries last evening, but new trial motions were held in abeyance until next week. Dominic Galasso, 17 years old, and Charles Catenazzo, 19, were found guilty of automobile stealing in Judge Prystalski's court. John Stevens, 47 years old, was found guilty of manslaughter in Judge Molthrop's court. He shot a porter to death while intoxicated.

Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green of the Felony court outlined to Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker yesterday his plan to rid Chicago of gun carriers by the issuance of search warrants under a new law. The judge said he is willing to issue the warrants in wholesale lots if the police will apply for them. None were applied for yesterday.

"I have just begun to realize the importance of this Felony court," said the judge. "This court is the hopper that feeds the grand jury and the Criminal courts. I realize the importance, too, of putting repeaters behind the bars and they will get no consideration in this court. Repeaters should be put in cells where society will be rid of them."

Three Young Slayers in Prison.

The three youthful slayers of Dr. Bernard P. Garnitz, who on Monday were sentenced to 100 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Epstein, started the routine of prison life yesterday. They were sent to the new Stateville penitentiary after spending the previous night in detention in the old prison in Joliet for physical examination.

The slayers, Joseph Borowy, 19 years old; Charles Kubala, 17, and Matthew Novak, 25, were part of a group of eight prisoners taken to the penitentiary Tuesday evening.

Continue Inquest

An inquest into the suicide of Frank Rinsa, 35 years old, 2856 South Homan avenue, who shot and killed himself when he met his wife with another man near their home early yesterday, was continued to Aug. 25 yesterday. Mrs. Lottie Rinsa, 32 years old, the wife, had been separated from her husband but returned to their home Sunday to arrange to move out some of the furniture.

The wife was walking with Joseph Kminek, 3039 Clifton Park avenue, in front of 2852 South St. Louis avenue, when Rinsa rushed up to them. She said she told her husband she was considering a divorce because of his heavy drinking. Rinsa, the wife testified, then drew a revolver and fired a bullet into his head.

Maker of Stench Bombs Gets 90 Days in Jail

Emil Brown, 45 year old Negro, manufacturer of stench bombs used in trade wars of the last few years, was sentenced to serve 90 days in the house of correction yesterday when arraigned before Judge Joseph H. McGarry in South State street court on charges of making and possessing stench bombs. Brown was arrested Aug. 10 in his exterminator plant at 2816½ Cottage Grove avenue after he had sold a stench bomb to Detective Daniel Maloney of Lieut. John Treacy's bomb squad.

18 AGITATORS ARE DISCHARGED AT BOULDER DAM

Las Vegas, Nev., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Eighteen men were discharged from work on the Boulder dam project today after an attempt by agitators to precipitate a strike.

Agitation began in the mess hall of the Six Companies, Inc., general contractors on the project, and circulars were distributed calling for an immediate walkout, demanding a six hour day, no reduction in pay, and a reduction of 50 per cent in house rent.

Agitators pleaded with the workers not to board transport trucks that were to take them to the Colorado river dam site. Leonard Blood, deputy federal-state labor commissioner, said the agitators used such abusive language that a free for all fight ensued. One worker and a special agent for the Six Companies were injured slightly.

Federal rangers and deputies soon halted the fighting and ejected the agitators from the contractors' reservation.

The 18 men discharged were said by their employers to have been implicated in distributing propaganda. Five other workers voluntarily drew their pay and left their jobs.

"Everything is running along smoothly now," said Frank Crowe, general superintendent in charge of the construction.

POLICE WIDOWS DESTITUTE, BUT THEY CARRY ON

Rites for Eleventh Hero to Be Held Today.

The names of eleven men are on the Chicago police honor roll of heroes killed in the line of duty since Jan. 1. The department has no roll of honor, however, for police widows who are left to carry on, most of them with large families, mountainous debts due to infrequent police pay days, and no funds.

Mrs. Mary Hastings, a bride of four months, is the most recent of these widows. Today she will bury her husband, Policeman Joseph Hastings, who was slain on Monday by pay roll bandits when he interrupted a holdup on Navy pier. Mrs. Hastings, who lives at 6352 South Fairfield avenue, is without funds.

Another Widow an Invalid.

Another recent police widow is Mrs. Hannah Ryan, an invalid who has been kept to her bed during the last five years. Her husband, Policeman Patrick J. Ryan, was shot to death on Aug. 8 when he refused a drink of wine proffered by a tipsy hoodlum in a tavern at 3328 Armitage avenue. There are four Ryan children, the eldest 16 years old.

Mrs. Ryan must soon leave her home, a two flat building at 4111 North Marmora avenue, which was placed in the hands of a receiver last May. She owes bills amounting to more than $2,000. Her husband was killed at a time when the family had less than $5 in the house. He left no insurance except his Police Benefit association policy. From this Mrs. Ryan eventually will receive $2,000.

Fund Aids Widows and Children.

It was for such women and children as these that THE TRIBUNE established its Police Hero fund last July 25, after the murder of Policeman John G. Sevick by a gunman in a courtroom. In all there are ten widows and sixteen children who will receive aid, through this fund, from the community for which their husbands and fathers gave their lives.

The grand total of the fund stands now at $4,817.30. All contributions should be addressed to the Police Hero fund, in care of the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower.

The funeral services today for Policeman Hastings will be held at the home of his brother-in-law, John J. O'Hara, 624 West 43d place, and at St. Gabriel's church, 45th street and Lowe avenue. Burial will be at Mount Olivet cemetery. The police post of the American Legion will furnish a firing squad and the pallbearers will be uniformed policemen.

BRITAIN OFFERS GANDHI TERMS TO HALT DEATH FAST

POONA, India, Aug. 16.—(AP)—The threat of a fast until death today enabled Mahatma Gandhi to regain privileges he formerly had as a political prisoner. Thus he will be able to continue his campaign for the regeneration of the "untouchables," India's lowest class.

After the Mahatma announced at noon that he would start the fast the British government came forward with a number of concessions. It announced its willingness to provide the Nationalist leader with facilities enabling him to continue, under certain conditions, his campaign to better the satus of the "untouchables." Gandhi's final agreement to the government's terms was awaited this evening.

"I might as well be dead if I am not allowed to proceed with my work, which is my very life," Gandhi said in his ultimatum threatening the new fast.

JAPAN WORRIES ABOUT TAKING ON U. S. IN NAVY RACE

Alarmed at Appetite of Military; 'Battle' Begins.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Aug. 16.—The Japanese government today looks with considerable misgiving on the prospect that this nation will be forced into a naval race with the richest country in the world. Three things appear to Tokio to justify this prospect—the navy department's staggering demand for appropriations in next year's budget, the continued presence of the American battle fleet in the Pacific, and President Roosevelt's sanction of a big navy.

The civilian ministers of state and a large section of the population are worried over the enormous appropriations that the armed forces now demand, and at the moment the big navy advocates here have everything their own way. The navy department is asking for 680,000,000 yen [at par $340,000,000] for the 1934-'35 fiscal year's budget.

Big Navy Games Begin.

Meanwhile, practically the entire Japanese navy is engaged in the most extensive maneuvers in its history, sweeping over the western Pacific between Japan and Hawaii, pivoting in the waters around the Bonin islands, and stretching down through Japan's mandate islands.

While the main maneuvers began today under the eyes of Emperor Hirohito they have been preceded by two months of intense target and other practices, accompanied by the greatest air defense maneuvers yet carried out in this country.

Apart from the legitimate object of keeping the fleet in training and mastering problems of the naval defense of the country, the maneuvers this year are well designed to draw the attention of the nation to the needs of the navy. They will end with a grand review at the end of August, just before the budget compilation is to be completed.

The present ambitious scheme, therefore, including what is called the second replenishment plan, calling for two cruisers, two 10,000 ton aircraft carriers, a number of destroyers and submarines, a mine layer, and several other special service vessels, is believed likely to gain public support.

The Japanese navy ministry makes no secret of the fact that it is determined to build the fleet up to treaty limits. The reasons given are that the major powers are doing the same thing, that Japan is politically isolated as a result of her withdrawal from the league of nations, and semi-isolated commercially by the British empire trade bloc, and that the general world situation has changed for the worse as the result of the breakdown of the disarmament conference and the world economic conference.

Judging from past performances it is likely, observers agree, that the Japanese navy will obtain most, if not all, it is asking for. The veteran finance minister, Korekiyo Takahashi, has already stated that whatever funds are necessary to maintain the national defense on a sound basis must be forthcoming.

LINDBERGH AND WIFE MAY TAKE OFF FOR ENGLAND TOMORROW

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh expect to remain in Iceland until at least Friday, when they may fly to England, 850 miles from here.

The couple will await their base ship, the Jelling, due here Friday morning with supplies. Meanwhile, they will continue their northern aerial route mapping activities with flights in this vicinity.

The Lindberghs slept last night in their airplane, lying off Videy, where they landed yesterday after a flight from Greenland. They were expected to sleep in the plane again tonight.

THE DEATH PENALTY.

As marginal comment to THE TRIBUNE'S account of the killing of Policeman Joseph Hastings in a pay roll holdup at the Navy pier it was recalled that there has not been an execution of the death penalty in Cook county since Jan. 15, 1932. If this was another way of saying that there had been no killings for which the sentence legally was death or no murderers who had been proved guilty it would reveal a remarkable record for a great city. Unfortunately it does not. Of the police alone eleven have been killed by criminals this year.

There is a social theory that the death penalty brutalizes society and does not deter a criminal from committing murder. It nevertheless remains the thing the criminal fears above all others. If the case is bad against the killer his lawyer is successful if he saves his man from the executioner's hands. The worst, then, has been avoided. Punishment is supposed not to be revenge but protection. The punishment most feared would be regarded naturally as the best protection.

The criminal who deliberately commits his acts for profits has counted the costs. He may not have done so as an accountant and he may not have charts and graphs by which he can compute percentages and study probabilities, but he is affected by the common run of justice in the community he decides to prey upon. He has come to certain estimates and conclusions. Even if of limited intelligence he has taken into account the probability that the law will not require his life if he kills. In at least the background of his consciousness there are all the impressions he has gained from the law's uncertainties, impressions of notorious criminals and killers at large, of a pardon and a parole system at loose ends under political manipulation, of reversible errors in trial courts, etc.

The sum total of the impressions in the mind of a young criminal must be that the chances are with him and not against him. Society is bulky but helpless. If these impressions are to be changed the criminal's expectations must be reversed. If the penalties of law are to be protections guilt when proved must lead to the punishment provided for the crime.

Dread of the death penalty is in nearly every criminal's makeup, as he reveals when placed in danger of it. Any other punishment imposed when death is in the law is accepted as a release and a relief. The killers have no mercy for their victims. They are prepared to kill and that is their purpose. Too frequently when they are caught and their guilt is proved in court a consideration is given them which they had no intention of giving the innocent person they murdered. They are carried as burdens on the public charge and often return to liberty to repeat the crime which in the first instance should have been the last injury the criminal in question could have inflicted upon the community.

RECOVERY WITHIN THE LAW.

H. A. Lafount of the federal radio commission says it is "the patriotic, if not the bounden and legal, duty of all licensees of radio broadcasting stations to deny their facilities to advertisers who are disposed to defy, ignore, or modify the codes established by the NRA." Mr. Lafount said that the commission did not assume any power of censorship, but it did have the right to take into consideration when application was made for renewal of license the character of the programs the licensees had broadcast.

The government has been granted many very broad powers to carry out its industrial reorganization program. The first approach is that of persuasion and coöperation, but degrees of compulsion are discussed as of the second phase. The powers have not been judicially determined. Within reason, the general attitude of the country has been to fall in with the spirit of the recovery plans and so far as possible adopt them. A common purpose has been assumed and the disposition has not been to overinsist upon legal questions or political rights. Many thoughtful citizens fear that too little consideration may be given to constitutional safeguards, but no one is inclined to make a decisive point of this. People have the understanding that an earnest and concerned government is working for the general welfare in the hope that constructive measures meeting the approval of the public can speed national recovery and put the country back on its feet as a nation of working and self-sustaining people. The objective is so important, so imperative, that the methods have not been subjected to the criticism and opposition they would be in anything like normal times. The stated powers of the government are very great. It would seem then that the officials should endeavor to keep themselves at least within the congressional acts.

The radio commission from time to time indicates a disposition toward censorship, although that is disclaimed. Tendencies in this direction need a check, even in these times. Suggestions that there may be recourse to an extra-legal species of government persecution do not satisfy the ideas of many Americans who are willing to go along with many of the extraordinary features of the government's plans. The most disquieting suggestions relate to the possibility of a government inspired hue and cry to raise a popular odium. The procedure within the laws, no matter how novel and unusual these laws are, and no matter what the final judicial verdict may be as to them, is a thing quite aside from the official excitement of public temper. Prudent people know too well the lengths to which such procedure may go, having observed the consequences of it in other countries, to feel that it is a method which can be lightly accepted.

NO ADVISEMENT NECESSARY.

A suburban truck company wants a certificate of convenience and necessity to operate on Sheridan road between Chicago and Wisconsin towns. The commerce commission has taken the application under advisement probably until fall. Why? It ought to take one motion to put the application where it belongs, in the commission's waste basket.

There is no shadow of excuse for turning this or any other truck line loose in Sheridan road. Sheridan road was never intended to be a freight line. There are railroads and electric lines serving the north shore. There are roads paralleling these tracks, and these are being broadened and connected year by year. The route up the Skokie planned for through fast traffic will be completed, it is estimated, by next summer. In any case, Sheridan road is neither a necessary nor from the public point of view a convenient route for trucks. It was not designed for such a service in any respect. It is, in fact, a boulevard intended only for passenger vehicles, passing through one of the finest residence regions in the world, which its use by trucks would devastate. It is too narrow for truck use without making that use a nuisance and a danger to the proper users of the road. No doubt the applicants would like to have the road widened for their convenience at public expense and the trees which are the great asset of the north shore cut down to make way for trucks.

The proposal is an impertinence without justification. It is contrary to intelligent road planning and traffic control. Trucks are not allowed on city boulevards. They do not belong on Sheridan road, which is one of the most attractive drives in the country, was intended to be from the first, and should be jealously maintained as such always.

FANATICAL PATRIOTISM.

Testimony in the trial of the Japanese naval officers charged with the killing of Premier Inukai discloses that one project in the terrorist campaign was the assassination of the American ambassador. It happened that at that time there was no ambassador from the United States resident in Japan. Cameron Forbes had departed for home and Joseph Grew had not arrived. The news report does not make clear whether this circumstance prevented execution of the plot or whether better judgment prevailed when Mr. Grew came.

The purpose of the proposed outrage in the minds of the conspirators was patriotic. They intended by this shocking deed to produce a crisis in which they believed Japan would be purged of tendencies they regarded as humiliating and dangerous. They thought they would encourage a nationalistic and militarist revolution, and they regarded war with the United States as a cheap price to pay, if necessary.

It is hardly to be doubted that a very grave danger was present in the intensity and, as other people would see it, perverted patriotism of these officers. If they had been able to consummate this sacrificial outrage, the shock in the United States might have made it impossible to keep the peace. Indignation, such as brought about the war with Spain, might have been so great that neither the American nor the Japanese government could control it. People are at a loss to find guaranties against so eccentric and willful a patriotism which puts the peace of great nations at the disposal of a fanaticism regarding no calamity too staggering for precipitation as a desirable thing.

A DISTINGUISHED CITIZEN GOES FISHING.

A personal note in the news relates that Herbert Hoover and his son and Ray Lyman Wilbur and his son have gone with some friends into the Siskiyous fishing, where the waters and not the eagles are blue. Here's tranquillity. The name Siskiyous breathes gently of Eden and the county seat of the region is, happily, Yreka. There must come moments to Mr. Hoover, while he is casting, when a thought of last November causes a little shudder but never a pang and sends him to try another pool in deeper contentment. He may close his eyes abruptly to shut out the vision of other possibilities and then open them to reassure himself that his present surroundings are the actual circumstances of his life.

President Roosevelt, it is manifest, remains quite happy in the consequences of last November. He has the spirit for one dash after another into the breach, but Mr. Hoover, distantly contemplating what is to be seen and more distantly wondering what is yet to be seen, may find no grief at his elbow. The Siskiyous may need no compensations. The din and the dust are far away and Elysium is very near.

Editorial of the Day

[Arkansas Gazette, Little Rock.]

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, coming from Iowa, is not a cotton man. But he is a farmer. Ingrained in every man who has tilled the soil are respect and a kind of protective sentiment for any growing crop. We are told that Mr. Wallace "didn't have much to say," but was obviously depressed as he watched five tractors drag huge disc plows down rows of boll-laden cotton on a plantation in the Mississippi delta, world famed for its fine staple.

Destruction of living cotton was unfortunately the only way open for control of this year's acreage. And the first government estimate, forecasting a crop of 12,314,000 bales, which would be 16,561,000 bales but for the acreage pledged to retirement, should reconcile the south to the sacrifice, material and sentimental, involved in plowing under a quarter of its 1933 cotton acreage.

It is a good thing that the secretary of agriculture should see with his own eyes what it means to put the plow to standing and fruiting cotton. It should strengthen him in his announced purpose to have production control begin next year before the fields are planted.

TAXES AND TAXES.

THE WAKE-LINE, OF COURSE, DOES NOT know just how this NRA is going to turn out. Neither does any one else, for that matter.

We are an employé, not an employer. Thus, we do not have to figure out how we can pay more money for less work and still make enough profit to pay multitudinous taxes piled on corporations and individuals.

Not being an employer nor a New Dealer, in a Washington sense, perhaps we are less discouraged by the temporary pause in the ballyhoo of prosperity. We do not expect the depression of four years to end in sixty days. Even if NRA does not put as many people immediately to work as some had hoped, it is putting some of the idle into jobs. It helps that much if industry can stand the strain.

But the temporary conductor of this column does know something about taxes. We pay taxes and taxes and taxes. We know we cannot purchase of other than necessities as much as we did two years ago, one year ago, because of more taxes. We're not speaking of real estate taxes, income taxes (increased in per cent), personal property taxes, and now the state sales tax for some purpose or other, but what are commonly known as the "nuisance taxes."

We've been expecting to hear from Helper Joe Citizen, who in the spring before the presidential election started the slogan "Vote all the officeholders out" as a protest against taxation and saw his war cry realized! We expect him around yet while we're in these precincts. In his absence, however, we wonder if people generally realize on how many things they are being mulcted right now. Let us name just part of them to help you know why your money doesn't go as far as it once did:

If that list isn't long enough, we can add to it. They're reasons why you and I and the other fellow have less buying power than we once had. We firmly believe in putting more people to work. But letting those now working have more of their own earnings to spend also would help. Would it not?

HATS IN HOT WEATHER.

THERE is considerable difference of opinion as to the kind of hat that should be worn by those who must be in the bright sunlight in hot weather. A large part of the thinking people who live in the tropics and who must be outside in the daytime advocate the use of cork helmets. The theory on which this practice is based is that some parts of sunlight penetrate the skin and bones of the skull and have a rather direct, harmful effect on the brain tissues lying just within. The route by which the harmful ingredients of the light get from the skin to the brain is not known.

Helmets are nearly impervious to heat, light, and air. The outer surface is light in color, while the under surface, at least of the visor, is green or some shade calculated to lessen glare. The rim is planned to shade as much as possible of the face and head. Since the cork is built in a way that prevents the passing of air, there is full ventilation space between the inner hatband and the hat proper. The plan is well thought out and takes account of the requirements for comfort and protection against light and heat.

If a tropical helmet is not desired for any reason, the hat worn should meet as many of the specifications as possible. It should be light in color and also in weight. The weave should be open, but too much sunlight gets through a very loosely woven hat. If the sunlight is very bright it is better to use an umbrella as a sunshade, and either wear no hat or one that has a very open weave.

We often read advice given people who live in the tropics in which the wearing of a backbone pad is advised. This is a strip of material that is impervious to light and is worn over the spine from the collar region down. The theory of its use is that bright light can penetrate from the skin surface through the bones of the spine to the spinal cord, and that a spine pad prevents this harmful influence. Since the clothing keeps the back fairly well protected, not many people in the tropics wear this type of pad, and elsewhere it is not used at all. The reason for referring to it here is to impress the harmful influence of too much light.

There is no justification for the limited custom of going hatless in hot weather. The natives of very hot countries generally have a heavy mat of close hair to protect their craniums from too much light. In spite of that fact they almost always contrive to get some kind of a head shade—a hat whenever that is possible, and hats are not easily obtainable where they live. No one in temperate climate need go to great trouble to get sunlight in midsummer, and taking it on the dome is worse than useless.

I have seen people go bareheaded and tan their heads deeply as a remedy for baldness. I have seen edema result and much soreness, and considerable harmful effects of the light evidenced elsewhere than on the head, but I have yet to see a shock of hair resulting from the sunlight treatment.

WORLD'S FAIR QUESTION BOX

Requests for information concerning A Century of Progress will be answered in this column. It is urged that questions be stated briefly.

QUESTION—I have a World's Columbian half dollar, dated 1892. Would like to know its value.

ANSWER—Fifty cents.

QUESTION—Can you inform me where I could sell a ring that is 131 years old? It was a Norwegian peasant engagement ring. 2. What are Indian head pennies worth at the Fair?

ANSWER—1. No. 2. One cent.

ANSWER—The electrical counting apparatus on each turnstile transmits the count to a central point. By means of this tabulator they are able to tell exactly how many have passed through at any time. When the figures near the million mark every one is put on the alert. The person who passes through the turnstile as the million shows on the board is the millionth visitor.

BRITISH FRONT IN FRANCE.—At 4 p. m. yesterday the battle in Flanders—on a nine mile front east and north of Ypres—which was resumed by the French and British at dawn, had already resulted in a large gain of ground. In some places the day's success carried the advancing troops more than a mile into the intricate hostile trench system. From Dreigrachten, which the French occupied with little resistance, southward, the French pushed their positions forward to the edge of the flooded area along the left bank of the St. Jansbeek river, and on the right bank they surged across the Steenbeke, which is a continuation of the St. Jansbeek, and occupied German positions to an extreme depth of about 1,000 yards. At the same time the British advanced on the right of the French and occupied considerable territory in the region of St. Julien and Langemarck.

WASHINGTON. — All processes in the production of distilled spirits for beverage purposes must cease at 11 o'clock p. m. on Saturday, Sept. 8. This ruling was issued yesterday by Herbert C. Hoover, federal food administrator. Under the prohibitive section of the food control act it is provided that "from and after thirty days from the date of the approval" of the act, no foods, fruits, food materials, or feeds shall be used in the production of distilled spirits for beverage purposes.

WASHINGTON.—Maj. Gen. Thomas H. Barry, present commander of the central department, has been picked for commander of the Illinois national army troops at Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill. Brig. Gen. W. J. Nicholson, commandant at Fort Sheridan during the officers' training camp just closed, will command the One Hundred and Fifty-eighth brigade of the Seventy-ninth division at Camp Meade, Annapolis Junction, Md.

A HANDSOME TRIBUTE.

Texarkana, Ark.-Tex., Aug. 13.—My family and I have just returned from Chicago, where we spent about a week.

One thing especially impressed me and I decided to write you about it. It was the courtesy shown us. We visited department stores, drug stores, cafés, the Fair, movies and also rode the buses and street cars. Every one with whom we came in contact was so nice about giving information and trying to please us. And this was under the most trying circumstances, as in most instances they were rushed trying to wait on the crowds. I don't know where you could find this courtesy and attention unless in the smaller towns in the old south.

I also want to compliment the police force. They were just as pleasant and courteous as any one.

I was born in the south and have lived here all my life. Strangers are supposed to find more courtesy and attention here than in any other part of the United States, but I must say I know we aren't any better than Chicago, and doubt very much being the equal under the same conditions.

J. E. HASSON.

MOORING MASTS.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—According to yesterday's TRIBUNE, an invitation has been extended to Dr. Hugo Eckener asking him to fly his Graf Zeppelin to A Century of Progress. If he accepts the invitation, a mooring mast will be erected atop the Morrison hotel.

Has it not occurred to those interested in aerial navigation that we have in the "Sky Ride Towers" the two finest mooring masts for Zeppelins in the United States?

Not only do these towers offer safe anchorage, but they are equipped with modern elevator service. I cannot think of anything finer for our city than to have these towers remain after the Fair is over as mooring masts for visiting Zeppelins. A. BOGSTAD.

THE CRANE COLLEGE RECORD.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—It seems to me that the voters of Chicago should acquaint themselves with the harm which will result if Crane college is allowed to be closed. The intention of closing this college is a part of the program which the present board of education is trying to put over on us in the name of economy.

Being myself a graduate of Crane college, I speak from a full heart. There have been twenty-two thousand of us graduated since the first class in 1913. Thirty-six hundred more students already registered for next term must not be turned from its doors this fall.

The record of this two year college and of the young people who have gone out from it is highly commendable. The college work it offers is fully accredited by the North Central association. This means that graduates of the city college enroll without examination in the divisions at the University of Chicago and in the third year at the University of Illinois, at Northwestern, at Armour, and at any other university or college in the North Central association. The collegiate work given at Crane covers the required courses in liberal arts, and commerce and administration, and the pre-professional work in medicine, law, and engineering.

Crane students do thoroughly satisfactory work when they continue in the universities. In the competitive examinations given to junior college graduates in May for the first time by the University of Chicago, fewer than 20 per cent of the entrants were Crane students, but they won 20 per cent of the full scholarships and 28 per cent of the half scholarships. Of three hundred contestants for entrance into the medical school of the University of Illinois, seventy-five students were accepted, of whom thirty-six [or 48 per cent] had received their pre-professional training at Crane.

It is gratifying to see the stir which has been caused throughout the city at the thought of putting an end to all this good work.

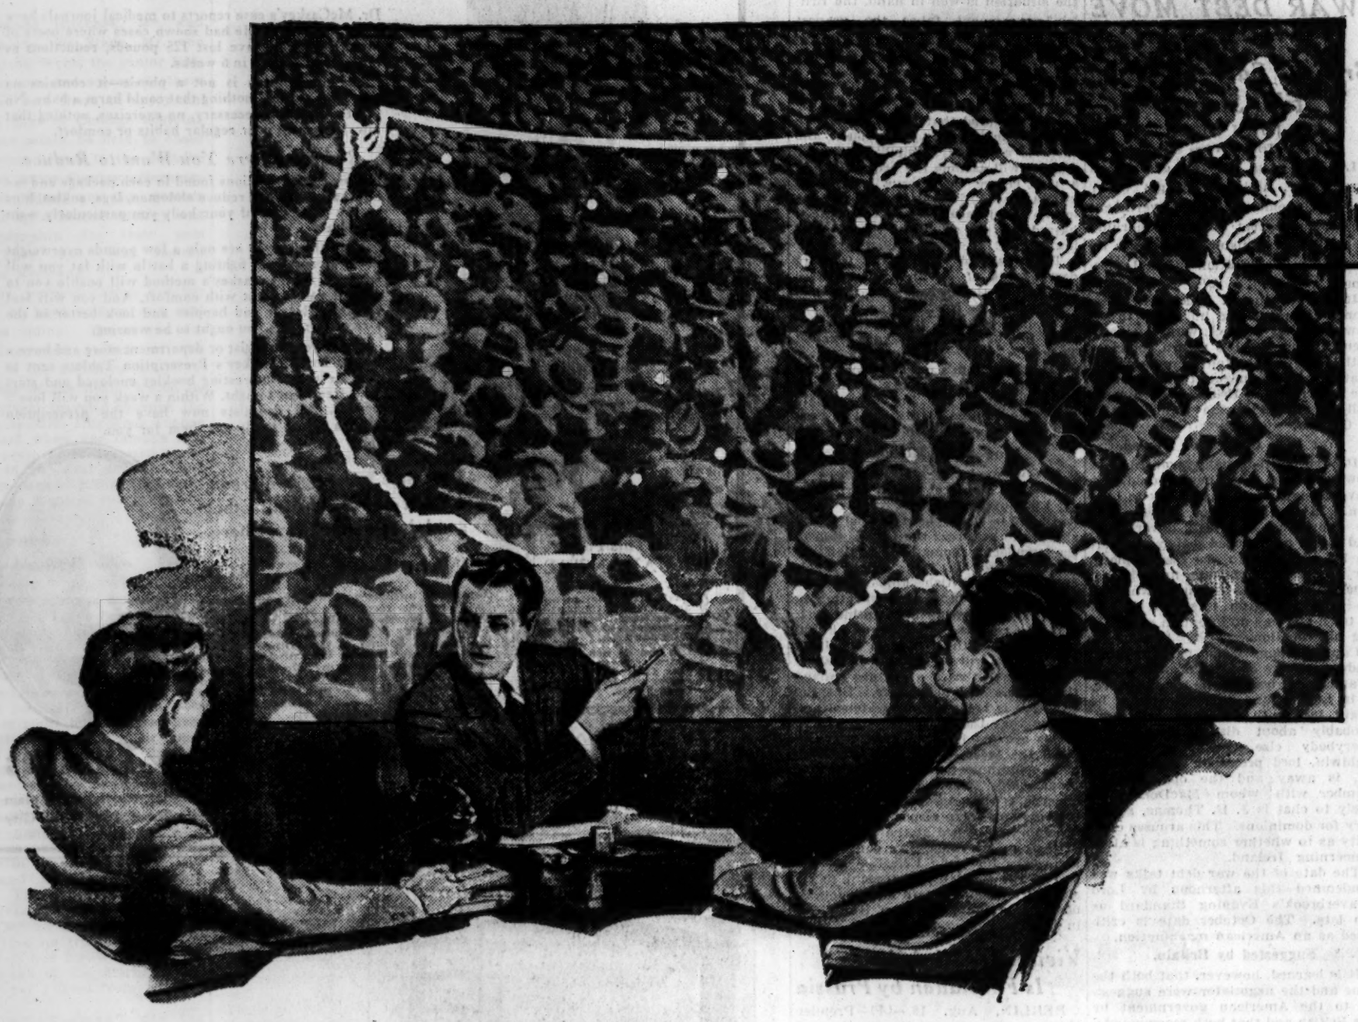
Where do we go from here?



A message to manufacturers who are debating when and where to resume (or extend) their advertising . . . about a market which offers unusual advantages and economies.

THE job facing Business, today, is the moving of commodities from dealer and jobber stocks on to the consumer. Purchase by the consumer is the vital step in the cycle of distribution.

Giving the consumer the means to buy is the aim of recent legislation. Giving him the urge to buy is a task for sincere, intelligent advertising....advertising that recognizes changed conditions and provides a product or service that is of immediate value and usefulness.

Many advertising plans are now under discussion. Many sales problems are being aired. When and where to start? Which media to use? How long a commitment to make? Certain conclusions are obvious: It is a time for quick control over sales plans....a time for speed, certainty and economy in reaching compact groups of people.

Start in Philadelphia – the metropolitan market which offers unusual advantages and economies. Only one newspaper is needed to reach nearly every home, and its advertising cost is one of the lowest in America.

Two million people! Half a million homes! Doctors, lawyers, business men, merchants, large and small, financial leaders, employers in industry, women in business, housewives in the home.... all the members of nearly every family meet every day in the pages of The Philadelphia Bulletin.

For thirty-eight years The Bulletin has been a part of their home life....growing, without premium or circulation contest, from a few thousand circulation in 1895 to 494,492 today, (July, 1933 average). Two and one-half times the circulation of any other Philadelphia evening newspaper, more than any Philadelphia Sunday newspaper, more than all Philadelphia morning newspapers combined.

Start in Philadelphia, where ninety per cent. of the people live in private homes; where the products of 5,567 factories are so diversified that recovery is spreading over many lines.

Start in Philadelphia, with its hundreds of close-lying suburbs, and its great surrounding market in which sixteen million people may be reached by overnight delivery.

Start in Philadelphia, with its famous department stores covering city blocks, with its fine specialty shops, with its billion dollar volume in retail sales; with its ready accessibility at low cost by water, rail and motor; with its great wholesale establishments and warehousing facilities.

Start in Philadelphia, where sales impressions are lasting because it is a permanent market of homes; where the confidence of the entire family in one newspaper not only insures a complete and attentive audience, but also permits one of the lowest advertising costs among all newspapers in America.

U. S. GIVES JOBS TO HUNDREDS OF ALIENS ON CANAL

Labor Leaders Urge Yanks Be Put on Pay Roll.

BY GERALD MARTIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BALBOA HEIGHTS, C. Z., Aug. 16.—Uncle Sam's pay roll on the Panama canal totals $12,858,528.99, according to the auditor's figures for the last financial year. Of this amount no less than $4,800,371.25 is paid out to alien employés. The balance of $8,058,157.74 goes to American employés.

The labor situation here and in the United States has caused organizations such as the Panama Metal Trades council, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, to urge upon the government the need of finding employment for Americans out of a job. The council looks with alarm at the huge alien pay roll of the canal, which is some 37.3 per cent of the amount expended in canal wages. No less than 3,800 semi-skilled alien employés of the canal and railroad, which is owned by the United States government, are on the pay roll.

Figures Are Cited.

United States labor leaders here claim that no alien above the grade of laborer or messenger should be employed on the canal. They cite figures, such as hotel and commissary clerks, who get $110 monthly. They claim that Americans could fill such jobs.

An investigation by THE TRIBUNE revealed that there were twelve British West Indian Negroes employed by the canal who are earning $110 per month. No more had been promoted to this grade, however, since July 1, 1932. The highest rate for the alien on the general schedule is $80 per month.

A prominent member of the canal's labor organization said:

"There is no American citizen down here who envies the Negro who works as a common laborer in the tropics, but the American has a perfect right to envy any alien that is holding a semi-skilled position at the same or higher rate of pay that is in vogue in the United States.

Pay Rolls Listed.

Some departments of the canal pay out more to alien labor than they do to American citizens. In the case of the supply department, which operates the commissaries, the printing plant, laundry, hotels, and storehouses, the annual American pay roll totals $103,768.96, while the alien pay roll amounts to $218,482.53.

The marine division, which operates the transit of shipping through the canal, pays its American employés $645,693.11 each year and its alien employés $476,087.39.

The department handling the operation of the locks pays American employés $784,144.19 each year. The alien list totals $429,329.14.

The dredging division, which keeps the cut clear, pays $615,529.17 in American wages and $592,353.07 to foreigners.

The section handling the Madden dam, which is let out to contractors, pays more to the alien in wages than to the American citizen. The figures for the last fiscal year show that while the American employés received $106,544.03, the alien total amounted to $133,535.64.

In the fortification department the alien pay roll also beats that of the American citizen. Here are the figures for the last fiscal year: Alien, $[illegible]; American, $59,182.79.

Authorities Defend Aliens.

The attitude of the canal officials towards the alien question is that the majority of the men getting the higher rates of pay have served the canal since the early construction days, have grown up with the job, and are handling it in a satisfactory manner. On the other hand labor leaders here feel that many in the United States at the present time would welcome a job in Panama paying around $20 per week.

Most Aliens Are British.

The aliens are mainly British Negroes from the West Indies, from Jamaica, the Barbadoes and Trinidad, with a sprinkling of French Negroes from Martinique and Guadeloupe, and native Panamanians.

American commercial organizations such as the United Fruit company and the National City bank, in their operations in Panama and Central America usually employ a greater percentage of foreign help than does the Panama canal.

Los Angeles, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Helen Bendowski, 30, beauty operator, found mysteriously slain last Sunday on the roof of a Pasadena florist shop adjoining a penthouse, was killed "by a person unknown with homicidal intent." That was the finding of a coroner's jury today.

Mrs. Zelda Smith, café owner, testified that Harold Wolcott, 33, held on suspicion of murder, pleaded with Patrolman Maynard Miedema, a friend, to stand by him after Miss Bendowski was killed.

Mrs. Smith said she and Miedema had gone to Wolcott's penthouse and that after she heard a shot Miedema said: "Get your things. We're getting out of here."

Both Wolcott and Miedema were called as witnesses, but refused to testify on advice of their attorney.

MAYOR KELLY HITS MYSTERY OF INCOME TAX

ed as income I made a full statement of all the facts. The government still contended that I owed this money and I paid it.

"At that time, and now, I considered it a personal transaction, reflecting no discredit on myself. I have held since this hullabaloo started that I neither had anything to conceal nor anything to explain. But I am unwilling that the people of Chicago should gain false impressions from a pretended mystery and veiled innuendoes fathered by those who seek to impair the good name of Chicago and to coerce me into adopting their policies for the government of the city.

"My attention has been called to a statement with reference to a bill of particulars filed in connection with the sanitary district criminal cases. That bill was nothing but an unsworn statement signed by the prosecutor of what he hoped to prove at the trial of that case.

"No evidence was offered to substantiate that bill of particulars in any manner in connection with any transaction with which I ever had a part. It is presumed that all evidence in the possession of the state's attorney was submitted to the grand jury, which refused to indict me."

Fireman and 2 Policemen Ousted from City Service

Two policemen and a fireman were ordered discharged from the city service yesterday by the civil service commission. The policemen, Sergt. James McGinnis of the West North avenue station and Patrolman William Grady of the Wabash avenue station, were found guilty of being intoxicated. Fireman Bernard H. Sweeney of Engine 110 was tried on charges of neglect of duty and insubordination.

ROB DRUG STORE OWNER.

ANOTHER SUIT FILED AGAINST SCHOOL SAVING

Two Pupils Petition for Writ of Mandamus.

The fifth court attack on the board of education's economy program was begun yesterday with the filing of a petition for a writ of mandamus to compel the school trustees to rescind their action. The petition was filed in the Superior court by Attorney Gordon M. Leonard on behalf of Dorothy Landau, 18 years old, a student in Crane Junior college, and her sister, Beatrice, 12 years old, a pupil in the Steuben Junior High school.

It charges that the board's program is illegal. Judge Joseph B. David will hear the case in the Superior court on Tuesday morning.

The mandamus action was filed on the eve of a hearing this morning before Judge Charles A. Williams in the Superior court on a bill for an injunction against the board filed by John E. Groves, a teacher of mathematics in the Crane Technical High school. Groves set forth that if he had to teach more than five classes a day, as provided in the economy program, it would injure his health.

Answer Charges Harassment.

The school attorneys have prepared an answer to Groves' bill. The answer calls attention to previous litigation and charges that the bill is simply an attempt to harass the board of education. It was pointed out that Judge William V. Brothers denied a similar bill for injunction two weeks ago in the Circuit court.

The answer recites the financial difficulties of the school system and the need for drastic economies. In addition to a bonded indebtedness of $25,000,000 the school board faces a deficit of $6,000,000, owes teachers and other employés $26,000,000 in back salaries and its creditors $5,000,000 in long overdue bills, the answer says.

Through the working out of the economy program, the school attorneys contend, better housing will be provided for thousands of Chicago school children this year.

Point to Better Housing.

A majority of the 40,000 senior high school pupils who last year were housed in ill ventilated portables and neighborhood stores will this year be moved into well equipped schoolrooms through the conversion of junior high schools into senior high school plants, the answer says.

The school attorneys maintain that the retrenchment plan will save the expenditure of more than $25,000,000 for new senior high school buildings that would be needed if the former system of school organization had been continued.

The answer sets forth that Groves' bill is nearly identical to the bill dismissed by Judge Brothers, which was filed by Attorney Allan J. Carter, representing the Principals' club.

Another motion for an injunction, made by Attorney Edward G. Woods, was withdrawn several days ago before Judge Harry Fisher in the Circuit court. Still another action against the school board is a bill for an injunction filed on Tuesday by the Tax Service Association of Illinois. It attacks the expenditure of $87,655 for the conversion of junior high schools into senior high school plants.

PREMIER HURRIES TO LONDON; DENY WAR DEBT MOVE

British Say Question Still "Sleeps."

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 16.—In a great cloud of mystery, activity will get under way at the official seat of government in Downing street tomorrow morning when Prime Minister MacDonald returns from his vacation site at Lossiemouth, Scotland.

It was announced today that MacDonald is returning hurriedly to renew personal contact with "government business." His return coincides with the Washington announcement that war debt negotiations between the American and British governments will be opened in the United States in October.

War Debt Connection Denied.

It was semi-officially pointed out, however, that this news could not have brought MacDonald back to London. In the first place, it was said, he knew the American government had been approached before he left on his holiday. In the second place, Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, financial adviser to the British treasury, who will go to Washington this fall, is out of town and has no intention of breaking his vacation.

Capt. Anthony Eden, parliamentary undersecretary of foreign affairs, who is at present boss in the foreign office, is in London and it is hinted that he might talk with the prime minister, probably about disarmament. But everybody else, including Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council, is away and the only cabinet member with whom MacDonald is likely to chat is J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions. This arouses curiosity as to whether something is afoot concerning Ireland.

The date of the war debt talks was condemned this afternoon by Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard as too late. The October date is criticized as an American machination.

Suggested by Britain.

It is learned, however, that both the time and the negotiator were suggested to the American government by the British and that both recommendations were accepted. Although the actual day has not been selected, the British evidently believe the whole thing can be thrashed out before Dec. 15, when the next installment is due the United States.

MacDonald hopes to return to Scotland at the end of this week. Strong influence is being exerted to suppress talk that he might go to the United States again. It is emphasized that the question of a war debt delegation of any sort, let alone one headed by the prime minister, has not yet arisen.

Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, who remained in the United States after MacDonald's trip to Washington earlier this year, is going back as an individual negotiator, it is said.

DIES OF INJURIES.

Joseph Mienec, 45 years old, 3031 South Crawford avenue, died early yesterday in the Michael Reese hospital of injuries suffered when a pile of cases fell on him while he was loading a beverage truck.

800 ASSYRIANS SLAIN IN IRAQ; BRITAIN AROUSED

King Feisal Is Ordered to Halt Massacre.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 16.—The British foreign office was seriously concerned today by news from Iraq that the number of Assyrians slain by Iraqi irregulars in the last few days had reached a total of eight hundred. Many more Assyrians have been placed in a dangerous predicament as a result of the destruction of their villages.

Although official explanations of the situation available here indicate that the situation is well in hand, the British government takes the gravest view of developments in the last forty-eight hours. Iraqi explanations are discounted heavily.

May Go Before League.

It is accepted that the Assyrian minority is in a grave predicament and there is a strong possibility that the dispute will assume the proportions of a row before the league of nations unless the Kurds—the irregular police in the Iraqi service—rein their racial hatred and put an end to the butchering.

The present day Assyrians, who are descendants of an ancient Christian race, allied themselves with the British during the war, moving from the hills of Kurdistan into Iraq, where they fought with the Arabs against Turkey.

During Britain's mandate over Iraq they enjoyed a sanctuary within the Iraqi borders. The British mandate over Iraq expired within the last year and Iraq was admitted to the league.

King Feisal Rebuked.

A few weeks ago King Feisal of Iraq was a state guest of King George at Buckingham palace. Now, it is learned, he has been called upon sharply to suppress the persecution of the wandering nomadic Assyrian minority housed in Iraq. Sir Francis Humphreys, British ambassador to Iraq, who has been on a vacation in Norway, is hurrying back to his post.

It is reported that King Feisal promised that the Kurds in the Iraqi police force will be severely punished. It is believed that if a few are hanged the trouble will blow over. But the situation is being closely watched and claims that the slain Assyrians were rebels are not believed here.

All the facts of the situation have been communicated to Prime Minister MacDonald. One source of British concern is that Assyrians now guarding royal air force airports in Iraq are becoming disturbed at the persecution of their countrymen. An equal cause for worry for King Feisal is the desire of the Bagdad government to resign. The disturbances also place an obstacle in the way of an Iraqi loan in London.

Herman Thurow, Fox, Illinois, placed a want ad in the Chicago Tribune offering to sell an 80-acre farm. The ad cost $4.50. Ninety-three persons answered it. The farm was sold to one of them for $8,000.00.

"I had a call from Chicago asking about the farm at 11 a. m. the day the ad ran," writes Mr. Thurow. "In the afternoon of the same day two different persons looked at the farm.

"I had seventy-five answers by mail, and ten or twelve telephone calls. Also about eight or ten personal calls. I had many of these people come and look at the farm after I had answered their letters and had given them a full description of the farm. The man who bought the farm was one of these. He came from Chicago.

"I had letters from the following places: Toledo, O.; East Lansing, Mich.; East Chicago, Ind., and from the following places in Illinois—Wheaton Western Springs, Westmont Bellwood, Berwyn, Naperville Joliet, Pontiac, and Mapleton."

Have you a farm for sale or for rent? Now is the time to place it on the market. The big market for farm lands in the states of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Iowa, and Wisconsin, as well as in many other agricultural and stock-raising sections of the country, is the Chicago Tribune Want Ad Section!

Just one Tribune Want Ad costing $4.50 produced 93 prospects. One bought. Still actively interested are the 92 who did not buy. If you have a farm to sell, let a low-cost Tribune Want Ad help you find a buyer or tenant. Write to the Chicago Tribune Classified Advertising Department, or call

Another Gay Throng Sees Polo Match

Society Attends Thrilling East-West Game.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

SEVERAL hundred eastern train reservations were canceled and just as many hotel bookings renewed at 7 o'clock last night when the flashing east finished victorious with a 12-6 score in the second match of the thrilling East-West polo tournament on the Onwentsia polo field.

Mrs. Thomas Hitchcok, Mr. and Mrs. F. Skiddy von Stade, Mr. and Mrs. J. Watson Webb, the junior Robert Strawbridges, and scores of others decided then and there to enjoy another three days of Chicago hospitality that they might be here to cheer their galloping heroes in the decisive game of the series Sunday afternoon. Just as determined are the western fans to roll up a second victory and the championship for their polo "four." They, too, will remain through the week-end.

The game yesterday was another two hours of hard hitting and fast and furious riding. There was another distinguished throng in the boxes and in the members' stand on the west side of the field. Twice intense excitement traveled through the stand, first as Mrs. Hitchcock rushed onto the field when her famous son, Tommy, captain of the eastern team, was down in the first chukker, and again when Mrs. "Rube" Williams hurried to the scene of her husband's injury.

Wife Remarks on Their Names

"Strange it is," Mrs. Williams had explained a few minutes before, "that two hard headed Texas cow punchers, Mr. Smith and my husband, should be named 'Cecil' and 'Hubert.' Yes, that's why Mr. Williams is always called 'Rube.'"

Mrs. Williams accompanied her husband to the hospital. A bulletin later told that his right leg was fractured just below the knee, but that he hopes to be back in the game on Sunday. Again proof "that a hospital is to a cow puncher what a powder puff is to a cave man."

There wasn't a person who enjoyed yesterday's game more than little "Billy" Clemons unless it was those two delightful ladies, Miss Mary McLaughlin and Mrs. Daniel Edward McCarthy. Young "Billy" had Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin's handsome St. Bernard, Katrina, for his charge, and he was having no trouble at all collecting nickels and dimes for the well known Orphans of the Storm in the little bank that jingled from her collar.

"Just Freddie's sister," was the pleasant Miss McLaughlin's answer to the many easterners to whom she was introduced. By way of explanation, her brother is Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, who deserves a laurel wreath for bringing the East-West matches to Chicago. Miss McLaughlin's costume combined black and white, just as did that of Mrs. McCarthy. They had front row places in a box that was also occupied by the Herbert McLaughlins, George F. McLaughlin, Prince and Princess Nicholas Galitzine, Gordon Wheeler, and Young "Dusty" Grannis.

McLaughlins Hosts to Players, Families

As soon as the bell clanged for the finish of the game yesterday Mrs. Frederic McLaughlin, particularly stunning in a mustard colored dress, partially covered by a Roman striped jacket, and a wide brimmed hat that had a bunch of field flowers front-center, jumped in a beach wagon and motored over to the Onwentsia clubhouse, where she and Maj. McLaughlin were host and hostess to all of the polo players, their families, and then some sixty or seventy more. In fact, it developed into such a large party that it had to be moved to the lower floor dining rooms and the terraces.

The famous Mrs. Hitchcock, ensembled in brown and white and armed with lorgnette and binoculars, was again Mrs. McLaughlin's guest for the game and so were Mrs. Cecil Rathburne with her daughter, Patsy; Mrs. Neil McCarthy, stunning in white; Mrs. Carleton F. Burke, and Mrs. Louis E. Stoddard.

Mrs. J. Watson Webb, in a brilliant green straw hat that blended with her printed gown, exchanged notes on the game with Mrs. Hitchcock most of the afternoon, seated as she was in the next box with Mrs. F. Skiddy von Stade, whose husband is referee of the tournament.

Prince of India Attends Game

"When I heard that score Sunday I lost sleep, I was so thrilled. That's why I'm here today," announced Will Rogers. Mr. Rogers plays polo at the Midwick club on the west coast. Another spectator was the Nawab Mahommed Zahir Uddin Khan and his 21 year old "Megum," who had places in the fourth box down, "north of the stadium." At least, these were the instructions that went out whenever

Louis E. Laflin Pens Guide to World's Fair

Makes Recommendations Regarding Exhibits.

BY JUDITH CASS.

EVER since Louis E. Laflin Jr. was an underclass man at Princeton his literary efforts have been regarded with interest and anticipation, but one of the liveliest, most appreciated compositions yet produced by his pen is "Fair Enough" completed and ready to appear, we understand, in a fortnightly publication.

Living up to its name, it is a delightfully accurate and intelligent, yet condensed guide to A Century of Progress. Yesterday reading it in proof, we wanted to do the Exposition all over again, starting from the very beginning and following Mr. Laflin's suggestions to the most minute detail.

It is headed with a note to the effect that italicized items are strongly recommended. Then it proceeds with the price of admission to the Fair grounds and those other items always worth knowing. Next comes a listing of the World's Fair exhibits outside the grounds . . . the Art institute exhibit, of course, heading the list.

Then begins the guide to the exhibits . . . section one, 12th to 17th streets, on the island. Listing the foods and agricultural building, Mr. Laflin advises in italics, "See the second mechanical cow, at the north end, being milked mechanically. [Note—wait till it moos.]" In the case of the Sky Ride the guide suggests an after dark ride "even though it costs more."

By all means hear Miss Harriet Monroe, poetess of the Fair of '93, read her famous Columbian ode at the Illinois Host building if you have an opportunity, says Mr. Laflin, and then in the Hall of Science he recommends the "transparent" man from Dresden.

Senseneys Will Entertain Tomorrow.

The George Senseneys are to be host and hostess to several dozen of their friends for cocktails and supper tomorrow evening in the penthouse of Mrs. Senseney's family, the Ernest High Noyes, at 900 North Michigan avenue.

The Chicago Golf club in Wheaton will hold the annual invitation men's tournament today. After 18 holes of play the golfers will be seated at one great table in the dining room for dinner and the numerous prizes will be awarded to winners in every class. Among the men who have invited guests to Wheaton for this day of golf are Edward N. Hurley, chairman

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

MRS. TOM FISHER (Ruth Page) to whom fan letters are no novelty, is finding it distinctly a novelty to be getting letters from strangers about—not her dancing, but her house. Ever since a photograph of the steel ready-made domicile called the Ruth Page model of a new housing corporation appeared in the pages of Fortune magazine, letters making inquiries about the house have been coming to Miss Page.

THE Fishers are now ensconced in their new house, the steel sections of which arrived by truck and were set up on the bluff overlooking the lake on Sheridan road near Hubbard Woods. It is as compact, as trim and as modern a dwelling as you could imagine, from the tiny modern piano in the drawing room that arrived there from the World's Fair by way of Sweden, to the winding steel staircase on the outside of the house leading to the roof, offering opportunity for sun-bathing, and a heavenly view of the Piries' garden next door.

LUNCHEON guests the other day had cocktails and appetizers from the most modern of trays, with insets for glasses encircling its pewter edge, and went in to eat luncheon from a circular table of clear glass with a mirror edge. Horizontal panels of blue linoleum tile, inset with bands of chromium steel, cover the walls, and the white fabricoid chairs have metal frames. The bedrooms, with walls and ceilings painted various colors, and the drawing-room with a Noguchi drawing hanging above a mono-metal mantel; white Venetian blinds, beige-and-white striped curtains and beige walls, have modern furniture specially made to scale.

BY way of report—eight chukkers of the most sensational polo ever seen in America—(credit Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock for the statement)—was not enough exercise yesterday for the brothers Guest. They spent the morning playing golf on the Onwentsia course in a tensome that included two of Chicago's prettiest girls. And when Raymond Guest made a 325 yard drive he proved he could hit a golf ball as well as a polo ball.

WILL ROGERS is a pretty active fellow, too. He played polo himself Tuesday before catching a plane for Chicago to see the game. Rogers, who spent the first half of the game in the box with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bering, later joined the row of celebrities in front of the clubhouse edge. Maj. Frederic McLaughlin was there of course, keeping an eye on everything and beside him Louis E. Stoddard, in a Panama hat, wearing a gay yellow tie and leaning on a stick. Roy Ralph Atwill, a friend of the Guests, was the handsome young chap with the curly blond hair; Carleton F. Burke the one in the gray suit and Panama hat, and beside him Neil McCarthy, the California lawyer substitute on the West team.

"Is it laurel leaves or bay leaves they crown heroes with?" asked a young woman writing a newspaper story at the press stand, as Rube Williams lay on the field with an injured leg.

"It's bay rum in this case, I think," retorted Will Rogers.

SALLYRAND gag No. 99. A neighbor asked Richard J. Schermerhorn whether he had seen Sally Rand. Mr. Schermerhorn replied:

"Did I? I am one of her fans."

A YOUNG Lake Forest girl is spending a month in England and she wrote home to her father about her visit to Oxford. An old verger showed them through one of the ecclesiastical buildings. The girl commented upon the number of monuments and was suddenly moved to ask:

"Have they a monument to Abraham Lincoln anywhere?"

The old verger shook his head.

"He was an American, President of the United States in 1884," he said, "but he was never one of our young gentlemen."

Good Morning!

If Mr. Ronald Colman is permitted to leave the American screen and return to the English stage, as is rumored, Hollywood is even crazier than it's reported to be. He has a poise and finish to his work which is very sadly lacking in many of our local boys.

"The Masquerader," his latest and possibly last film, is very pleasant entertainment. There's nothing very new or startling about the plot, but it's so capably constructed and proffered as to be unusually well worth an hour's time.

Mr. Colman plays a dual rôle, presenting John Chilcote, a prominent English politician, and John Loder, his cousin, an impoverished young man who writes about the government affairs Chilcote takes actual part in. The statesman is a wretched, failing man who has hurt and disgusted his beautiful wife, neglected his business affairs, and is consuming much liquor and numerous little pills which I presume were dope. [It's rather a shock to see how well Mr. Colman plays the ornery gent—he's always been such a suave, smiling person on the screen.]

Loder, a clever, charming chap, is forced by circumstances to substitute for his dissolute relative, and, once he steps into the spot, he's firmly enmashed. His consequent adventures with Mr. Chilcote's public and private life, his mistress and his wife, are intelligently and amusingly portrayed.

This film seems to me to be adequate proof of what intelligent players and a smart director can do with an average plot. Settings, etc., are all adequate. Settings remain settings—Mr. Wallace obviously knows that it is unnecessary to make an obvious effort to please [or astonish] the eye of your audience with startling backgrounds when a film has as capable a cast as this one boasts. The picture has plenty of action and suspense, and is engrossing and enjoyable from beginning to end.

So by all means get over to United Artists if you're looking for entertainment, because, in addition to the feature film, there's a very swell Silly Symphony. It presents in color the three little pigs and the wolf who huffed and puffed in the old nursery rhyme. After taking in this one you'll positively want to romp down Randolph street singing "Who's afraid of the big, bad wolf?"

Paris Displays Fashions for Slender Purse

PARIS, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Practical fashions for slender pocketbooks have made their debut at winter style shows in the midst of the luxurious mode launched by many dressmakers.

Coats without a touch of fur, ensembles of green, blue and brown wools enlivened with brighter colors, and evening frocks with detachable sleeves are offered as "fastidious fashions" without great cost.

Trim wool ensembles combining a slender skirt and a three-quarter length coat or hip jacket with a blouse of another hue lead the daytime practical parade. Most of them are untrimmed by fur, though a few have touches of some inexpensive flat pelt.

One model, fashioned by the English designer, Peggy Morris, and named "Lobster American," combines a skirt and jacket of grayish brown wool with a lobster red wool blouse. Another called "September Morn" has a mauve wool skirt and jacket collared with mole and a violet wool blouse.

The same designer displays fall and winter coats of black, dark green and mahogany brown angora wools fashioned with big collars of the same fabric which fit closely about the throat. They are designed with a drooping "bottle neck" shoulder line in contrast to the widened shoulders shown by many designers.

Evening gowns are constructed with detachable gadgets which make them wearable for different occasions. One evening frock of soft gray velvet named "Grey Dawn" has detachable sleeves fastened to the square decolleté by copper clips which may be added when the wearer wants a dinner gown.

Plaids Become Grand; Appear in New Velvet

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Plaids in the grand manner!—Not only possible, but available, now in the bolts of new velvet just unpacked for fetching new fall frocks.

Gingham and Scotch plaids have gone glamorous in lengths of incredibly smooth, lustrous, new velvet . . . gay and eye striking color combinations of high colored patterns, handsomely squared against deep sapphire blue, tobacco brown, bottle green and black, one toned backgrounds.

You either like them or ignore them at first sight. Some persnickity soul may not care for crisp, demure ginghams with this wicked sleek sheen. But they will make unusual and brilliantly different afternoon dresses and probably shining new extras for a college wardrobe.

For the shoppers who say no to plaids there are some striped effects that should please the most critical . . . lovely, silhouette slimming patterns in narrow and assorted widths of stripes. One honey that would make even a fat lady appear slender is of three soft shades of warm and silver gray combined with a dramatizing wide coal black stripe and an accenting narrower stripe of clear white.

Other striped effects of brilliant color combine orange, jade green, brilliant blue, canary yellow, and scarlet. These striking stripes will make spectacular dance dresses, especially if the stripes are cut knowingly in V formations and the skirt widened with insets of deep V's from the knees to the floor.

Diagonal velvet isn't new, but this fall you can find some luscious new rich colors, particularly old gold with a dull and interesting luster or blueberry blue, copper, and green.

Dotted velvet, with large nickle size dots, is effective because the dots are not of another color, merely achieved with the flattened pile of the same colored velvet as the background. Pastel tints in this spotted stuff will fashion some of the most glamorous and clinging evening gowns.

Board Hostesses.

Beauty Sans Brains, Pep a Dubious Asset

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A pretty face may get one of you young girls an occasional date. But for consistent good times don't rely too strongly on its value. There is a marked depreciation in the pretty face standard of former days. It isn't quite enough. The girl who is merely pretty is quickly forgotten for the girl who has developed an attractive personality, skill in sports, skill in handling people, skill in developing what native talents she may possess.

Those hundreds of young women who write their plaintive little tales of lonely evenings, though their friends all tell them they are good looking, might look into the changed attitude of young people toward the merely pretty. Because girls generally have learned to make themselves highly attractive by the cultivation of good health habits, art in dress and make-up, fine grooming and all the other pursuits that make for physical lure, mere prettiness becomes a negative possession.

Wholesome outdoor activities and the sane friendships that grow out of them have done much to develop this attitude. Girls have opportunities to develop skill in sports. Or, at least, if they have not the opportunity for personal participation they can become intelligently versed in what is going on in the sports world by keeping up with the newspaper reports.

Another thing, young women are making such remarkable strides in the various businesses and professions that it has come to be expected that each girl must have some interest or occupation to set her apart from the mob.

This does not mean that she has to be a tennis star, or the author of a best seller, a high paid young executive, or a pioneer in some unexplored field. It means simply that young women are expected to be doing something useful in the world, something constructive, something that will make them capable of more than a silly line of conversation and a bag of more or less obvious tricks.

The value of personal appearance, understand, still stands ace high. We do not mean to discredit this unfailing asset.

BLOOD MONEY

SYNOPSIS.

Ducas Cresap and his Chinese servant are found dead in the upper room of Cresap's boathouse on Kettle pond, near the eastern end of Long Island. Gilbert Jonathan Redd, Cresap's stepbrother, keeps a written private account of developments in the case. A blow on the forehead from a slender, sharp edged implement killed Cresap. The cause of the Chinaman's death is not apparent. Capt. Bray, a special investigator, and an old friend of Redd's helps the men from the district attorney's office in solving the crime. Redd is a former police reporter. Florence Dane, Cresap's niece and an orphan, lives with him. Redd was fond of Florence's mother. He bought a home near Cresap's in order to protect Florence. Cresap made his fortune in the far east. Redd freely admits to Bray his hatred of Cresap, who was a drunkard and a debauché. The Chinaman and a dwarf, Sabino, are the most important of the servants, and there seemed to be some secret bond between them and their employer.

INSTALLMENT X.

AN AMAZING APPARITION.

Wednesday, Oct 19, 5 a. m.

Well, at least I'm relaxed and I did doze off for short spells as I lay here, and now I feel equal to going ahead with my version of such complications as ensued between yesterday noon and last night.

I knew Florence wasn't up to playing chatelaine for anybody. So, on my own initiative, I organized some scratched-up hospitalities. Motley and Bray and I messed on bacon and eggs in the dining room and there was a service of sandwiches and coffee for their subordinates. I sent a hot luncheon up to Florence, with strict instructions from me that she was to eat it. I noticed, though, that the tray came down with the food on it almost untouched.

According to the predictions, the two-ten brought a squawking phalanx of newspaper people from New York. But the photographers did most of the squawking—when Bray absolutely refused to permit them to prowl at will all over the place, snapshooting and posing chosen individuals as they went. Beyond doubt, the crew had expected their big city affiliations would be amply sufficient to overawe any rural police authorities, and when all of a sudden they found themselves confronted by a hard shelled oldster with forty years of metropolitan experience behind him, they were grievously disappointed.

First Motley gave out a brief and baldish statement enumerating the obvious particulars, and, under a volley of cross-fired questions, declined to deal with "clews" and "theories" and "motives," merely saying the inquiry had not progressed past the rudimentary stages. Then Bray and Motley took the whole squad on a personally conducted tour of the Cresap bailiwick, the excursion winding up at the boathouse, where the photographers were permitted to make as many exposures as they pleased of the building and the interior of the upper room. Inasmuch as the bodies had been taken away, our young gentlemen were not greatly pleased over what their plates recorded. By prior arrangement, and on express command from Bray, we refrained from mentioning the materialization of the strange green skiff or the puzzle of the vanished launch. For my part, I was very much in the dark touching on the meaning of the two added factors, and still am.

When the inspection had been completed Bray shooed a lingering swarm of townspeople out of earshot and dismissed his sightseeing party with these words:

"Now, then, gents, and you young lady"—for the convoy included a sob sister, as we used to call such a one or a specialist in human interest, as I believe is the modern title—"now, then, you've seen all I've seen myself and you know as much about this here riddle that's perplexing us as anybody else knows that's here or hereabouts." Which, of course, was a lie, but he lied it with a convincing counterfeit of candor. "I've got to ask you to excuse me a while. And I'm sorry I've got to ask you to lay off from interviewing the folks in the main house—for a little spell, anyhow. You see, I haven't had a chance to talk to 'em myself yet. But I'm going to do the next best thing: I'm going to turn you over to my old pal, Mr. Redd. Or, p'raps I should say, turn him over to you. He oughter be a big help to you. And if any of you should hit on a promising lead, I'll be obliged if you'll pass it along to us. I can't think of anybody"—here he beamed flatteringly upon his audience—"anybody at all that's better at helping out the cops on tangled up problems like this one looks than a smart newspaper man—or lady."

Bray and Motley headed back toward the house. What their errand was I could determine for myself. Following the arrival of the two-ten a village taxi had brought a spectacled, youngish man who carried a portfolio. Motley had stepped forward to meet him as he climbed out of his cab and had drawn him aside for a short whispered conference, and then, without introducing him to me, had ushered him into the library and left him there alone. So he and Bray must be returning to confab with this eyeglassed stranger.

I'm afraid I wasn't very entertaining company for our journalistic visitors. I volunteered to convert my cottage into a sort of press headquarters, but it seemed the boys had clubbed in and hired a big room at the Devonshire Arms, our principal hotel, and already had their typewriter batteries mounted there. One by one the reporters drifted away, and when the last one was gone I made for the house. Bray and Motley were at the front door bidding their clerkly confrere good-by and sending him off in a car to catch the 4:59 express, so called, for New York. About that time a messenger came with a large sealed envelope and Bray shucked it open and read its contents, Motley reading over his shoulder, and then Bray explained to me:

"This here is from the doctors," he said. "They must've hustled. So now, Gilly, if you'll just help rig the stage, we'll go ahead with the next act. We'll hear what the inmates have got to say for themselves."

"I take it you'll want to examine them singly?" I said.

"Leave me ponder," he said. "I guess p'raps the young lady. And after her—" As though moved by a sudden afterthought, he interrupted himself. "No, I just got me a different scheme. Working on 'em separately and checking up afterwards, to see where there's been any contradicting going on—that would be the regular schedule. But there's nothing much regular about the crowd in this here palatial residence, from what you tell me. Suppose me and Motley here—and yes, you, too, Gilly, because as a favor to us both we want you to set in with us on the preliminary seance"—he made his tone downright endearing—"suppose we shut ourselves off in this library, where we can be nice and quiet, and have the whole kit and caboodle of 'em in, all at the same time? Of course, just as a mere matter of form and to show we're playing no favorites, I'm liable to ask you an offhand question or two as we go along. But you'll understand, won't you?" And with what amounted to a caress, he laid a long, lean arm across my shoulders.

All three of us spun on our heels. For there were growled expostulations from the sentry by the door, and the next instant that outraged gentleman, still grunting indignantly, was thrust violently aside and no less a person than our most distinguished alcoholic eccentric—now that his fellow inebriate, Uncas Cresap, is no more—stood in our midst, rocking on the low heels of a pair of crimson bedroom slippers. P. Cheever Pettigrew, Esq., a comedy name, you'll allow, for a distressful figure of wasted genius. The country at large knew this man once as a real artist, a sculptor of great promise. That was before his private habits spoiled the talent that was in his fingers, before an ungovernable temper drove him into seclusion from his family, before his lusts after women involved him in a sequence of sordid and squalid scandals.

You couldn't blame Bray and Motley for staring at the amazing apparition—an elderly man, fully six feet six in height, and thin as a heron, except for terrifically bloated jowels dropping in folds to a dropsical red throat, and a vast, pendulous pod of a belly, so that viewed in profile he suggested a long eel with one hen's egg lodged below its bills and another bouncing about, whole and undigested, in its midriff. Over a floppy and wrinkled suit of brilliantly striped pajamas he wore an English morning coat with braided seams and flaring skirts. He wore no hat, so that his tremendous mass of thick, curly, reddish-gray hair stood up like a tousled and ill kempt bushy. But he carried, as always, his locally famous ebony cane with its chased gold handle.

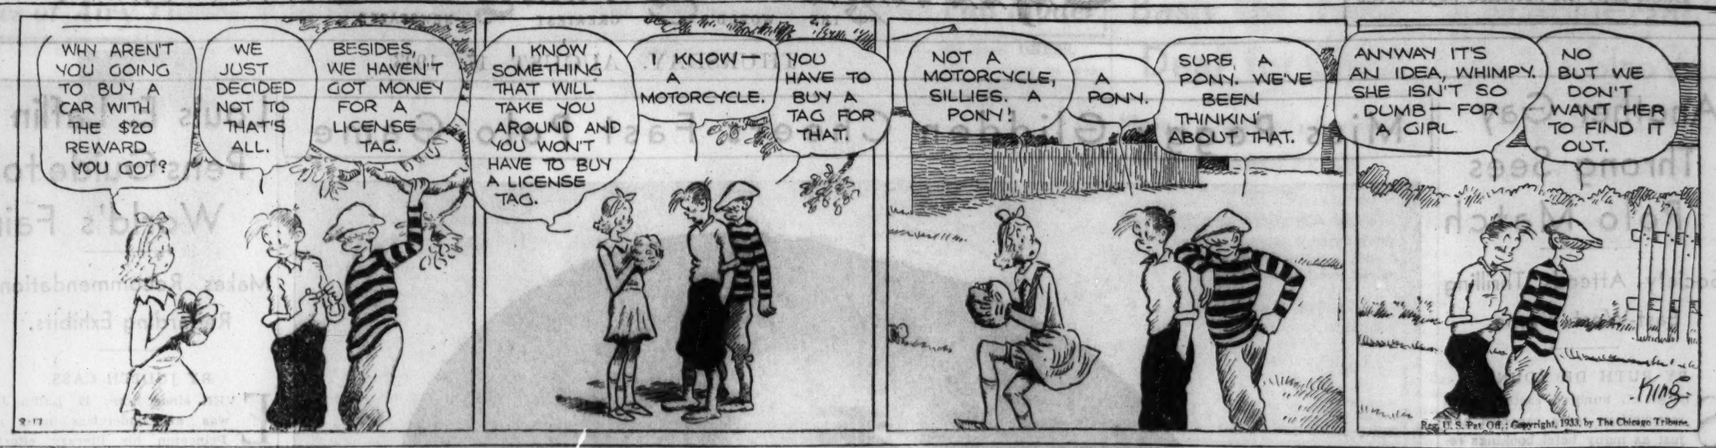
GASOLINE ALLEY—IT'S A THOUGHT



WHY AREN'T YOU GOING TO BUY A CAR WITH THE $20 REWARD YOU GOT?
WE JUST DECIDED NOT TO THAT'S ALL.
BESIDES, WE HAVEN'T GOT MONEY FOR A LICENSE TAG.
I KNOW SOMETHING THAT WILL TAKE YOU AROUND AND YOU WON'T HAVE TO BUY A LICENSE TAG.
I KNOW— A MOTORCYCLE.
YOU HAVE TO BUY A TAG FOR THAT.
NOT A MOTORCYCLE, SILLIES. A PONY!
A PONY.
SURE, A PONY. WE'VE BEEN THINKIN' ABOUT THAT.
ANYWAY IT'S AN IDEA, WHIMPY. SHE ISN'T SO DUMB—FOR A GIRL
NO BUT WE DON'T WANT HER TO FIND IT OUT.

De Mille Will Make Film in a Real Jungle

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—That high priest of the spectacular, C. B. De Mille, who has taken film troupes everywhere from the Red sea to the Volga and Rome (all in synthetic location jaunts), is going to have real tropical jungle for his next one, and hang the expense.

De Mille, his staff, and technical crew leave Saturday for Honolulu to seek out a proper spot in the Hawaiian bad lands for shooting "Four Frightened People," a Malay jungle story.

The cast, headed by Claudette Colbert, Mary Boland, Herbert Marshall, William Gargan, and Leo Carrillo, follow to Honolulu in two weeks, to spend two or three months. "We expect to cut into jungle never seen before and we may shoot the picture all on one island, or parts of it on several," De Mille said.

Will Rogers imitated himself rather unexpectedly for a shot in "My Weakness" at Fox. The film directions called for a novelty number with takeoffs of this and that celebrity. The studio couldn't find the right man to mimic Rogers, and Richard Whiting, composer of the musical in the film, hunted up Fred Stone in the studio café.

Instead of Stone helping drill the actor to imitate Will, Stone hunted up Rogers and kidded the latter into training his own imitator.

Finally Rogers said: "O, shucks, I'll do it myself." And he did, though the imitating required him to sing part of one of Whiting's songs.

Enrico Caruso Jr., who has been taking voice lessons from Adolfo de La Huerta, exiled ex-president of Mexico, is cast in a small part in "Stage Mother," the Alice Brady-Maureen O'Sullivan film at M-G-M.

Ted Healy and his assistant clowns are working in six different films on M-G-M lot. Healy says he is organizing his "stooges" into a "more mobile unit so they can jump from set to set without wasting the directors' time."

Radio-RKO has bought a rather unusual story for Irene Dunne to make. It's an original, titled "Hermit of Times Square," by Alvin Smith. The central figure is an opera singer.

Sixty girls clad in heavy uniforms were assembled for prison riot scenes of "Ann Vickers" at Radio yesterday. Dewey Starke, the assistant director, asked, "Are all you girls dressed so you can have your outer clothing torn off?" A period of panic followed while the girls and wardrobe workers engaged in a mad rush for panties and scanties.

M-G-M has given a contract to Gloria Hatrick, daughter of E. B. Hatrick, newspaper chain executive.

of arrangements for the day; Henry Hooper, F. Scott Linn, John W. Barton, Addison Stillwell, George F. Henneberry, Joseph D. McNulty, Harold Scott, Ira Couch, Ira Couch Jr., and Joss Hawley.

A special cabaret dinner featuring radio acts is the order Saturday evening at the Knollwood club in Lake Forest. Reservations have already been received for the evening for the word is that the places are limited. Dancing will continue until 1 o'clock.

Important tennis games are scheduled for the Onwentsia courts today when Miss Mary Reed plays Mrs. Franklin Clement and Miss Jean Schweppe plays Miss Sarah Hinde in the semi-finals of the woman's Onwentsia championship. The finals will be played Sunday morning. Dustin Grannis is the men's champion, as he defeated Donald P. Welles for the title last Sunday.

The Andrew B. Larneds arrive this morning from their home in Natchez, Miss., to spend two days with their daughter and son-in-law, the Howard B. Peabodys, in Lake Forest. Mr. and Mrs. Larned are on their way north for a bit of cool weather. When they come back through town in a few weeks the Peabodys hope that Mr. and Mrs. Larned will stay longer in Chicago to see the Fair and have a visit with their grandchildren.

Thomas Wellses Here to See Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Wells of Lake Forest, just back from several weeks of Nebraska ranching, are in town to see the Fair with their son and daughter, Greeley and Nancy. They have taken the apartment of the Robert B. Harshes on Lake Shore drive while Dr. and Mrs. Harshe are vacationing in Gloucester. This is the first time the Wells have seen their Chicago friends in many months for before they went to Nebraska they were wintering in Pasadena.

Mrs. Frederick W. Upham, who has been in and out of the city for the last two months, left yesterday for her summer home in Keene Valley, N. Y., where she is going to meet Mrs. Allen Watson and spend a few days. Then she will motor up to Gloucester, Mass., to visit her sister, Mrs. Charles W. Higley. Mrs. Upham will probably be at home around the middle of September.

Having thought about going abroad for several months the Ambrose C. Cramers are delighted that on Friday, if all goes well, they will be saying good-by to Chicago until October. They are going first to Sweden to spend a few weeks, and after that they will join Mrs. Cramer's brother, Arthur Meeker Jr., in Paris. All three will return together the first of October.

When Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody leaves for New York next Wednesday or Thursday as she hopes to do, Mr. Peabody and Stuyvesant Jr., and Patrick, their two sons, are going to try to get away to Georgian bay or for a cruise through Lake Superior on the boys' new boat, the Anita.

Mrs. Peabody plans to spend about ten days in the east, devoting some of them to the racing at Saratoga, and the rest to New York. If Mr. Peabody can get away, he wants a real rest and thinks that the best way to get one is lying in the sun on the cruiser or fishing from its decks.

Charles H. Swifts on Motor Trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Swift are among others who have left town for a midsummer vacation. They have gone to Canada to spend the next two weeks motoring.

Miss Christabel Wheeler, who has been in Watertown, N. Y., visiting Miss Betty Cornwall, returned home to Lake Forest yesterday.

The Baroness Violet Beatrice Wenner sailed on the S. S. Manhattan yesterday to spend six weeks abroad. She is going first to England to visit her brother, and then to Switzerland, where she will paint some more of her lovely portraits.

According to the latest news received from Miss Helen Gilbert, who started out around the world with Mrs. John F. Bass last August to be gone a year, she is in the Italian lakes and does not plan to return to Chicago before the end of September.

The Richard Bentleys of Lake Forest have driven to Gilbertsville, N. Y., for a few days. After their return they will go to the Huron Mountain club in Michigan to be gone until after Labor day.

Miss Jane Rowe, the dark and attractive daughter of the Edgar L. Rowes, left yesterday for Boston, Essex, Hyannisport and maybe New York to spend the next six weeks in the east. She will be visiting friends.

Mrs. Cluett Goes to Charlevoix.

Mrs. Robert Cluett is at the Chicago club at Charlevoix visiting her daughter, Mrs. Frederick H. Scott. Barrett Scudder of Lake Forest and Ralph E. Scudder of Winnetka have joined the summer colony there, and Mrs. B. H. Brewster III. of Baltimore is there with her son, B. H. Brewster IV.

Mrs. William Gold Hibbard has deserted her lovely home in Winnetka to spend a week at the Beaver Bay club up north along the shores of Lake Superior. She will be at home Monday morning.

Dr. and Mrs. Dwight C. Orcutt are back at their Glencoe home after a short motor trip through Wisconsin and Michigan. The latter part of their journey they were joined by their daughter, Frances, who spent July in camp at Alder Lake, Wis.

LAKES AND RIVERS, all surfaced, improved and unimproved highways, 299 golf courses, 305 lakes and streams, 677 adjacent towns, road markers—these are only a few of the features of the 1933 Chicagoland Map. It shows accurate mileages, includes a city street guide, a detailed map of Loop district, and gives the location of World's Fair buildings. This is a five color, pocket size master-map of the 40-mile area in the four states around the lower end of Lake Michigan. Price, 25 cents; by mail, 30 cents. BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Tulle evening frocks are the hit of the social season here in Paris. They come out to the hundred and one galas in great surging masses, and with twenty yard skirts how they do surge. Slinky frocks of crêpe and satin are just slim spaces in between. Women are ordering the tulle frocks like mad from Chanel who first brought them out, and from all the other houses who are now making them.

Comtesse Hervé Chandon de Brailles wears white tulle, so does Lady Deterding, the duchess of Portland, and loads of others, and these dresses are allotted hundreds of ruffles and flaring panels by Chanel. The more their skirts billow the better the ladies like them. Bodices are not meek and unadorned either, for like the Maggy Rouff white tulle frock herewith, the bodice is all ruffled up with frills as well as the skirt.

This model has an unusual ruffle treatment on the bodice, five tucked tulle ruffles being put in a standing position around the back of the arms and down the front to the tie on belt. These ruffles come off. They're a little skeleton wrap. The bodice without them is shown in the background, with a tulle bow in front.

The skirt of this dress is flared from a neat hipline by plaited panels between wide panels that have tucked ruffles, set along horizontally from knees to hem.

Another Gay Throng Sees Polo Match

any one inquired "where?" The princess, who is breaking the ancient Hindu law of women traveling outside their own country and allowing other men to see them, was shrouded in an aquamarine chiffon robe, beaded in crystals, that included a headdress. Her 23 year old prince looked more like an English sportsman than an East Indian. With them were S. M. Hadi, the prince's secretary, and Mrs. Mai Timmons, another member of their around the world party.

Probably no one of the polo fans received a more enthusiastic reception than Mrs. Higginson Rogers, who had just arrived in the city the day before from New York. She was smartly dressed in a black linen sports costume. One of the most striking ensembles noticed in the members' stand was that worn by pretty Miss Mary Elizabeth Reid. She was dressed in white, vividly patterned in field flower colors, and a tiny turban that looked like she had picked the field flowers.

Miss Fleury Leonard, one of the coming season's debutantes, was a member of the same party. Her dress was aquamarine crêpe and her wide brimmed straw hat brick red. In contrast to the sophisticated outfit in which she appeared last Sunday Miss Francise Clow looked almost demure in her blue and white checked cotton frock.

Mrs. Linn Wears Black and White

Crinkly crêpe black gloves were the fashion note yesterday in Mrs. Howard Linn's black and white costume. Sharing a box with the Austin Niblacks the party included Mrs. Dorothy Linn, Mr. and Mrs. Reeve Schley, who arrived early in the morning from New York; Robert Jennings, and Peter Berkey. Another New Yorker was Miss Peggy Stelle, who was watching the game with Miss Lydia Swift. Far at the other end of the field sat Miss Narcissa Swift.

Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, who assisted Mrs. McLaughlin with several of the preparations for the Onwentsia party last night, was looking lovely in a blue and white dotted dress and a trim blue hat. With her and Mr. Cudahy were Miss Cornelia Scott of St. Louis, whose brother is George Scott; Alexander Prim, and Dr. Eugene S. Talbot.

Everybody knew that Stephen A. Sanford, the eastern polo player and sportsman, was there. He circulated about the members' stand and paused for a long chat with Stanley Field.

Then there were the Charles Wesley Dempsters, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Field McLallen, Miss Peggy Glidden, who in another month is to marry and move east; the Madlener twins, Otto and William; Miss Marjorie Goodman and her fiancé, Charles S. Dewey Jr.; Miss Jean Schweppe, escorted by "Phil" Dalton; the young Lloyd Laflins, Miss Edith Behr with her mother, Mrs. Benjamin L. Behr; Mrs. Lester Armour, and Cyrus Adams Jr.

Others noted were Edmund J. Doering, Earle Hopping, Miss Janet Fairbank, just back from an eastern "truck" trip; Miss Dorothy Schmidt, Miss Margaret Sinclair, Miss Margot Atkin, and Mrs. Stephen Y. Hord, looking especially stunning in a red checked dress and an impudent red straw sailor.

Opera Season in Chicago to Open Sept. 18

BY EDWARD MOORE.

"Mme. Butterfly" will be the first attraction presented by the San Carlo Grand Opera company in its coming season at the Auditorium, and Monday, Sept. 18, will be the date. The engagement will be for at least four weeks, as announced yesterday by George A. Kingsbury, managing director of the Auditorium.

Hizi Koyke, Japanese soprano, will sing the name part of the opera, the first time that a Japanese artist has sung the Italian-Japanese rôle since Tamaki Miura used to do it with the Chicago opera. Mme. Koyke is new here, but has some flattering notices of her performance in other cities.

Fortune Gallo, general manager of the San Carlo company, promises a rather persuasive and in several cases brilliant list of artists for the visit here. He says that negotiations are still pending with other artists, but so far the personnel includes the following.

Baritones—Mario Valle, Claudio Frigerio, Stefan Kozakevich.

Bassos—Leon Rothier, Amund Sjovik, Natale Cervi.

The répertoire, to be sung in French, Italian, and English, will include "Trovatore," "Boheme," "Mme. Butterfly," "Aida," "Lucia di Lammermoor," "Tosca," "Barber of Seville," "Traviata," "Rigoletto," "Cavalleria Rusticana," "Pagliacci," "Carmen," "Romeo and Juliet," "Tales of Hoffman," "Faust," "Gioconda," "Forza del Destino," "Andrea Chenier," "Otello," "Martha," "Hansel and Gretel," and "Lohengrin."

Prices have been revised downward in a way to gladden makers of the code, as well as the public. They will run from 25 cents to $1, with $1.50 for box seats. These prices are possible only because the Auditorium has a large seating capacity. In fact, Mr. Gallo is presenting his company only in the largest theaters of the country. He is opening at the Mastbaum theater in Philadelphia, going from there to the municipal auditorium in Cleveland. Chicago will be the third city on the tour.

Sally's Guests to See Jack and Jill Players Present Show Today

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Are all you Jack and Jill winners ready for our party today? We're going to a little theater matinée presented especially for us, you know. The group of juvenile players will give "Little Lord Fauntleroy" in their studio this afternoon, and we'll see who are the lucky winners of our handsome prizes.

Remember, I told you about the beautifully illustrated books written by Olive Beaupre Miller, which will be autographed by her and presented to the boy and girl who have written the very best letters of all those received in this competition? So you'd better not be missing this afternoon, because, who knows, you might be going home with a valuable book tucked under your arm!

I'll see you all at the appointed meeting place this afternoon, and do not forget your invitations!

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a weekly radio feature—will be presented tomorrow by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 11 o'clock for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

When is a dessert parfait?

Nope—you won't have to look on page so-and-so to locate the answer, for it's now coming up. A dessert is parfait when parfait is the dessert. Which, being interpreted, means that at least fifty thousand Frenchmen, who can't be wrong, assure us that parfait means "perfect," and that when we serve parfait we're truly serving a perfect dessert.

So let us. For never was there a moment more needful of being revived and chillily delighted than any given minute in these wilting dog days. And what one long frosty glass piled artfully with frozen mixtures, flankings of sauce, fresh fruits, and whipped cream flourishes can do to charm away thoughts of the thermometer is something to conjure with.

There are two ways we may approach the chilly matter. We may register great speed, dash home from town, annex a quart of ice cream on the fly, and then go adventuring in the icebox for glorifications. If we would be quite orthodox we will buy ice cream which is quite rich. Sometimes it's called frozen custard—sometimes Philadelphia or New York ice cream. On the other hand, we may make good use of our refrigerator trays and create our parfait from the foundation up.

The glass often has a good deal to do with determining whether a dessert is a parfait or a sundae. The tall, thin ones with the long spoons are the correct gesture. Usually the order is ice cream, then fruit or sauce, ice cream, more fruit or sauce, and over all a white cap of whipped cream with perhaps a bit of fruit tucked neatly into the crest.

3. Maple pecan sauce, vanilla ice cream, whipped cream.
6. Peppermint ice cream, grated bitter chocolate, crushed white mints.
8. Vanilla ice cream, butterscotch sauce, whipped cream, whole pecans.

But times come up when pride or prejudice inspire us to freeze our own parfaits with no help from the drug store. Then to have one or two recipes par excellence on hand to guide us insures happiness all the way around. For the first, may I suggest something quite new and positively corking?

PARFAIT MACAROON.

⅓ cup water
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten
1½ cups drained, cooked apricots
2 small well ripened bananas
1½ cups whipping cream
2 dozen macaroons, crumbled

Cook the sugar and water until the sirup spins a thread, about 238 degrees F. Beat the sirup a little at a time into the beaten egg whites. Put the bananas and apricots through a strainer and add to the first mixture with the macaroons. Whip the cream and fold it in. Turn the mixture into refrigerator trays and freeze three to four hours. To serve, fill parfait glasses with the frozen mixture and top with whipped cream.

PARFAIT NOUVEL.

½ cup water
1 egg white, whipped stiff
1 cup apple sauce
1 large banana
1 cup whipping cream
¼ teaspoon salt
20 vanilla wafers

Boil the sugar and water until a rich sirup forms, about 238 degrees F. Pour this over the egg white, beating constantly. Add the apple sauce and the mashed banana, then fold in the stiffly beaten cream, flavorings, and crumbled wafers. Turn into freezing trays and freeze three to four hours in a mechanical refrigerator. Serve in tall parfait glasses with a topping of whipped cream.

O, by the way! If everybody at your house, including the Fair droppers-in, need periodically to be cooled off, I have a suggestion to make. To take care of just such wilted folks we've just completed "Home Frozen Delicacies," the new Tribune frozen dessert booklet with fifty chilly dessert recipes and six sauces to top them off. Half of them are designed for those folks who boast mechanical refrigerators and the rest are made to fit the needs of the ice-salt freezer method. The booklet is available for 13 cents by mail at the Mary Meade department, Chicago Tribune. It is also selling over the counter for 10 cents at The Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street.

Lost Her Double Chin

AND HER PROMINENT HIPS

This woman writes: "I have a hearty appetite and always stay at 156 lbs." Read her letter. She is one of the thousands of women who have Kruschen Salts to thank for the loss of a load of unhealthy fat.

"I am 49 years old, 5 ft. 5½ in. in height, and was 190 lbs. when I started taking a level teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts every morning. I went slowly down in weight—some weeks 2 lbs., others just 1 lb., until I got down to 156 lbs. I have never felt better in my life than I do now and I feel so much lighter and feel years younger. There's always somebody saying to me that I look about 35 or thereabouts. My measurements are below:

Before		After
Hips	44 ins.	Hips	39½ ins.
Waist	33 ins.	Waist	28 ins.

"Also, I had a double chin before taking Kruschen, but not now. I have never dieted except once during the time I was taking Kruschen and I tried eating brown bread, boiled eggs, no potatoes or fat meat for a week or two. I got myself down to 151 lbs. but I have a healthy appetite and like to eat everything that's going. I stopped dieting and always stay at 156 lbs. Even better than all this is the fact that Kruschen Salts have brought me through the difficult period of life without even so much as a headache." —(Mrs.) W. I.

Try one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning—in 3 weeks get on the scales, and note how many pounds of fat have vanished. Kruschen will give any fat person a joyous surprise.

If one inexpensive jar (lasts 4 weeks) doesn't joyfully satisfy, money back from any drug store. Make sure you get Kruschen—prescribed by many physicians and recognized the world over as the SAFE way to reduce and at the same time gain in health and physical charm.

WOMEN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

Isn't this a pretty dress to wear now, and later on for fall, particularly if you choose a chestnut-brown novelty silk crêpe for it. Make the tiny rolled collar of white crêpe marocain, and use a patent leather belt. The simple lines of the dress are youthful, and the perky sleeve flares create smart shoulder height and width.

The pattern, No. 2803, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THE BEARDED BUTLER.

The door of Mrs. Noven Loomis' house was opened to Prof. Fordney and Inspector Keeley by a short, thin, bird-like man with a brown beard. He announced himself as Huffkins, the butler.

"Odd looking character for a butler," thought Fordney. "Never have seen one with a beard before."

As they walked down the long entrance hall Huffkins informed them that he had been alone in the house for the last two days; that the other servants had been given a vacation as Mrs. Loomis, a widow, had gone to Europe.

"Where's the body?" Kelley demanded.

"In here, sir," Huffkins replied opening a door on their right.

The professor curiously glanced at it then began to minutely inspect the room. From a waste basket he picked scraps of a letter one of which read, "your daughter and her mother wil . . ." and there it ended. He sought in vain for the envelope in which the letter came while Kelley was questioning the butler.

"You mean to tell me you've never seen this man before?" the inspector thundered. "How did he get here? And, you didn't hear the two shots that killed him?"

The butler replied in the negative and said that on opening the room that morning he was amazed to see a man he did not recognize lying sprawled in front of the fireplace—dead! That he had disturbed nothing and had immediately called the police.

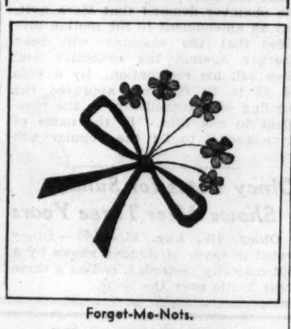
"Well," Fordney murmured to himself: "there's one clew at least. This letter was undoubtedly addressed to a man."

WHY DID HE BELIEVE SO?

[See solution on page 27.]

Perhaps you have a story or problem you would like to submit to Prof. Fordney. If so, send it to him care of this paper. He will be delighted to receive it.

Forget-Me-Not Quilt Is Dainty in Blue Rooms



Forget-Me-Nots.

BY NANCY CABOT.

For your blue room. Here is a pattern that enjoys rare popularity for one so new, and especially with those quilters who prefer blue quilts. The forget-me-nots, naturally enough, are made from forget-me-not blue and the bow from a harmonizing shade of the same color. "Forget-me-nots" makes a most charming quilt pattern with just a bit of a dainty old fashioned air.

For a quilt pattern of this design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

4,000 Guests Enjoy 29th Annual Picnic of Auto Outing Group

Thirty-five hundred orphans and crippled children, tired but happy, and 500 aged men and women, more tired but just as happy, were taken to their homes yesterday evening at the conclusion of the 29th annual outing in Lincoln park given by the Orphans' Automobile Day association.

Again nearly 800 motorists had generously donated their cars and chauffeurs or in more instances had driven the cars themselves, to make the event possible. They shared the joy of the underprivileged children who saw five hours of professional and amateur entertainment on an improvised stage near the Grant monument in Lincoln park, and breathed fresh lake air.

Comradeship Is Basis for 'New Deal' for Child

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

I have received such a satisfactory letter from one of my readers that I cannot resist the temptation to let you read it, too.

This mother writes that my articles coincide with the ideas of her and her husband in bringing up their children—ideas that have proven their soundness through the years. She says:

"He [my husband] is one of those rare individuals who has or makes time for his children. On automobile trips [and we make many such] he explains to the best of his ability [and he has plenty] any of the interesting sights, stopping the car to explore with the children whenever possible. He firmly believes in commendation justly deserved and his quiet reproof accomplishes more than many men's tirades.

"So far—to the best of our knowledge—there have been no secret pages in our three children's lives and they have always come home to us to talk matters over because they know we will give them a fair trial and no post-mortems after the conversation is ended.

"I think dinner is our pleasantest time because each of us has his little share in the conversation which MUST be impersonal and pleasant. Unless there are more than four guests present our children are to be found at their regular places at table because we believe that only in meeting people and sharing in the general conversation can a child acquire poise and social tact for his later life.

"Of course when they were little they were fed and in bed by the usual dining hour, but since they were six years old we have included our children at informal dinners. And—this is a point I insist upon—they must not interrupt when guests are speaking [or parents either] but when they have waited their turn THEY SHALL HAVE IT with no interruptions from grownups and equal courtesy shall be paid their little contributions as is paid an adult.

"They are now growing up all too rapidly but each year brings new interests and life goes merrily on. They have never regarded dad or mother as superhuman so we have never been rudely dethroned from our pedestals, but each one, so utterly different from the other, has given us joy, obedience cheerfully rendered, reverence and a soul satisfying companionship and we, in turn, have tried to live up to our share in the agreement by giving them absolute truth, understanding, cheerful sympathy, moral integrity and deep love."

Open Berlin Palace for American Women on Good Will Tour

BERLIN, Aug. 16.—The jewel-like "room of mirrors" of the Palace Monbijou, glittering with candlelight, was thrown open today especially for a clavicord and flute concert in compliment to a delegation of American women from the general federation of women's clubs.

The good will delegation came from Paris, many of them sporting new Parisian bonnets of pristine white which aroused general admiration. They stopped over in Dusseldorf and Wiesbaden, where they declared they were most delightfully entertained by German women's clubs.

They could not converse because of the difference in languages but the German women sang old German songs for their American guests and a warm sympathy was established.

The delegation will be guests of the American Women's club at the American Institute and expects to hear a prominent Nazi outline the aims of the new German government for them before they leave for Prague and Vienna this week-end.

County Treasurer McDonough yesterday filed 200 more tax receivership petitions against properties owing a total of $739,390.

Ask Judge Jarecki to Rule on 15 Pct. Assessment Cut

County Judge Jarecki was petitioned by State's Attorney Courtney's office yesterday to rule on the justness of the board of appeals' order directing a reduction of 15 per cent on the 1931 assessments on residences and two and three flat buildings.

Pointing out that the pending state Supreme court decision will deal only with the right of the board of appeals to issue such an order, the petition sets forth that a ruling on the justice of the order is essential if a delay in the collection of the second installment taxes and a new clogging of the County court with tax objection cases are to be averted.

Hearing Set for Aug. 25.

A hearing on the petition was set for Aug. 25 by Judge Jarecki. Notices of the hearing were sent to the state tax commission, the board of appeals, and the county assessor.

The petition, which was filed by Assistant State's Attorney Hayden N. Bell, expresses the belief that there was discrimination against homes and small flat buildings in the 1931 quadrennial valuation as made by County Assessor J. L. Jacobs. It contends that the appeal board's order for reduced assessments gives an unjustified measure of relief to the owners of the more expensive residences.

Meanwhile property owners involved in the order and others who have been obtaining corrections of their assessments on complaint hearsing before the board of appeals have been flooding the county treasurer's office with inquiries as to payment of the second installment of their real estate taxes before the penalty date of Sept. 1.

McDonough Gives Explanation.

The situation was clarified by County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough yesterday. No new tax bills for the second installment will be sent to those who do not come within the provisions of the 15 per cent reduction order, or who have not filed a complaint with the board of appeals, he said. To those affected by the reduction order who have had corrections made by the board of appeals, new bills will be sent out next week.

Where corrected bills are received too late to meet the penalty date two weeks hence, no delinquency penalty will be assessed. If the general order of the board of appeals for a 15 per cent cut on small homes is carried out, corrected second installment tax bills will be mailed out after the assessments are revised.

URGES RETAILERS TO ADVERTISE IN BEST NEWSPAPER

Advertising in the best newspaper is the cheapest way to get new customers, E. R. Richer, advertising manager of Marshall Field & Co.'s store for men, told members of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers in convention at the Hotel Sherman yesterday.

"There is no doubt that your largest and most valuable field for cultivation lies in the intensity and consistency of your newspaper advertising," he said.

ECUADOR CHIEF SPURNS DEMAND THAT HE RESIGN

Announcement of the president's action was made after he had conferred with members of his cabinet and high officials of the army until dawn. The presidential palace and the legislature were being guarded by soldiers.

The head of the chamber of deputies, Dr. Belasco Ibarra, moved that the chamber demand that Mera quit, but an amendment to the motion provided that the chamber will hear charges against the executive and then ask his resignation. By a vote of 42 to 22 congress approved the sending of a commission to the president to ask him, "in the name of democracy," to let the popular will rule.

FORCED TO SIGN CONTRACT, TAXI DRIVER CHARGES

Testifies Before Vehicle License Board.

Abe Mogul, member of an insurgent group of Checker taxicab drivers, testified yesterday before the city public vehicle license commission that he had been forced to sign a contract with the Checker company under duress. His testimony was taken in a hearing held by the commission in gathering data which will be used in making recommendations to the city council on taxicab rates.

Under questioning by Corporation Counsel Sexton, a member of the commission, Mogul stated that he had been told that his service charge of $55 a month would be raised if he didn't sign the contract. When asked if he had been threatened, Mogul answered that an official of the company shook his finger at him.

Take Over Company, His Plea.

Later, Mogul, who lives at 5542 Monroe street, demanded that the commission take over the Checker company in order to conserve its assets, charging that Michael Sokol, Checker president, had stated that the company would go "broke" soon. Sokol leaped to his feet and concurred in Mogul's request, adding that the commission also should force the drivers to pay up on their obligations to the company.

"As one member of the commission," interjected Mr. Sexton, "I'll vote against taking over any private business and operating it."

Earnings of $4 a Day.

Mogul's earnings, according to his testimony, average $4 a day. He and Nate Burman, president of the Checker Stickers club, the organization of the insurgent drivers, declared that the drivers would earn more at the flat rate of 5 cents for each one-third mile if lighter cabs were used.

INDIANA BLAMES ILLINOIS PLANTS FOR "BAD" WATER

Finds 3 Steel Companies That Dump Phenol.

Illinois industries were blamed, in part, for the occasional phenol taste in Chicago's drinking water in a report made yesterday to Gov. Paul V. McNutt of Indiana by Paul A. Geupel, chief engineer of the Indiana state division of public health. The report was an answer to the findings of an Illinois commission, which were transmitted to Gov. McNutt by Gov. Horner.

The Illinois commission report resulted from an investigation started last winter by Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, after Chicago's water had been contaminated by phenol traced by Chicago engineers to a plant in Indiana.

Empty Wastes into River.

"Gov. Horner should be informed," the Indiana report stated, "that several steel companies located in South Chicago, Ill., do not have phenol recovery plants. These steel companies empty their untreated wastes into the Calumet river, depending on the flow from the lake to the Calumet-Sag canal to keep this pollution from the lake. We wish to coöperate in every way, but where the Indiana steel companies have spent almost two million dollars on phenol recovery plants and the Illinois steel companies nothing we believe Gov. Horner should be informed."

Mr. Geupel, in the report, however, admitted that the Grand Calumet river in Lake county, Indiana, probably is "the largest puddle of pollution in the world." The report also stated that the cities of Gary, Hammond, Whiting, East Chicago, East Gary, Hobart, and Chesterton have not expended any funds in the construction of sewage treatment works. The report noted that, at a meeting in Gary last May, resolutions were adopted urging Lake county cities to apply for funds from the federal government to build sewage disposal plants.

Dump Raw Sewage into Lake.

"I am glad to learn about those resolutions," Commissioner Hewitt commented. "I remember that at meetings held in my office there was testimony that some of the Indiana cities dump raw sewage into the lake and that it sometimes is carried north to Chicago."

Phenol is not the only substance that gives the water a bad taste, according to Mr. Hewitt. Engineers found recently that certain oil wastes also affect the taste of the water. They held hopes, however, that a method of treating the water to remove the taste would be found.

FAIR GUEST ROBBED OF CAR.

WIFE TO SEEK DIVORCE FROM L. F. SWIFT JR.

Relatives of Louis F. Swift Jr., son of the millionaire packer, who is now managing the Swift & Co. plant in Fort Worth, Tex., last night confirmed reports that he and Mrs. Mary Haymaker Bennett Swift of Denver, Colo., will soon be divorced.

Louis' brother, Alden B. Swift, 30 North Green Bay road, Lake Forest, said that the couple, who have been separated since 1930, have made definite progress in their plans for a divorce, which Mrs. Swift plans to obtain in Denver on the ground of desertion. He said it was his understanding that they had been attempting to reach an agreement on the terms of a divorce ever since their separation but that they had made little headway until recently.

The Swifts were married in October, 1922. She was the divorced wife of Frank Bennett of New York.

EAST BEATS WEST, 12-8; EVENS POLO SERIES

HOSE PURCHASE FIRST BASEMAN FROM DALLAS

Slugging Infielder to Report Sept. 10.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The league leading Senators yesterday for the second successive afternoon decided on a score of 5 to 1 as the proper ratio by which to beat the White Sox. The blistering made it eight straight victories for Joe Cronin's lads and enabled them to increase their lead over the second place Yankees to 6½ games.

The Sox went through the contest sans the direction of their leader, Lew Fonesca, who was serving the first of three days penance for becoming too saucy to Umpire Lou Kolls in a debate during the sixth inning of Tuesday's contest.

Appling Hits Homer.

Yesterday's contest, despite the duplication of the score and the fact that Luke Appling and Manager Cronin each made homers, was no such interesting spectacle as the opener, due, perhaps, to the fact that in Tuesday's affair the Sox were leading 1 to 0 up till the sixth. Yesterday they only had one chance to go in front and they blew that in a most distressing fashion.

After Appling had led off with his homer, Dykes followed with a single and Rhyne with a double to put runners on third and second with none out. But the next three batters were utterly helpless, so the homer had to stand for the Sox's offensive for the day.

There was a ray of sunshine for Sox partisans during the afternoon, however. The Sox have purchased a first baseman. His name is Zeke Bonura of the Dallas team in the Texas league. He will not report to the Sox until Sept. 10, which is a long time to wait for a first baseman.

Zeke Is Big Fellow.

Zeke is a large fellow and currently is leading the Texas league sluggers with a mark of .357. He has driven in 105 runs, up till yesterday, which is one more than the able Mr. Simmons has driven in for the Sox. Bonura is 24 yeaers old, 6 feet 1 inch tall, and weighs 201 pounds.

Last year he led the Texas league regular first basemen in fielding with a mark of .992. He played in 144 games, made 1,417 putouts, 114 assists, and participated in 125 double plays. He did these things while making only 13 errors. He throws right handed.

The Sox agreed to send Dallas Outfielder Norman, now with Louisville of the American association; Ed Walsh Jr., right handed pitcher, now with Oakland in the Pacific Coast league, and another player, as yet unselected.

The first two runs of yesterday's game were scored by Kuhel and driven in by Sewell. In the second inning Kuhel led off with a walk, went to second on Bluege's sacrifice and scored on Sewell's single to center. In the fourth Kuhel beat out an infield roller with one out, again went to second on a sacrifice by Bluege and scored on Sewell's single to right.

Grube Turns Copper.

The Sox made two singles in the first four innings. Haas got one in the first, but Kress flied to Goslin and Simmons tapped to Myer. In the third Grube led off with a line single to left but, like the 10,000 coppers who got lost in the wild wood near La Grange Tuesday, Frankie made the mistake of looking up at a dipping airplane. While he was thus gaping, Whitehill threw the ball over to Kuhel and Frankie was run down.

Tinning's Balk Touches Off Big Parade.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Aug. 16.—The portly Bud Tinning spun defeat for himself and the Cubs today by committing a balk in the eighth inning of a fight that until then had been scoreless. Six runs charged across the plate in the wake of the balk, and the Braves, outsiders in the pennant race, beat the Chicagoans, 6 to 1.

It was the twelfth setback in the Cubs' last thirteen starts on the road and tonight their tongues weren't wagging with pennant talk. They are 5½ games from the leading Giants.

Tinning, until the moment of his balk, had waged a pitching battle with Fred Frankhouse. The muscular Chicago right hander had yielded only three hits in seven innings, the low total to a certain extent being due to some brilliant fielding behind him. Noboby had reached second base. Then, after a single to start the eighth, Tinning made his error. The panic was on immediately. Three hits, two for extra bases, sent the big fellow on his unhappy way. Leroy Herrmann stepped in, but the change made no difference. Three more hits, with a pass and error, followed to add insult in injury.

Cubs Fold Up in Pinches.

It wasn't a novel experience for the Cubs to lose to Frankhouse, a one time Cardinal. He had whipped them three times previously this season. Today the Cubs hit him hard enough to collect a few runs, but the same chronic feebleness in the pinches was evident. There was only one inning in which they failed to get a runner to base. Once they had three on with two out. Once there were two on with one out. But the only man able to make the circuit was Manager Grimm, who hit a homer in the ninth, and even that might have been called foul if it had meant anything in the outcome.

Whitney's single to left opened the eighth. Tinning started to pitch to the plate and suddenly turned to make a throw to Grimm. Whitney was ordered to second. A moment later he scored the first run on Lee's double to left center. Spohrer tripled to the same spot and Lee scored. Maranville singled over short and Spohrer ran home with the third run. By this time Grimm was convinced Tinning was whipped mentally as well as physically. There was a pause while Herrmann strolled from the bull pen for his first effort since being recalled from minor league exile.

Change Is No Help.

Frankhouse, the first to face Herrmann, bunted to Grimm, sending Maranville to second. Urbanski aimed a fairly hot grounder at English, and discovered Woody also was in the grip of the panic. The ball squirmed off the end of his fingers for a single, Maranville scoring. Babe Herman loped back to the bleacher to reach Jordan's healthy fly.

Berger then redeemed himself for fanning with a team mate on base in the previous inning. He hit the 405 foot sign in center field for a triple, Urbanski scoring. Billy Herman relayed the throw in to the third, but the ball whistled past English, so Berger continued to the plate. Then Moore walked and Whitney singled again, but welcome relief came on Lee's grounder to English.

Plenty of Hits, No Runs.

The Cubs got three hits in the first two innings. One was a single by Cuyler with two out in the opener. Babe Herman forced him. With one out in the second, Hartnett singled to left and Grimm singled to right. This seemed a scoring chance until Whitney stabbed Jurges' liner and doubled Hartnett off second. The Cubs also had a man on base in the third. English walked after one was out, but the next two gentlemen couldn't get the ball out of the infield.

Tinning got along on his own hook in the first inning, but in the second the Cubs had to start lending him bits of sparkling defensive play. Cuyler assisted by picking Whitney's

EAST ALL-STARS RIDE WEST INTO DEFEAT

Reckless, hell-bent riding and accurate shooting humbled the east's polo four in its first meeting with the western all-stars Sunday, but it taught the Hitchcock team what to expect. Consequently it came back in the second game yesterday to defeat the west, 12 to 8, and even the series by outriding and outroughing its hardy foes. The play pictured above is typical of the day's competition. Earl Hopping (right), No. 2 for the east, outrode Elmer Boeseke, No. 2 for the west, in a race for a loose ball in the first chukker and hammered it home for a goal.

HITCHCOCK'S FOUR TRIMS FOE AT OWN GAME

Rube Williams' Leg Is Broken.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Tommy Hitchcock's Eastern team squared polo's world's series yesterday by defeating the West, 12 to 8, before 10,500 spectators at Onwentsia. Each quartet now has won a game, making necessary a deciding contest, which will be played Sunday.

Calling upon the resourcefulness inherited through generations of polo play, the Eastern flyers beat their opponents at their own game. The aggressive riding of the Westerners was an outstanding factor in Sunday's victory, but yesterday the Eastern boys galloped just as recklessly. In many a race for possession of the ball an Eastern rider shouldered a Westerner out of his path. And the East was hitting with greater accuracy.

Williams' Leg Fractured.

The hopes of the West for ultimate victory in the series were dealt a telling blow in the seventh chukker when Rube Williams, whose fiery play has been a constant inspiration to his teammates, suffered a fracture just below the right knee. Neil McCarthy replaced him.

Every one was watching the action at the far end of the field when Rube, injured a few moments previously in a collision, slipped from his horse. The crowd received its first intimation that he was hurt when he was seen lying all alone at one side of the field.

Rube showed his spirit right to the end. As his pal, Cecil Smith, and a policeman attempted to carry him from the field Williams waved them aside. "Let me walk," he said. But after one step he collapsed and was carried to an automobile.

Even after it was announced that his leg had been fractured some of his friends said that he might be in there playing Sunday. "You can never tell about Rube," they remarked. "He might get them to tape him up and put him back on his horse. It would be just like that fellow to play with his leg in a cast."

However, no one seriously expects even an iron man like Rube to be back in there Sunday after an accident such as he suffered yesterday.

Hopping Replaces Phipps.

An important change was made in the eastern lineup for yesterday's game, Earl Hopping going in, while Michael Phipps was left on the side lines. Winston Guest was put at No. 1, Hopping took No. 3, Hitchcock remained at No. 2, and Raymond Guest at back. This combination functioned smoothly from the very start.

Hopping showed remarkable coolness, no matter how rough the going became. Almost surrounded by western players on several occasions he dribbled the ball cautiously down the field, keeping it just beyond reach of the flashing mallets of his foes. He made two of the most spectacular shots of the game and fitted nicely into the team play.

Winston Guest acquitted himself well at No. 1, showing a particular talent for taking full advantage of any breaks which came his way. Twice he followed up his teammates as they dribbled to the goal and was in a position to slam in a pair of scoring shots when they lost possession of the ball.

Hitchcock in Top Form.

Hitchcock, who was stopped pretty consistently Sunday, played in top form yesterday. He seemed always to have something in reserve for a race to the ball and was repeatedly setting it in position for his teammates. His strokes were crisp and clean cut and his riding aggressive. Raymond Guest, who was so dependable on defense Sunday, played just as tight a game again yesterday.

Offensively the westerners were unable to click yesterday in the efficient manner they displayed Sunday. There was many a wasted shot and many a whirlwind attack upon the goal ended in a dubbed stroke. They were rushed and harassed by their foes to a much greater extent than they were Sunday, which perhaps accounted for their lack of accuracy, but more than that, the crowd missed the sparkle which marked the performance of the westerners in that first game. Sunday they were an inspired team, riding and fighting like demons for every stroke. Yesterday they were just four fine polo players.

East Takes Early Lead.

Hitchcock took his team into the lead immediately after the opening gong by making a free shot from the 60 yard mark following a foul by Williams. Then Williams missed a back shot in front of his own goal and Winston Guest galloped in to score.

Again the East stormed in upon the Western goal. Hitchcock shot a long pass straight down the field to Winston Guest, who slammed the ball between the posts to give his team a 3 to 0 lead.

It was all over in a flash. Brown Berry regained his feet and his stride. Egan, leaning over, gathered up the reins and had the colt in his stride

Both Helens Win Matches in Title Play

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Helen Wills Moody, headliner of the women's national tennis tournament, drew most of the audience to the lawn in front of the West Side club, where she defeated Grace Surber of New York, 6-2, 6-1, today. Helen, content to win with as little effort as possible, did not give her usual brilliant exhibition.

While a majority of the 1,000 spectators were watching Mrs. Moody ease her way into the third round, the rest, who remained in the stands, saw the two contests expected to feature the day's program turn out complete flops. Sarah Palfrey of Brookline, Mass., and Alice Marble of San Francisco routed Marjorie Sachs of Cambridge, Mass., and Virginia Rice of Boston respectively, by the same scores, 6-0, 6-1.

Other Seeded Stars Win.

Three British and two American seeded contenders rushed into the third round behind Mrs. Moody. In addition to Miss Palfrey and Miss Marble they were Mary Heeley [England's No. 1 representative], Betty Nuthall, Freda James, Josephine Cruickshank, and Marjorie Gladman Van Ryn. All disposed of their opponents in straight sets.

As the favorites' charge into the third round developed into a stampede, Helen Jacobs, defending champion, duplicated the leading challenger's 6-2, 6-1 triumph at the expense of Kathryn Pearson of Houston, Tex. This Helen, however, had far less difficulty than her namesake from Berkeley, Cal., in earning her bracket.

Baroness Has Trouble.

Baroness Maud Levi of New York, planted eighth on the national preferred list, was the first of the outstanding competitors to run into trouble, but it was not serious. Cecilia Riegel of Philadelphia was the source of the annoyance, but finally was removed from the scene by a 7-5, 6-4 count.

After Lillian Scharman Hester of Brooklyn, a former top-flighter, had threatened to check the pace of the select group by taking a set from Peggy Scriven, the English holder of the French championship, Mrs. A. J. Lamme of Rye did that very thing by conquering Joan Ridley, Miss Scrivens compatriot, at 8-6, 4-6, 6-4 for the initial upset of the tournament. It was a stunning reverse for Miss Ridley, one of the most prominent contenders in her native land, to lose to a player who is twentieth in the American standing.

Raymond Guest, back for the east four, provides another striking example of the difference between the two teams yesterday. He and Aidan Roark, No. 1 for the west, rode headlong for the ball. Guest (left) won the race and, with a back hand shot, drove the ball far down the field before Roark could get there. The teams play the deciding game of the series at Onwentsia Sunday.

Football Calls Grange; Signs Bear Contract

Harold [Red] Grange, headliner in professional football since Thanksgiving day, 1925, has signed a contract to play with the Chicago Bears this fall, according to announcement yesterday by George Halas, president of the north side club. At the conclusion of last year Grange said he expected to retire from the game, but with the approach of Sept. 1, the date when the Bears will start practice, Red again has felt the urge to play.

"I'm in excellent condition," Grange said in a letter to Halas received yesterday, "and I'm now down to playing weight."

This will be Grange's ninth year in professional football, eight of which he has spent with the Bears in the National league.

Canzoneri Begins Drill for Ross Bout

HAS ONLY TICKET ON $2,967 DAILY DOUBLE; LOSES IT

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Leo J. Haffner of Kenmore, a Buffalo suburb, won the daily double at the Fort Erie race track today, then lost the ticket. The ticket calls for payment of $2,967.35 on a $2 investment. It was the only one sold in the doubles calling for Dark Altos in the first race and Fire Reel in the second race.

Haffner discovered his loss after the first race had been run and notified the ticket seller, saying he wished to be protected in the event Fire Reel should win.

Later in the afternoon another man presented the winning ticket and demanded the money. He was told there was a question of ownership and an official of the track would be called to discuss the matter. The applicant thereupon disappeared.

Haffner made a demand for his winnings, but was told that while the track was anxious to pay the money to the rightful claimant, it must protect itself by gaining possession of the ticket at the time of payment. Haffner engaged an attorney and the latter will take court action tomorrow in an effort to restrain payment to any one except his client.

Mary Reynolds Wins $28,000 Hambletonian

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—In the most dramatic finish that has been recorded in the history of the Hambletonian stake, Mary Reynolds won the classic of the light harness turf this afternoon, taking the final heat by three lengths.

In addition to the silver trophy presented by P. H. Mitchell of Middletown, N. Y., she won for her owner, W. N. Reynolds of Winston-Salem, N. C., the sum of $28,323 in cash. Ben White drove the filly in a thrilling race, contested by twelve 3 year old trotters, the second largest field that has run for the stake.

30,000 Fans Cheer.

The 30,000 spectators were on their feet when the horses paraded for the third and deciding heat. Mary Reynolds had won the first heat by two and a half lengths and her price had shortened to 3 to 10 in the handbooks.

Brown Berry, the bay colt by Peter Volo out of Royal Belle and owned by J. I. and E. T. Lyle of Plainfield, N. J., and the second choice in the betting, then came through to win the second heat by a head from Mary Reynolds. Mary Reynolds hurt her chances by going into a break on the back stretch. Ben White, however, did not give up the heat and brought the filly down and got her going again with a brilliant burst. She moved up to challenge Brown Berry and just failed to gain the decision and the race in straight heats.

Brown Berry Draws Bets.

As Steve Phillips sent them away in what proved to be the final mile, Brown Berry flashed out in front as they rounded the first turn.

Well in their stride, Hollyrood Portia was in the contending position, with Ben White holding Mary Reynolds in third place. Thus they flashed down the backstretch.

Brown Berry, on the pole, drew into the lead, Mary Reynolds, out near the middle of the track, responding to Ben White's urging. Then, just at the moment when Brown Berry seemed a sure winner, he stumbled and dropped to his knees. Egan, losing his balance, almost fell out of his sulky and the reins slipped from his grasp.

It was all over in a flash. Brown Berry regained his feet and his stride. Egan, leaning over, gathered up the reins and had the colt in his stride

HAD TO HAPPEN: WESTROPE WINS ONE, LOSES FIVE

Jockey's Supporters Moan at Hawthorne.

BY FRENCH LANE.

There was a panic among the backers of Jockey Jack Westrope's mounts at the Hawthorne race course yesterday afternoon.

The kid from Iowa, after riding nine winners in two days and who had all the racegoers in the country backing him, hit a snag, was off form or was in the saddle on bad horses.

He climbed into the pilot house on six horses. Only once was he able to reach the winning post and that effort came so late in the afternoon—in the sixth race on Our Justice—that most of the Westrope backers were broke before he gained his success.

There are two great examples.

Sande Did It, Too.

Once when Earl Sande was sweeping everything before him and all the race players in America were backing his mounts, he went ten days without a winner.

Then, further back in history, another striking example is found in the record of Fred Archer, greatest of all English race riders.

Through a lifetime of the most sensational riding in English turf history Archer won one out of every three races in which he wore silks. Yet there was one period in his career during which he was off form so badly he wasn't abe to get a winner home over a stretch of 30 days.

Just a Bad, Bad Day.

Westrope wasn't even close with most of his mounts. He was fourth on Wind Song in the first race and was far back on Just Buck in the second. He didn't ride in the third and in the fourth he couldn't make Gallop Along get up a good gallop He was far out of it in this one.

He rode Baby Stare in the Silver Lake purse and was cut off badly rounding the turn. He had to take up and come again on the outside and finished third, but had lost so much ground he didn't have a chance to win.

Next came his winning effort on Our Justice and he showed his real dash and ability to escape interference and save ground to win going away from Crap Shooter and Surety.

Jockey Kacala, from the Audley farm stable, and almost as young as Westrope, was the star of the day, riding Merry Chatter, Don Tasker and Lucky Carter to victory.

Don Manuel Carries On.

During the panic which followed Westrope's early failures little Jack Howard, the Kentucky plunger, came up with a powerful candidate for the Hawthorne Juvenile stake—a $5,000 race—to be run Saturday.

His ace for the stake will be Don Manuel, a son of Bostonian-Southern Queen, which has been improving ever since he started running in Chicago early in the season.

Ten times Don Manuel has paraded to the post and in six of those efforts he has been first past the winning post. He dashed home in front yesterday in the Silver Lake purse, which was a warmup for the Juvenile handicap, engaging six eligibles to the race.

Pennoote, which was second, also is a consistent performer. This daughter of Pennant-Cherry Cote has made 13 starts during her brief racing career. She never has been out of the money but seems to be one of that kind of horses which find it impossible to win.

Mata Hari Is Reported Fit for Handicap

When she reeled off five furlongs in 1:00⅘ yesterday morning, Mata Hari showed Trainer Clyde Van Dusen that she will be in excellent condition for the Hawthorne juvenile handicap to be run on Saturday.

Van Dusen has not indicated whether he will start Mata Hari or Far Star in the $5,000 2 year old battle. Mata Hari has outworked her fleet stablemate.

There apparently are a lot of folks at Hawthorne every afternoon who know how to pick the daily double. Monk's Bela won the second race yesterday and Merry Chatter the third. Both were stoutly backed favorites and the double paid but $10.34.

The Paramount stable's Lady Higloss worked brilliantly for the Hawthorne juvenile handicap yesterday when she galloped six furlongs in 1:15 2-5. She was hard held all through the last furlong. After scoring five straight victories Lady Higloss will have many backers in Saturday's stake race.

Wise Daughter, which conquered all the leading 2 year olds in the east last week in the Saratoga sales stakes and the Saratoga Special, probably will not start again until the Maryland season opens. Her next stake engagements will be in the Eastern Shore handicap to be run at Havre de Grace, her owner, Fred A. Burton of Chicago, indicated yesterday.

Wise Daughter isn't eligible for the Belmont Futurity and there is talk of matching her with the winner of the Futurity in a race to be run in Chicago or New York later in the season. Owner Burton would not discuss such a match race yesterday, but said that in his opinion Wise Daughter is the best two year old in the country.

The trophy for the $25,000 added Hawthorne Gold Cup to be run one week from today has been delivered at the west side track and is on display in the judges' stand. Because the Hawthorne Gold Cup is now the ranking weight for age race in the country, the trophy is a much coveted article among horsemen. This year's trophy will follow the modernistic ideas carried out at A Century of Progress. The trophy is of gold with white onyx trimming.

DON MANUEL crossed over sharply after setting to the front in opening eighth, was headed for a few strides by CLOUD D'OR on the stretch turn, and rallied to withstand PENNCOTE when nearing the final eighth, but, holding on stubbornly, outgamed PENNCOTE in closing fifty yards. Latter, in close quarters early, worked her way to the front in the stretch and, bearing out in final eighth, was outfinished. BABY STARE went evenly.

DON TASKER, well handled and saving much ground the first three-quarters, came around ROYAL GUINEA slowly and, drawing out, was safe from LAHOR. The latter, unable to keep up, saved ground on the second turn and closed well after coming out for the final quarter. OATEN, well ridden and in hand for five-eighths, went evenly in the drive.

LUCKY CARTER, scoring in his best form, followed the early pace under strong restraint, took command easily and, much the best, came away fast when lightly shaken up in the final eighth. GARRICK, a strong factor from the start, saved ground much of the trip and weakened after making a mild bid. ROWDY BOY raced very wide the first seven-eighths, went to the inside in the stretch and, despite poor handling, closed well.

Sturdy Takes Trophy.

The 2 year old trotters put up a great race in the Good Time stake, the second heat being trotted in 2:04¾, the season's record for 2 year old trotters.

The trophy presented by Henry H. Knight of Chicago and the major part of the $2,000 stake went to the bay colt Sturdy, owned by J. C. Thompson of New York City. The son of Guy Axworthy and the great Miss Morris had the race all his own way, stepping to the front in both heats and never being seriously threatened. Harry Brusie had him well in hand in the stretch drive in the first heat to win by a quarter length from W. F. Caton's bay colt Vitamine, owner up.

In the second heat Brusie let Sturdy step along from the word to hang up the season's mark. The youngsters put up a great race, with Vitamine again taking the place and Emily Stokes finishing third.

Logan Wins Geers Stake.

Thrills abounded throughout the afternoon and they began in the opening number. This was the Geers stake, named for the grand old man of the trotting turf. It was for 3 year old pacers for a $1,500 purse and the eventual winner paced the mile of the second heat in 2:01¼, the fastest heat of the year by a 3 year old pacer, and went the third heat in 2:01¾.

SHAFER FILES HIS ENTRY FOR ELGIN ROAD RACE

Officials of the 305 mile Elgin road race, which will be held Aug. 26 over the eight mile Elgin country road course, announced the entry yesterday of Phil [Red] Shafer.

Shafer is a veteran Indianapolis Speedway performer. In the last two years he has divided his time between American tracks and the international road racing events in southern Europe.

Entries close Saturday. Many drivers, who will file their entries by the end of the week, have been making trial spins over the course this week. Wesley [Wild Bill] Elliot, an Indianapolis Speedway contender and dirt track champion, flew to Chicago from Salt Lake City yesterday to have a look at the course and decide upon his entry.

Dave Evans and Louis Moore, veteran speedway headliners, made a half dozen trial runs yesterday. Russel Snowberger and William [Shorty] Cantlon are expected to arrive today. Official trials will be held next Thursday.

MOON MULLINS—GETTING TO THE FOOT OF THE TROUBLE

Browns Beat Yanks; Gehrig Equals Record

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 16.—(AP)—While Lou Gehrig was tying the major league record by playing his 1,307th consecutive game for the New York Yankees today, the Yanks took a beating from the Browns. The final score was 13 to 3 and the defeat, coupled with Washington's victory over Chicago, sent the Yanks down 6½ games behind the league leaders.

The Yankees had all kinds of trouble with the pitching of their former teammate, Ed Wells, while Charley Devens, who made his first start, was routed in the third inning when the Browns made seven runs. Devens, Danny MacFayden, and George Uhle yielded 18 hits.

Started with Yanks in 1925.

Gehrig, who started playing first base for the New York Yankees as an ambitious young rookie in 1925, today equaled the mark set by Everett [Deacon] Scott, who started with the Boston Red Sox in 1916 and continued with that club and with the Yankees until he was benched in 1925.

Gehrig began in June of the year Scott's string ended and hasn't missed a scheduled game in seven full seasons since then, usually playing more than the allotted 154 games. Today's game was his 109th this year. He led the Yanks at the plate yesterday and again today, getting two of their seven hits.

Confident He'll Break Record.

Having played in spite of such handicaps as sprained ankles and injured fingers to tie the record, Gehrig is confident that he will break the mark tomorrow and go on to make it 1,352 at the end of the season.

Oral Hildebrand and Merritt [Sugar] Cain opposed each other on the mound at the start, but Hildebrand gave way to a pinch hitter in the sixth and Harder finished, getting credit for the victory.

drive off the left field fence for the second out. A moment later Billy Herman raced back into right field and made an over the shoulder catch of a low fly by Lee. Cuyler stole a hit from Maranville in the third by charging almost into center field for a drive that seemed headed for extra bases. This sort of stuff is what made Tinning's first three innings devoid of hits.

Jordan Gets First Hit.

The first hit off Tinning was produced by Jordan, who singled to left to open the fourth. Berger and Moore didn't help the cause. Whitney led off in the fifth with a single through short. A double play ended this threat. Jordan opened the seventh with a single, and again Tinning squirmed through before the runner reached second base.

The Braves turned in some brilliant fielding to keep the Cubs in check in the fifth and sixth but in the seventh the Chicagoans stirred up some excitement by filling the bases. Jurges singled to center with two out. Tinning looped a single over short. English walked on a ball that made the Braves express suspicions about Umpire Rigler's eyesight. Then Billy Herman sounded taps by grounding to Urbanski.

Whitney Commits Robbery.

The Cubs couldn't be blamed entirely for not getting a dividend on a hit by Cuyler in the eighth. The Braves prevented it by their fielding. Cuyler led off with a single to left and Babe Herman sacrificed. Cuyler tore for third on a pitch that Demaree whacked toward the hot corner. Whitney speared the ball, swung around to tag Cuyler coming into the bag, and then whipped the ball to first to double Demaree. Then the Braves put in their knockout punch.

Cubs Hear a Few Words on Their String of Defeats

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Aug. 16.—The Cubs didn't engage in any of their usual frivolities this morning on the front porch of their hostelry. There was a decided funereal tone, and not without reason. The boys had been notified to appear at a secret skull practice starting at 11:15 a. m. This session lasted better than half an hour, and when the athletes emerged they were as sober as undertakers. It was whispered about that President William Veeck delivered quite a talk.

Among the 6,000 present at today's game were officers and sailors from the British cruiser H. M. S. Dana E., which is visiting Boston harbor. They walked out as soon as the Braves completed the riot in the eighth inning.

The Cubs close their affairs here tomorrow and it will be up to Charley Root or Pat Malone to make the day a success. Huck Betts, who was expected to appear today, will start for the Braves. He was excused from this afternoon's game because Manager McKenchie figured the Frankhouse jinx would be effective.

East Defeats West in Polo Match, 12-8

Then Roark made a long shot from midfield which rolled toward the Eastern goal. In a mad race for the ball, Williams got there first and slammed home another point for the West, making it 4 to 3.

As the third chukker began, Hitchcock shot toward the goal from 100 yards out and Hopping followed in for the scoring shot.

Then Roark took the ball near midfield and dribbled toward the Eastern goal. Hitchcock raced in to stop him, but Williams rode him off, leaving Roark an open path to the posts. Roark's shot was good and the score was East, 5; West, 4.

Smith Ties Score.

From the 60 yard mark Smith hammered home the tying point after a foul by Hitchcock, but again the East took the lead as Raymond Guest stole the ball and found a clear path to the goal, making the score 6 to 5. Then Hopping tapped in a goal after Hitchcock's free shot had been blocked, giving the East a two point lead.

Boeseke followed Roark's long shot and scored, leaving the East in the lead, 7 to 6, as the first half of the game ended.

Scores on 125 Yard Shot.

Hopping's shot of 125 yards rolled through the goal, making the score 8 to 6. It was the longest scoring stroke of the series. Then Roark slammed one through at high speed to bring the count to 8 to 7.

Hitchcock galloped across in front of the goal for a scoring shot, making it 9 to 7. Hopping dribbled the ball for 100 yards. Forty yards from the goal Williams backed it, but it struck Hopping's pony. Winston Guest, following up, hammered the ball between the posts, giving the East a three point lead as the sixth chukker ended.

At a full gallop Hopping shot one under the neck of his pony. From a sharp angle it rolled to the goal, giving the East and 11-7 advantage.

Neil McCarthy went in at No. 1 to replace Williams, who was injured at this point of the game, and Roark took Williams' place at back for the Western team.

Winston Guest tapped in a short one which had caromed off the goal posts, making it 12 to 7 for the east. Roark dribbled half the length of the field, keeping the ball just out of reach of Hitchcock's mallet. Just in front of the goal he lost it, but Boeseke followed in to score, making the final count 12 to 8.

QUIZ TWO WOMEN ABOUT SHOOTING OF DR. GAINES

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Two women were brought into the investigation today of the slaying of Dr. James I. Gaines, wealthy sportsman and drugless practitioner.

One, a pretty young brunette separated from her husband, was taken into custody as a material witness. The doctor visited her at her apartment Monday night after returning from a boating trip on Lake Coeur d'Alene in Idaho, a detective said she told him.

The other woman, the same detective said, accompanied Gaines on the boating trip.

Dr. Gaines was shot three times as he stepped from his automobile in the driveway at his home about 1:30 a. m. Tuesday. His wife, Lily Gaines, who was awakened by the shots, found him dying.

Neighbors said they heard a woman's voice during the shooting, and then saw a man run to a car that had been parked in front of the Gaines' home and speed away without turning on the headlights.

Police Force at Funeral; Its Two Prisoners Escape

Left alone in the Hillside village jail while the entire personnel of the police department attended a funeral, two prisoners, Robert Goyle, 24 years old, and Robert Huston, 26, yesterday picked their cell locks and escaped. Shortly before their departure, the young men had been held to the grand jury in bonds of $2,000 each after pleading guilty to the theft of a quantity of copper wire from the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroad. The police force was attending the funeral of John McCabe, a state highway policeman killed in a motor accident last Saturday.

ECONOMIST FINDS HE CAN'T SHOOT MAN FOR ROBBERY

ORILLIA, Ont., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Prof. Stephen Leacock of McGill university, Montreal, annoyed by the loss of poultry from his Brewery Bay home, hinted that the next intruder would be met with a charge of birdshot.

Whether this procedure would be legal the political economist and humorist doubted, so he wrote a letter to Premier George Henry and another to the Ontario attorney general's department.

If a person broke into his property to steal was he or his agent entitled to fire upon them, he asked, "or must I first challenge the person, and ask him if he has a revolver and how many others are with him, and would he care for a wrestle on the grass?"

The response from Toronto was immediate, but unofficial.

"Even a professor of political economy should know it is illegal to shoot a man merely because he is a thief," an official said. "His only legal course is to attempt to hold the man and call the police."

The officials were inclined to believe the professor wrote in his capacity as a humorist.

THREE AUTOISTS KILLED AT GARY TRAIN CROSSING

Three men were killed last night when their automobile was struck by a Nickel Plate passenger train on the New York Central tracks at 41st avenue and Georgia street in Gary. The victims were Matthew Tunkovich, 46 years old, 1716 Massachusetts street, Gary; his son, Matthew Jr., 21 years old, both mill workers, and Robert Cuga, 38 years old, 749 Maryland street, Gary.

The automobile was carried eight blocks on the pilot of the locomotive. The police were told that the men apparently had failed to see the train. The crossing is protected by flashing lights. The Tunkoviches and Cuga, a friend, were returning from the country, where they had purchased a pig, also killed in the crash, which was to have been cooked for a birthday party for the elder Tunkovich's daughter today.

Mrs. Emily Holmes, 84 years old, 718 North Taylor avenue, was seriously injured last night when the car in which she was riding and another collided a mile southwest of Mundelein in route 59A. Her granddaughter, Emily Dunbar, who was driving, was only slightly hurt. Thrall Hershberger, 24 years old, of Grays Lake, driver of the second car, was arrested and charged with driving while intoxicated.

Mrs. Mary Strnad, 34 years old, 5422 West 24th street, Cicero, died last night in the Frances Willard hospital of injuries suffered Aug. 6 when the automobile in which she was riding was struck by a car driven by Theodore Mijurt, 2458 South Whipple street.

FOOD INSPECTION CALLED JOB FOR VETERINARIANS

Dr. W. G. Hollingworth of Utica, N. Y., yesterday urged members of the veterinary profession to enter the field of food inspection. His remarks were made at the convention of the American Veterinary Medical association in the Palmer house.

Many inspectors' positions, particularly in the packing industry, are occupied by men without training as veterinarians, he said. It was his opinion that members of the profession could do better work.

Two other speakers discussed the treatments of animals in zoos. Dr. J. A. Campbell of Toronto, Ont., said that monkeys were difficult to treat because they refused to accept medicine. He also exploded the general idea that elephants live hundreds of years. Instead, he declared, the pachyderms never live to more than 50 years in this country and 100 years in India.

Two pioneer veterinarians in the United States department of agriculture were presented last night with medals in recognition of their work against Texas fever, a disease of cattle. They are Dr. Cooper Curtice of Fairfax, Va., and Dr. Fred L. Milborne of Kelloggsville, N. H.

GRAINS DECLINE DAY'S LIMIT AS "PEGGING" ENDS

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Removal of "pegged" prices at which the grain markets had stood for three consecutive days resulted in general selling yesterday. Wheat, rye, and barley declined 5 cents from the finish of the previous day, while corn dropped 4 cents and oats 3 cents, all being off the maximum amounts permitted for one day's trading under the exchange regulations regarding fluctuations.

Directors of the Chicago Board of Trade held a special session yesterday afternoon, but no statement was issued. It was understood that general conditions were discussed.

Coincident with the decline a rumor developed to the effect that determined efforts were being made to form a big pool to support American grain markets. While confirmation was lacking up to the time the market closed, leading interests were inclined to regard such a proposal with disfavor.

Grains Drop Despite Damage.

The effect of the decline in grains lately is said to have had far reaching effect, and the sharp lowering in prices has been in the face of what is regarded by the trade as a very bullish fundamental situation, owing to the tremendous damage to the crops.

December wheat in Chicago, as the result of yesterday's decline to 90¾ cents, where it closed, was the lowest since June 26. The market was then starting its spectacular upturn, which culminated July 18, when sales were made at $1.24.

By July 20 the price had receded to 93¾ cents. A rally to $1.10⅞ followed when trading was resumed July 24 following a two day holiday on the exchange, but the upward movement was followed by another wave of selling, which carried the price down to 95¾ cents. The market was pegged at that figure from July 31 until the close last Tuesday.

Corn Also Drops Sharply.

Gyrations in corn have been only slightly less than in wheat. The December delivery closed at 50⅜ cents yesterday, a drop of 23⅝ cents from July 18, when the highest level of the season was established, and comparing with a low of 55¾ cents reached on the break on July 20. December oats closed at 37⅛ cents, off 15⅝ cents from the outside figure of the year.

Considerable more business was transacted in grain futures yesterday than was indicated by the fact that prices were quoted at one figure throughout the day. A Milwaukee elevator fire, which destroyed or damaged around 1,500,000 bushels of various grains, resulted in hedges being removed here during the day. There was also buying of September wheat, corn, and oats by cash interests, who were changing over hedges into the distant futures, and also scattered buying by commission houses.

Prices Fail to Rally.

However, the buying was not sufficient to absorb all of the grain offered at the minimum levels, and at no time was there a rally of even ⅛ cent. Brokers indicated that in the aggregate there was less grain for sale than the action of the market indicated.

Tuesday's decline in grain was characterized as largely a case of mob psychology, and trade leaders expressed the belief that the selling movement would quickly run its course once the general public again turned its attention from what was characterized by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace as a technical position.

Winnipeg wheat was 1⅜ to 1⅞ cents lower at the close, with December quoted at 71⅝ cents, the "pegged" price. Oats dropped ⅞ cents; rye, 1⅝ to 2⅛ cents, and barley, ⅜ cent.

Visitors were barred from the gallery of the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday. No explanation was forthcoming other than that there was nothing to see, presumably referring to the light trade.

ARGENTINE WHEAT STRONG.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Aug. 16.—Contrasting with today's fall in the wheat quotations in Chicago and Liverpool the Buenos Aires Grain exchange, which at present is the main "free market" in the Americas, registered a rise of approximately 1 cent a bushel. The firmness was attributed to a long spell of dry weather in the wheat belt. Weather predictions are that the drought will continue. The market closed with an easier tendency.

W. L. Joyce Threatened with Loss of License

An order directed at Walter L. Joyce & Co., 39 South La Salle street, to "show cause" why its brokerage license should not be revoked was issued yesterday, according to the office of the secretary of state. Joyce could not be reached yesterday. The telephone company stated that the firm's telephone had been disconnected.

Wallace Deaf to Pleas U. S. Set Prices

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Messages urging quick government action to "peg" grain prices piled up at the department of agriculture today, but Secretary Wallace and farm administrators indicated they intend to disregard them and leave marketing regulations entirely to the grain exchanges for the present.

Chairman Smith [Dem., S. C.] of the senate agriculture committee called on Wallace and told newspaper men afterwards that "the country needs some inflation right now if the farmers are going to get the benefit of better prices, now that they have something to sell."

He said he is going to appeal to President Roosevelt, and that if no inflationary steps are taken he "would like to see Wallace act to stabilize prices of both grain and cotton."

Protests Pile Up.

A new stack of telegrams arrived after wheat and other grains traded in at the Chicago Board of Trade fell the full amount of the price fluctuation limits now in effect, following removal of minimum price restrictions based on July 30 closing prices.

Wallace spent a large part of his day discussing farm prices with aides, including George N. Peek, chief administrator. Neither would reveal whether they have determined on a policy respecting grain marketings for the future, nor whether they have been asked by any exchange representatives to approve of new "pegs."

A prospect arose that processing taxes on wheat, now 30 cents a bushel, would be increased in the event market prices continue their descent. Wallace has authority under the act to levy a tax equal to the difference between average prices to farmers and the "parity" price based on pre-war average farm prices.

Fixed on Mid-June Price.

The difference was approximately 30 cents when the order putting the tax into effect July 9 was issued in mid-June. When wheat prices increased the margin of difference was reduced, but the tax rate continued without change. A continuation of the downward trend in prices would make possible an increase in the rate.

Funds raised by increasing the levy could be used for two purposes:

1. To increase the amount of benefit payments to farmers who join in the voluntary domestic allotment plan to reduce their acreage for harvest in 1934 and 1935.

2. To finance wheat marketing abroad through the program of "subsidized exportation," which Wallace said yesterday he is prepared to put into effect is efforts to obtain an international wheat acreage curtailment agreement do not succeed.

Up to Grain Exchanges.

It was reported that Peek favors leaving the matter of determining whether new minimums should be established entirely to the exchanges, whose representatives he recently urged to present a code "to clean their house."

He added then that if their code did not propose "adequate reforms" of grain marketing the "government would step in," and also warned that "if more stable prices are not provided the farmer congress may take extreme action."

A proposed code later presented by exchange representatives failed to meet Peek's full approval and he is now awaiting presentation of amendments to it before calling a public hearing to consider it.

HEAVY DEMAND CUTS GASOLINE STORAGE STOCKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 16.—Heavy midsummer consumption of gasoline is indicated by statistics of the American Petroleum institute, showing a drop of 1,300,000 barrels in domestic stocks of gasoline during the week ended Aug. 12. That authority estimates the total supply in the country on that date as 51,167,000 barrels, against 52,467,000 on Aug. 5.

Refineries curtailed their activities slightly last week, operating at 70.7 per cent of capacity, compared with 72.0 per cent the previous week, and runs of crude oil to refineries averaged 2,239,000 barrels, compared with 2,382,000 barrels the previous week.

The institute estimates daily average production of crude oil last week at 2,789,600 barrels, against 2,679,200 barrels the previous week and 2,144,000 barrels a year ago.

The company has no preferred stock, funded indebtedness, or bank loans, the statement said.

Corn-Hog Plan Ruins Market, Say Experts

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Experts at the stockyards say that the hog trade has been thrown into disorder by the various proposals for processing tax, pig bonuses and sow killing.

Normally this is a season of advancing prices, but quotations lately have been going down fast. Yesterday the average was $3.90 per hundred pounds, a drop of 5 cents for the day. A month ago hogs were selling at an average of $4.55 and at the peak on May 20 the price was $5.05.

Everybody at the yards, therefore, as well as the producers who ship in hogs, is awaiting with much anxiety the announcement that Secretary Henry A. Wallace is to make here tomorrow regarding the plan for boosting corn and hog prices.

The plan in its present stage is this:

Piggy sows weighing 275 pounds or more are to be bought by the packers at the market price. The grower is to get a flat $4 per head, the packer merely a fee from the department of agriculture for the slaughtering service. All the meat except the sides is to be tanked for use in inedible oils. The side meat is to be branded with the letter "A" and set aside for whatever use the agricultural adjustment administration decides upon later.

Young pigs weighing from 25 to 100 pounds are likewise to be slaughtered, an arbitrary high price to be paid the grower in order to encourage him to send in his piglets. The price varies from $9.50 per hundred pounds for the smallest pigs to $6 for those weighing 96 to 100 pounds.

All such pigs weighing less than 80 pounds are to be tanked. The carcasses of the 80 to 100 pound pigs are to be branded "A" and shelved for future disposition by the AAA.

It is estimated that this plan will bring in 4 million small pigs and 1 million sows, thereby cutting down the farm surplus of hogs. Total number of hogs on farms has been estimated at 60 millions.

All this is in addition to any processing tax that may be put on hogs for the benefit of the corn farmers. How the processing tax scheme will be applied has not yet been decided. It is not expected to go into effect before Oct. 1.

What the hog men at the stockyards cannot understand is why millions of pigs foredoomed to tankage should be hauled around the country on railroad trains, jammed through the terminal yards and made to clutter up the packing plants and warehouses. They suggest that the prescribed hogs be knocked on the head and buried down under the willows on the south forty.

Those who favor the pig killing plan reply that doing the job at home might cause "unfavorable public reaction."

The trade predicts that although the little pigs will go to market the big pigs will stay at home to produce more little pigs to collect the bonus. Rather than sell an old sow for $4, say the hog experts, the farmer will save her to mother other $50 broods of bonus pigs.

Whether the predictions of the experts at the yards materialize or not the plan has had a decidedly bearish effect on the market for hogs.

"The market is deader'n a doornail," says one old timer. "There's the same kind of uncertaintly here that they're having in the grain market. The public is uneasy and the trade is full of fear of threatening price manipulation. That doesn't make for good prices."

Bethlehem Steel Suspends Operations of Coal Mines

Charleroi, Pa., Aug. 16.—(AP)—The Bethlehem Mines corporation suspended operations in its Bentleyville, Ellsworth, and Marianna mines today, forcing 2,000 men into idleness. Notices posted at the pits say that during the recent strike the corporation and its parent concern, the Bethlehem Steel corporation, were forced to sign a four months' contract for coal with other operators.

Checker Cab Mfg. Reports Less Loss than Last Year

New York, Aug. 16.—(AP)—The Checker Cab Manufacturing corporation reports a net loss of $74,583 for the quarter ended June 30, against net loss of $173,654 for the same period last year. For the six months ended June 30 the company had a net loss of $151,857, compared with net loss of $360,081 for the like 1932 period.

E. L. CORD DENIES BUYING STOCK OF K. C. SOUTHERN

Shares Sold Recently by Great Western.

E. L. Cord yesterday authorized a denial of reports that he had acquired through the Cord corporation a block of 104,500 shares of stock in the Kansas City Southern railway. The stock was sold last month by the Chicago Great Western railway and its subsidiary, the Mason City and Fort Dodge, to an unidentified purchaser.

The Great Western had acquired the stock which amounted to about 20 per cent of the outstanding shares from the Alleghany corporation, Van Sweringen holding company, late in 1931. The stock was the subject of considerable litigation and the Chicago Great Western won a suit which sought to enjoin the voting of the stock at the annual meeting. Despite the outcome of the suit the stock was not voted.

The report of Cord's purchase was first credited in financial circles because of the known plan of the Cord interests to acquire further properties in the transportation field. An associate of Cord said yesterday that the group was prepared to make further investments in transportation properties which promised a profitable future.

Cord's latest acquisition was the Checker Cab Manufacturing company which he took over earlier this week.

PENNSYLVANIA FREIGHT SHOWS GAIN LAST WEEK

The Pennsylvania railroad reported yesterday that its carloadings for the week ended Aug. 12 showed an increase over the preceding week. Loadings in the week of Aug. 12 were 100,087, compared with 99,993 in the preceding week, and with 73,777 in the like week of 1932. The gain over 1932 was 35.7 per cent.

New York Central loadings totaled 100,439 cars, compared with 104,759 in the preceding week, and with 75,903 in the parallel week of 1932. The gain over last year was 32.3 per cent.

Carloading reports of southwestern carriers for the week ended Aug. 12 showed some slackening in business, compared with the first week in August. Missouri Pacific loadings totaled 19,933 cars, against 20,188 in the previous week and 18,115 a year ago. Missouri-Kansas-Texas moved 6,335 cars, 12 less than the previous week. A year ago loadings were 6,476.

U. OF C. TO GIVE NEW COURSE ON RECOVERY PLANS

The University of Chicago school of business will offer a course this fall dealing with the workings of the national recovery act and other depression relief legislation, Dean W. H. Spencer said yesterday.

The course will contain "explanation and constructive criticism of the recovery program," Dean Spencer said. The University of Chicago was the first to inaugurate such a course. The new federal securities act will be dealt with in the courses on the problems of business finance and future of security values. The problems of labor-management relations under the new deal will be included in the present course on personnel management.

A.T.&T. Votes to Pay Usual $2.25 a Share

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 16.—After reviewing the improvement in their business in recent months, the directors of the American Telephone and Telegraph company today voted to maintain the dividend rate that has been in force since 1922.

Their declaration of the quarterly dividend of $2.25 a share means that the 710,000 stockholders will receive on Oct. 16 approximately $42,100,000, less the new NRA tax of 5 per cent to be paid by all stockholders of domestic corporations.

First Decrease in Payment.

Deducting the tax, this will be the first time that the aggregate of investment funds spread over the country by American Telephone for the quarterly dividend has been less than in any preceding quarter.

If all stockholders were subject to the tax the government would receive approximately $2,115,000. American Telephone stock, however, is held in large amounts by many domestic corporations, and these will receive their full $2.25 a share. Even allowing for the exemption of domestic corporations receiving this dividend, it will represent the largest contribution to the treasury under the new tax.

Although the last dividend by American Telephone was paid approximately a month after the effective date of the tax, the stockholders suffered no deduction from their July 15 checks, for the reason that the dividend was declared before the effective date.

Change of Record Date.

To allow for the additional clerical work involved in deducting the 5 per cent federal tax from the next dividend check, the directors set Sept. 15 as the stock of record date. Usually the record date is the twentieth day of the month preceding the dividend payment.

The dividend was not earned as for the six months ended June 30 net earnings of the company itself were equal to $3.54 a share, compared with $4.03 a share in the first half of 1932. The Bell system as a whole earned only $2.30 a share on American Telephone stock. On the same basis the company earned $5.96 a share in the full year 1932.

The company itself, on June 30, last, had cash and temporary investments of more than $170,000,000.

T. G. M'CRACKEN JOINS RETAILERS' MUTUAL CONCERN

Announcement was made yesterday that, effective Sept. 1, Thomas G. McCracken will become vice president and underwriting manager of the National Retailers Mutual Insurance company of Chicago, one of the Kemper group of companies.

Mr. McCracken for the last twenty years has been vice president and general manager of the Retail Hardware Mutual of Minneapolis. He is resigning from the Minneapolis company which was organized by his father in 1901.

Mr. McCracken is president of the Federation of Mutual Fire Insurance companies and vice president of the National Association of Mutual Insurance companies.

Huge La Salle St. Station Train Shed Will Be Rebuilt

BY AL CHASE.

One of the largest downtown construction jobs contemplated for many months will be the complete rebuilding of the La Salle street station's train shed at a cost of more than a quarter of a million dollars. According to I. L. Simmons, bridge engineer for the Rock Island lines, it is hoped to have the improvements at the joint terminal of the New York Central and Rock Island completed about Dec. 20.

A series of the modern type of umbrella sheds will be erected over the platforms serving the eleven tracks entering the La Salle street station. Not until these are completed will the wreckers start tearing down the huge old fashioned, eighty foot high and 600 foot long train shed. Only the present side walls of the big structure will be used in connection with the new type of umbrella sheds.

Trains Outgrow Building.

When erected in 1902 a train shed 600 feet long was considered of magnificent proportions and more than long enough for the trains of three decades ago. In 1933, however, with locomotives 100 feet long and cars averaging eighty feet in length, a six car train would extend out in the open, as part of the present train shed is over the passenger concourse.

But a sixteen car train is nothing unusual today, so that a 600 foot train shed wouldn't cover even half of a 1,380 foot train. To remedy this, umbrella sheds were built several years ago south of the present one arch train shed of 1902. The new sheds will be of similar type.

Start Work Soon.

Bids are now being taken on the new project and it is expected to get under way shortly. W. H. Peterson, chief engineer of the Rock Island, and R. O. Rote, chief engineer of the New York Central, are in charge of operations; with Mr. Simmons, bridge engineer of the Rock Island, and B. R. Lefler, bridge engineer of the New York Central, directly supervising the project.

BEARISH NEWS, GRAINS' DROP JOLT STOCKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 16.—Reverberations from Chicago's demoralized grain market jolted stock exchange prices down all along the line today. Trading picked up considerably, the turnover figures mounting to their highest point in a week, but the activity was largely confined to professional circles.

In addition to the depressing influence of tumbling wheat prices, the market was called upon to weather an overnight budget of unfavorable news bearing on the all-important steel industry, including further difficulties in setting a code and a further sharp drop in operations. Acute weakness in the cotton market was a further stimulant to the selling side.

Rail, Liquor Issues Up.

Railroad, liquor issues, and specialties were the hardest hit by the day's reaction. Losses in these three groups ranged as high as 5 or 6 points.

Mild rallying tendencies in the last hour served to lift most prices somewhat above their lows of the day.

Homestake Mining was down about ten points at one time on news of further recovery of the dollar, but recovered about half its lost ground on a few late sales. Other gold mining stocks followed the leader.

Removal of the "peg" on wheat and the prompt dropping of the price to the permitted limit hit the farm stocks in the midriff, Case sliding down more than four points before it met with any sort of support. Deere, International Harvester, and others were under the hammer all day. Ingersoll-Rand dropped 4 points.

A. T. & T. Sells Lower.

Declaration of its regular dividend was no help to American Telephone, which sold for a good part of the session around 4 points less than its final price of yesterday and closed at 124, off 2 on the day. Other utilities had a generally woebegone appearance. American Waterworks sold off nearly 5 points and Peoples Gas about 3.

In addition to sharing in the common misery, United Corporation ran into considerable selling on uneasiness regarding the action of its board on the corporation's preferred and common dividends tomorrow.

Steel shares were rather active at times, with United States Steel common as a favorite selling target. The old leader sold down nearly 3 points, but recovered about a third of its early loss.

In the automobile sector Chrysler took a beating and dropped about two points, recovering one of them later. General Motors, Nash, Mack Truck, and others found the going heavy.

U. S. WILL SPEED UP PAYMENTS TO COTTON RAISERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—Speeding up its program for the reduction of the cotton crop of about 4,000,000 bales, the agricultural adjustment administration announced today that checks to cotton producers who have signed acreage reduction contracts would be distributed in the south as rapidly as the required certificates of performance were received.

It is expected that in excess of 10,000,000 acres will be plowed under. The deadline was set for next Wednesday. By the decisions announced yesterday, all but $10,000,000 of the benefits, aggregating more than $100,000,000, may be paid out immediately.

It was stated that of approximately 1,031,000 offers received about 870,000 individual notices of acceptances have been approved and sent out. By Saturday noon, it was said, all offers which have been received will have been acted upon and individual acceptances by the adjustment administration will have been forwarded to producers. C. A. Cobb, chief of cotton production, urged that destruction of accepted cotton acreage proceed without further delay.

FRANCE PLEADS ERROR IN BOOST ON U. S. GOODS

PARIS, Aug. 16.—(AP)—The latest boost in tariffs on American products, imposed by what was described officially as an "error," was rescinded today. This followed representations made by the American embassy.

The on again, off again tariff rate changes of the last few weeks were attributed to an erroneous interpretation of the tariff law, each case being rectified by the ministry of commerce.

Roads to Offer Tickets for Short Working Month

Two railroads yesterday announced new monthly suburban tickets for the use of persons working on reduced schedules as a result of the NRA adjustments. The Burlington will offer Sept. 1 a 46 ride monthly ticket at 12 per cent less than the present 60 ride monthly ticket. The Chicago and North Western will offer a new 54 ride ticket at a price 10 per cent below the present 60 ride ticket.

Steel Output Drops as Code Raises Doubt

The steel business is slackening with the development of codification difficulties and the seasonal decrease in consumption on the part of some industries.

The national average of steel ingot production has fallen sharply to 53 per cent from 57 a week ago, according to the Iron Age. At Chicago production has receded from 53 to 47 per cent, at Pittsburgh from 49 to 45, at Buffalo from 57 to 51, in the Cleveland-Lorain district from 67 to 65, in eastern Pennsylvania from 46 to 45, in the Wheeling district from 85 to 80, and in the south from 75 to 54.

While the Iron Age finished steel and pig iron composites are unchanged, scrap prices have given ground at Chicago and the composite has declined from $12.25 to $12.08 per ton, the first recession since May.

Face Recovery Problems.

Both sellers and consumers of iron and steel are feeling uncertain in consequence of the unsettled problems raised by the national recovery program. Steel prices will not have a firm foundation until wages in the coal industry are settled, the sellers feel. Although strike disturbances in the western Pennsylvania coal fields have largely ceased, the journal says, no definite decision on wage rates and working conditions has been reached, pending the adoption of a code for the coal industry.

On the other hand, many iron and steel consumers, "having raised wages and shortened hours, now fear that they cannot obtain compensatory increases in their prices, realizing only too well that the final arbiter on prices is the ultimate consumer. They are particularly apprehensive of losses on fixed price contracts taken before they subscribed to the blanket code."

Delay Buying Materials.

Such consumers are unwilling to make further purchases of materials until some of the problems provoked by the new national program have been cleared up.

The automobile industry shows most clearly the seasonal recession in steel demand, according to the Iron Age. The industry has reached an interim in which it has practically completed its purchases of steel for current models and will probably not start buying for new models until late in September.

"But code complications also have affected the attitude of motor car builders," says the Iron Age. "Hesitating to risk an advance in their retail prices during the remainder of this year, they face higher costs coincident to the new basis of wages and hours under which they are now working, together with chronic labor difficulties growing out of persistent efforts to unionize their plants.

Resist New Price Policy.

"Under the circumstances, they are in a mood to offer stubborn resistance to the one price policy on steel which will become effective with the adoption of the iron and steel code."

Railroad buying is still small. A decline of traffic in drought stricken agricultural districts has made western lines more cautious about expenditures.

Structural steel awards amounted to 6,500 tons, compared with 8,450 tons a week ago. Both structural steel and concrete bar lettings are suffering because of the slowness with which the public works program is getting under way.

PUBLIC SERVICE OF N. J. NET RISES AS GROSS DROPS

Although gross earnings of Public Service Corporation of New Jersey and subsidiaries decreased $417,040 to $9,270,778 in July from $9,687,818 in July, 1932, net income from operations showed an increase of $181,665 to $3,282,907 for last month, and balance available for dividends and surplus, an increase of $184,205 to $2,032,672, in comparison with July, 1932.

For the twelve months ended July 31, 1933, gross earnings were reported at $118,731,453, against $131,246,240 in the preceding year. Net income from operations amounted to $42,030,084, compared with $44,586,271, and the balance available for dividends and surplus, $26,786,263, against $30,235,057 for the like period of 1931-'32.

ELECTRIC POWER MAINTAINS GAIN OVER YEAR AGO

Chicago Output Up 16.7% Last Week.

Electric power output for both the nation and the Chicago district for the week ended Aug. 12 showed, in comparison with output of the like week in 1932, gains that were only a shade less than those the preceding week had shown.

Output for the Chicago district amounted to 96,905,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 83,008,000 in the parallel week of 1932, an increase of 16.7 per cent. The gain for the preceding week was 17.2 per cent.

Production of electricity for the United States was 15 per cent more than in the same week of last year, against 15.6 per cent for the week ended Aug. 5, according to the Edison Electric institute.

Reasons for Decline Cited.

The aggregate for last week was 1,627,339,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 1,650,013,000 in the preceding week, and reflected both a seasonal decline and some slackening in industrial operations. Production for the comparable week of 1932 was 1,415,122,000 kilowatt hours.

Aug. 12	96,905,000	83,008,000	16.7
Aug. 5	97,856,000	83,354,000	17.3
July 29	97,850,000	84,252,000	15.9
July 22	96,754,000	86,275,000	12.1

Among the five major territorial divisions, three recorded gains in output that were slightly less than in the preceding week, and two recorded larger gains.

Gain in Central Region.

Electricity output in the central industrial region showed an advance of 21 per cent over output in the same period of 1932, compared with 22.7 per cent a week ago. Output in the middle Atlantic region increased 10.8 per cent, against 12.8; and in New England, 19.4 per cent, against 21.3.

On the other hand, in the southern states production rose 17.4 per cent over that in the like period of 1932, compared with 17 per cent in the preceding week; and an improvement of 6.8 per cent was shown by the Pacific coast, against 5.9 the week before.

New York, Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Quiet dealings in bonds on the stock exchange today resulted in generally lower prices for corporation issues and irregularly lower prices for foreign loans. United States government bonds closed generally higher, up 4-32 point to 3-32 off. The turnover for the listed market was $8,905,000, compared with $7,931,000 on the previous day.

A long list of the active domestic corporation bonds were down fractionally to 3½ points, with a few less active issues showing greater losses. In general, the railroad issues showed the principal losses, with especial weakness appearing in the obligations of the Denver and Rio Grande Western, Great Northern, Missouri Pacific, New Orleans, Texas and Mexico, Southern Pacific and the Wabash.

In the foreign group, French government loans eased fractionally, Austrian government bonds were down ¾ point to 2 points and German government 5½s and 7s were up 1 point and off ¼, respectively. Dutch East Indies loans were bid up 2⅝ to 2 points and Italian government 7s a point. Cuban government bonds were inclined to be easier. In the South American list, Argentine government loans exhibited further strength.

Bond prices on the curb exchange drifted lower in dull trading. The setbacks ranged from small fractions to more than 3 points in the domestic issues. The lightly traded foreign loans closed 3 points lower to 2¼ points higher.

Chicago Joint Stock Land Bank.

Can you give me some information regarding the provisions of a recently announced plan for the reorganization of the Chicago Joint Stock Land bank?—T. F.

Answer: Gertler, Devlet & Co., municipal bond house, recently announced a plan for the reorganization of the Chicago Joint Stock Land bank, which went into receivership a year ago. The company claims as the chief merit for its plan machinery whereby the assets of the bank may be liquidated over a period of years, obviating the necessity for forced sale now with resultant losses.

The plan embraces the following points:

1. The setting up of a new corporation to acquire the assets of the present bank.

2. Bondholders who elect to participate in the reorganization shall receive: [a] new twenty year 4½ per cent bonds or notes of the new corporation of a face value equal to two-thirds of the face value of their present bonds, and [b] four shares of common stock of the new corporation for each $1,000 face value of present bonds surrendered in exchange for such new bonds and shares.

3. Bondholders who elect to withdraw from the situation entirely shall receive $400 cash for each $1,000 face value of present bonds upon surrender of the present bonds and release of all claims.

4. Where bondholders elect to receive cash the common stock of the new corporation which would have been issued to them is to go to Gertler, Devlet & Co., or its nominees, and be dealt with as follows: There is to be issued or transferred to each depositing stockholder one share of common stock of the new corporation for each five shares deposited, and if the shares received by the plan organizer under this provision are insufficient, then such shares as are received are to be distributed pro rata among the depositing shareholders. If any shares remain after distribution, the remaining shares shall constitute the compensation of Gertler, Devlet & Co. as reorganization manager.

5. The plan is subject to the following contingencies: Consummation of the purchase of the assets of the bank from the receiver upon terms consistent with the necessities of the plan. The deposit of sufficient bonds and shares to warrant the declaring of the plan operative. The obtaining of consent to issue new securities.

Gertler, Devlet & Co. state that they are assuming the expenses of the depositary and the legal expenses involved in the reorganization, receiving their compensation under the provisions of section 4. Preliminary deposit of bonds and shares is requested by the company pending specific depositary agreements in the event the plan is worked out.

UNITED AIR LINES SHOWS BIG GAIN IN PASSENGERS

Travelers Offset Cut in Mail Payments.

United Air Lines carried 15,462 passengers last month. That figure amounts to twenty per cent more passengers than traveled over the nation-wide system in the entire year of 1930 and approximates one-third of the system's passenger traffic in 1931 and one-sixth of the passenger traffic last year. The figure also represents an increase of 45 per cent over July last year.

More than two-thirds of last month's passengers, or 11,204, traveled between points on the transcontinental route. The balance flew on the Chicago to southwest, Pacific coast or the Kansas City-Watertown divisions. The traffic last month set a record for any air line during any single month, according to W. A. Patterson, vice president of the line.

Passenger Travel Mounts.

The recent growth of passenger traffic on United Air Lines, which has the lion's share of the passenger travel, in comparison with the corresponding months of last year, is as follows:

May	8,592	8,367
June	13,170	9,023
July	15,462	10,690

Steadily increasing air mail volume reported by United Air Lines for this summer indicates rapidly improving business conditions, in the opinion of Mr. Patterson. The volume by months, in pounds, with corresponding figures for last year, follow:

	1933	1932
June	275,551	323,623
July	286,465	*245,337

*The postal rate was increased from 5 to 8 cents for the first ounce in July, 1932.

Miles flown by United Air Lines last month increased 23 per cent over the mileage for the preceding month. Miles flown this summer, with corresponding figures for last year, follow:

	1933.	1932
May	1,085,839	1,100,981
June	1,171,681	1,082,001

Air Mail Payments Drop.

In connection with these statistics, Mr. Patterson pointed out that passenger traffic has become the salvation of the air mail lines in the last three years because of the constantly decreasing air mail payments.

The last cut in air mail payments, amounting to 25 per cent, took effect last month, he said. Those reductions would have hampered the development of United Air Lines materially if passenger traffic had not been developed rapidly to provide an increasing proportion of the total revenue. United Air Lines now flies 31 per cent of its daily schedules of 50,050 miles, of 15,000 miles a day, without air mail. Air express volume is growing, he added, but it has not yet become a major source of revenue.

COTTON SELLS OFF $2 BALE, BUT RALLIES ON BUYING

A decline of $2.00 a bale on cotton in the morning was due to liquidating and short selling pressure from the south. Buying developed on the decline, which brought about a rally. The close was at net losses of 11 to 27 points on futures in Chicago, while New Orleans lost 8 to 14 points on futhres, and 15 points on spots, to 8.55 cents. New York futures declined 12 to 18 points, and 20 points on spots to 8.65 cents. Galveston was 8.15 cents; Houston, 8.55 cents. Liverpool was off 14 to 15 points.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Gray goods markets were weak today in the cotton cloth division and trading light. Finished cottons sold moderately. Rayon yarns for October were in demand. Inactivity in wool dress goods was attributed to the general strike in the dress goods industry. Silk goods continued in light call. Burlaps eased a little on light business.

HOGS CONTINUE RECENT TRENDS; AVERAGE DROPS

Weighty Kinds Lower and Light Grades Strong.

Weighty hogs again submerged to new low price depths for recent weeks yesterday, while lights and light butchers maintained a strong basis, in spots selling slightly higher. This has been the trend for several days—big weights heading downward, while top lightweights rule higher.

Since the first of the month hogs exceeding 250 pounds in weight have gone down 25 to 50 cents, the sharpest losses on those over 300 pounds in weight. The top price in this time has held steady, yesterday's peak at $4.65 being the same as on Aug. 1. The general average sank another 5 cents yesterday to the $3.90 line, the lowest it has been since May 6. The spread of 75 cents between the top and average stands widest since August of last year.

Prices Slipping Off.

Current quotations are 15 to 25 cents lower than a year ago and about half way back to the 54 year low marks established during the last winter, when top grades of hogs dropped down to $3 and the average touched $2.80 one day. Yesterday's various grades sold $1.30 to $1.75 under the 1933 high, but $1.10 to $1.65 over the low point of the 1932-'33 winter.

The cattle market yesterday behaved surprisingly well under the pressure of excessive receipts, the bulk of the good grades clearing at prices in line with those in the preceding session, notwithstanding strenuous efforts on the part of the packers to drive quotations lower. Yesterday's receipts of 12,000 brought the three day total at Chicago to 40,100, which compared with 31,708 for the first half of last week and with 29,686 a year ago.

Top Steers Bring $7.15.

Prime weighty steers topped the market to Armour at $7.15, but only a comparatively sm share of the total number on the market was eligible to more than $6.75. Most of the steers were of the class selling within a range of $5.50 to $6.75, those below the inside figure being comparatively scarce and in fairly good demand. Very few sold downward from $4.50, although occasional lots of ill-bred dairy steers were discovered as low as $2.

Lambs tumbled 25 to 50 cents in value, closing at the full decline under severe sorting. One lot of natives to a city butcher reached $8, but the bulk sold to packers under heavy sorts at $7.50 and below, with culls at $4.75 and under.

SOLUTION TO THE BEARDED BUTLER

Fordney believed that the letter, torn pieces of which he found in the waste basket, was addressed to a man because one of the scraps read "Your daughter and her mother." Get it? Had the letter been addressed to a woman this phraseology would hardly have been used. Get it?

FULL OFT HAVE LETTERS CAUSED THE WRITERS TO CURSE THE DAY THEY WERE INDITERS. —Butler.
